BABYSITTER HELD

DUNCAN — A 16-year-old boy was to appear in Family Court here today charged with second degree murder in connection with the weekend death of a two-and-a-half-year-old child.

Duncan RCMP said Gurgit Singh Dhaliwal was found dead in a house at 6210 Hawkes Boulevard about 10 a.m. Saturday.

Results of an autopsy conducted in Victoria Sunday have not been released but a police spokesman indicated today the child died of multiple injuries from blows.

The spokesman said the dead child's parents were not at home and the accused juvenile had been babysitting the Dhaliwal boy and one other child at the time of the incident.

The second child was not harmed.

$3.6 Billion For Booze

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians purchased alcoholic beverages valued at $3.688 billion in the year ending March 31, 1977, up 8.2 per cent from the previous year, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

The value of imported spirits, wines and beers sold fell to $164 million from $170 million the previous year but the country sold $257 million abroad, up slightly.

MUNRO DEMANDS TALKS

Vacation Plan Chaos As Travellers Panic

Travellers panicked by the impending Air Canada strike are either cancelling vacations, transferring to U.S. airlines or using any other means to leave Victoria.

According to reports from across Canada, the situation here is typical.

Meanwhile, it was reported today that Federal Labor Minister John Munro has asked representatives of Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association to meet him today in an effort to avert a strike by the pilots.

Captain Norman Foster, chief negotiator for the pilots said in an interview that he received "a very specific request from Mr. Munro to meet in Ottawa."

Local travel agencies report they are struggling under a gigantic logistics problem caused by people who don't want to take a chance with their holidays.

Most agencies worked until midnight Monday making alternate arrangements, which for the most part means flying people to the U.S.

People returning to Victoria from vacations elsewhere in Canada and abroad are also being rerouted through the states.

CP Air phone lines have been jammed since Sunday when the strike possibility was announced, according to an airlines spokesman.

He said there is little CP Air can do because it is at its late summer peak and booked solid.

CP Air is allowed to handle 25 per cent of all transcontinental flights compared with the 75 per cent allotted to Air Canada, the spokesman said.

"This is an abnormal situation. All our equipment is committed and there is very little we can do to take up the slack."

Greyhound Bus Lines reports long lineups materialized Monday at its Victoria terminal after the news of a possible shutdown Wednesday midnight by Air Canada.

Via Rail has had a sudden increase in reservations.

Airline officials estimate about 40,000 persons use the airline daily at this time of year and a strike would cost the airline about $2.5 million a day.

According to Eric Charman of Featherstone Travel, the economic damage caused by the strike threat is irreparable, even if negotiations resume.

"The damage has been done; the revenue has been lost to Canada. That's more money out of the country," Charman said today.

Charman said this air service disruption is another major disaster to the Canadian tourist industry because Canada is getting a bad reputation.

"People are starting to wonder what the hell is going on in Canada."

He said a lot of disappointed people who have been

Pet shop owner Hubertus Kaatz chucks chin of $219.99 merchandise

Bandit the Pet Raccoon Steals Lots of Attention

A Victoria pet store has a raccoon for sale for $219.99 and Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals manager Don Adams isn't too happy about the idea.

Adams says his organization would like a ban on raccoons as pets but as long as the animals are given adequate food, water and shelter it is powerless to act.

The 10-week-old raccoon, Bandit, has drawn a great deal of attention since he arrived at the Sea Shore Pet Shop at the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Store owner Hubertus Kaatz says Bandit's high price tag is due to the fact he was born and hand-raised on a Californian raccoon breeding farm.

Kaatz warns that owning a raccoon is demanding. "They need lots of attention. I don't really care if I do sell him," he says.

Kaatz says raccoons should never be left alone at large in a home because of the likelihood of their going on the rampage.

Bandit was raised on a bottle and fed a special formula including milk, pablum, dog and cat food.

Kaatz warns that prospective purchasers should be sure they are prepared to give the animal the attention it needs.

As they get older, raccoons become more demanding and rambunctious and should be spayed or neutered to cut down on temperament problems.

"The female is usually okay for about a year until she reaches her first sexual cycle. Then she becomes very aggressive. The male becomes aggressive sooner," Adams says.

He says when this happens the owner often sets the animal free but by that time the damage is done. The racooon has no fear of people. "They actually attack people."

He says a friend of his was severely bitten on a leg and foot when he entered a Pat Bay garage where the owner keeps four or five raccoons.

The provincial government's wildlife act allows people to keep a maximum of two wild raccoons as pets but officials do not recommend the practice.

Clio Matheson of the Wild Life Reserve of Western Canada says raccoons are very gentle for the first three months and then become aggressive.

Provincial fish and wildlife officer Jack Lenfesty says released raccoons can become dangerous if they are cornered.

He says the wild raccoon population is on the increase. "They are a damn nuisance. They can make a shambles of an ornamental lily pond if they get into it looking for frogs."

His advice: "Don't feed them. Don't encourage them."

Instant Provincial Winnings

TORONTO (CP) — A new feature of The Provincial lottery, enabling ticket holders to be eligible for instant prizes, is the corporation's answer to Loto Canada's instant money pouches, the president of the Interprovincial Lottery Corporation said Monday.

During a news conference held to announce four additional $1-million grand prizes and the new instant prizes in The Provincial, Marshall Pollock said that "we're fighting very hard to increase our share of the market."

Starting with tickets for the September draw, Provincial ticket holders would be able to scratch off a silver-grey covering in one corner of the ticket that could reveal a prize of $100, $20, $10 or a free-ticket bonus.

NEY GOES FROM TUBS TO TUBES

Entries are pouring in for the Great Inner Tube Race which goes Sept. 10 and a man better known in connection with tubs will be front and centre come race day.

The tube race, sponsored by the Victoria Times and organized by the Hampton Park Hustlers, will have as its pre-splash parade marshall, none other than Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney.

Ney, who has been heavily involved in Nanaimo's bathtub race for years, will arrive in a pirate costume (and who knows, may even be coerced into trying out a tube).

See page 17 of today's Times for more details on the race, a map of the course and an entry form.

Railmen Vote To Stay Out

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — About 300 British Columbia Railway workers in this north central B.C. city voted unanimously Monday night to continue a wildcat strike which began Sunday.

Union spokesman said workers agreed to remain off the job because BCR withdrew an offer that it would take no reprisals against strikers when they returned to work.

A wage offer made by BCR was also rejected because the union said it exceeded federal anti-inflation guidelines and would never be accepted by the government.

The Joint Council of Railway Unions, representing seven BCR unions, said it had nothing to do with the strike.

A spokesman for the strikers said they prefer to deal directly with the government because they do not trust third-party negotiators.

The strike started when about 150 BCR workers here saying they were tired of waiting for an official strike vote, walked off the job.

VICTORIA MAN STAB VICTIM

A 22-year-old Victoria man is dead from stab wounds and two Victoria-area youths are in custody following a street fight in Edmonton early today.

Charged with second degree murder are David Edgar Roy Graves and Andrew John Carter, both 18 and from the Greater Victoria area.

They were to appear in Edmonton provincial court this afternoon.

The name of the dead man has not been released.

An Edmonton police spokesman said three youths became involved in a fight in front of the Hotel Corona on Jasper Avenue about 3 a.m.

As police arrived the three ran off, but the victim collapsed about a block away.

He was taken to hospital where he died an hour later from massive stab wounds.

Pat Hirsche, senior investigator for the medical examiner's (coroner's) office said the victim had been tentatively identified through a social security card in his pants pocket.

A man who was in the emergency ward of the Royal Alexandra Hospital when the victim was brought in said he heard one of the ambulance attendants say he was stabbed after an argument involving three other men.

John Mendoca described the scene as bloody.

"He was just full of blood all over," Mendoca said.

Kenya's Kenyatta Dies

NAIROBI (UPI) — Jomo Kenyatta, leader of the Mau Mau black rebellion of the 1950s who went on to become president of one of the most moderate nations in Africa, died peacefully in his sleep today, the government announced.

He was about 85 though his exact birthdate was never established.

His death left the battle for the nation's leadership wide open.

Once described by British colonial Governor Sir Patrick Renison as a "leader to darkness and death," Kenyatta, the last of Africa's modern nationalist politicians, became president on Kenya's independence in 1963. He confounded his white critics by keeping the East African nation firmly in the Western camp.

His nationalist activities earned him the nickname "Burning Spear" from his devoted Kikuyu fellow tribesmen.

Kenyatta died at Statehouse in the Indian Ocean port of Mombasa, an official statement said.

The government ordered all flags in this moderate East African nation to be flown at half mast and urged the country's 16 million people to remain calm.

B.C. Fish Firm Wants Seized Boat Back

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver fishing company has begun legal proceedings to retrieve a $30,000 fishing boat being held following the arrest of a Vancouver fishermen charged with illegally fishing in United States waters.

The boat was rented by Joseph Herioshi Negero, a Vancouver gillnetter. Negero, who appeared before a federal magistrate in Port Angeles Monday, is the first Canadian fisherman taken into custody in the Pacific region since the reciprocal fishing agreement between the two countries broke down June 4, said a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman.

Terry Olson, Canadian Fishing Co. Ltd. spokesman, said today that Negero rented the 32-foot steel-hulled gillnetter from the company for the season.

The company has no control over where its boats are used, he said.

Negero appeared in U.S. federal court Monday and was released without bond. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 30 in Seattle.

The maximum penalty for fishing in U.S. waters is a $100,000 fine and six months in jail, said the coast guard. If Negero is convicted, the U.S. government has the option of keeping the vessel or returning it to the owner.

The coast guard cutter Point Countess seized the boat Sunday night after cutter personnel spotted it fishing about 900 metres inside U.S. territorial waters, 28 kilometres west of Port Angeles.

CBC Victoria On Economy Skids?

The fate of the CBC's new $7 million television station in Victoria was thrown into doubt Monday when Treasury Board president Robert Andras singled it out as a project under scrutiny in the federal government's spending cutback.

An announcement on the Victoria station would probably come within three weeks.

Andras said the television station, construction of which is well-advanced on Blanshard, and a proposed $100 million federal office building in Vancouver are the type of projects under review as part of Ottawa's plans to cut $2.5 billion from federal expenditures before 1980.

The CBC will have $71 million less next year than it had anticipated.

CBC regional director Len Lauk said in Vancouver today the Andras announcement means the CBC will be reviewing all its projects across Canada, looking for ways to cut spending.

He said construction of the Victoria station is at an advanced stage but the project would still be reviewed.

"The CBC may look at it again," Andras said of the Victoria station. "The plans for the station may be pretty far advanced, it may be late in the game, but the CBC would be wise to take a second look."

Also placed in doubt by Andras is the proposed new federal building in Vancouver which would house numerous government agencies under its roof. The building, now in the design stage, would cover an entire block in the city's downtown area.

The project should be subject to a second look by the federal public works department, said Andras, adding that the final decision on various projects rests with individual departments.

Andras refused to be pinned down on specifics of federal spending cutback plans and their impact on B.C. He would only say that various federal ministries will give details in the next several weeks.

The treasury board president said however that specific suggestions about where the cuts should be made went to his cabinet colleagues along with the list of departmental budget cuts he released Aug. 16.

Andras said the government is responding to a feeling across the country that government spending has to be held within bounds.

"The spending cuts are broad enough that we'll probably have everybody angry at us over one thing or another."

Brewery Just Too Tempting

A thirst for Canadian beer got the better of two men who were discovered early today inside Labatt's brewery on Government Street.

The men, aged 23 and 35, were found sitting on a beer skid in the brewery's warehouse by a security officer making his rounds at 2:30 a.m. An open case of beer rested beside them.

The security officer called police who took the pair into custody without incident.

A police spokesman said the men entered the premises by climbing over a steel fence and jimmying open a door to the warehouse.

They were to appear in provincial court charged with breaking and entering.

Meanwhile, breweries and their workers resumed negotiations in the 2½-month strike-lockout stalemate Monday and talks are to continue today.

Neither negotiator Clark Gilmour nor the union or the brewery negotiators would say where the talks were being held in Vancouver, and none of the negotiators was available for comment at the end of the session.

Cuts Savage: CBC President

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC president Al Johnson called the government's budget cuts "savage" Monday, and said the broadcasting corporation will have to slow down its development of more Canadian programs.

"This cut in the CBC's budget, I am sad to say, seems to represent a willingness on the part of the government — conscious or otherwise — to accept what amounts to a continuing drift toward cultural colonialism in Canadian broadcasting," Johnson said in a statement.

The statement was issued after the board of directors met to decide how the CBC can trim $71 million out of its planned budget for the fiscal year starting next April 1.

The CBC's appropriation for the current fiscal year from Parliament is $522 million, and it was expected to go up $71 million next year under a five-year budgeting plan. Robert Andras, president of the treasury board, announced last week the increase will not be made.

Johnson said the cut is savage, and the consequences on coverage plans and programs are "bound to be severe."

He said there now is no possibility of realizing the CBC's ambitions for 1979 in carrying more Canadian programs on its English network, in broadening the French TV service, in expanding regional production, or in making further progress in broadcasting drama and arts shows on CBC Radio.

Ancillary activities, such as Radio Canada International, the voice of Canada abroad, will be subject to rigorous re-examination, and administrative expenditures will be cut to rock bottom.

Johnson also said the board decided that under no circumstances should the overall effect of the cuts in programming diminish the CBC's reflection of Canada's two linguistic communities, or its reflection of regional and ethnic identities.

Dartmouth Woman Sought

Esquimalt police appealed to the public today for help in locating Mrs. Yvonne Colman, a visitor from Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

A police spokesman said the woman is sought in connection with an urgent family matter.

Mrs. Colman is believed to be visiting an Armed Forces serviceman's family somewhere in the Greater Victoria area.

Wolfe Says He's Pleased With Cost-Cutting Tenor

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Finance Minister Evan Wolfe expressed cautious optimism today despite the news Ottawa intends to rework a number of federal-provincial cost-sharing agreements.

"We support the long-overdue indication they plan to cut expenses," Wolfe said.

But at the same time, he said, B.C. is most interested to know where the cuts will come.

Wolfe said he is pleased with the news that Ottawa will enter into discussions with the province before implementing any changes.

"Unilateral changes could throw provincial budgets into disarray," he said.

The minister said he expects Ottawa will want to cut taxes.

If for example, Ottawa wants a one per cent income tax cut, this would mean an immediate loss of $10 million for B.C.

The Canada Assistance Plan currently brings in about $250 million to B.C. to help the province with welfare and other human resources programs.

This agreement is now on a 50-50 sharing basis, but Ottawa has indicated it would prefer to make a single annual block payment.

Wolfe said provincial officials will monitor carefully Ottawa's plans in this area.

But Wolfe said provincial officials believe changes in this agreement — or in other major cost-sharing programs such post-secondary education, health and hospital care — will need changes in legislation.

And although Ottawa could introduce legislative changes at any time, Wolfe noted that under existing legislation five years' notice is supposed to be given.

Another concern of B.C. arising from Trudeau's message is the word that Ottawa may wish to invoke the termination clause in some of the joint agreements.

Wolfe said he is curious about what programs may be chosen.

Two areas where B.C. is expecting changes are northern development grants and DREE programs.

Prime Minister Trudeau sent a message to the premiers officially informing them some changes will be made as Ottawa attempts to trim its budget by about $2.5 billion.

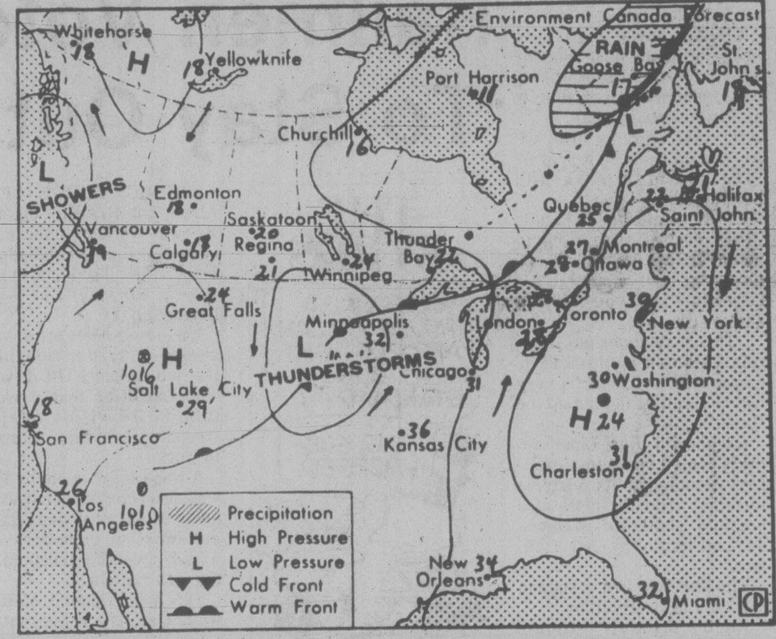
the weather



Map valid until noon Wednesday

A centre of low pressure continued to move down the B.C. coast overnight. Cloud associated with it had spread over much of the province by daybreak. Overnight a few showers occured over northern B.C. with occasional rain along much of the coast. During the next two days rain is expected to become more extensive over the south coast while the southern Interior can expect an increase of showery weather along with the odd thundershower. Daytime temperatures will continue to remain below the seasonal normals and indications are for no change in the present weather pattern in the near future.

Kenya's Burning Spear Extinguished After 50 Years In Politics

began to close as word of the president's death was repeatedly broadcast on state radio.

Vice President Daniel Arap Moi immediately assumed the duties of interim president.

Presidential elections will take place in three months, the government said.

Kenyatta was one of the last of Africa's original national leaders who fought for independence, then led his emerging nation once freedom was achieved.

He was active in politics for more than 50 years and survived all his contemporaries such as Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah.

Kenyatta is widely said to have been the leader of Kenya's grisly Mau Mau insurrection in the 1950s against the country's British overlords in which 14,000 persons were killed.

He denied taking part in the revolt, and when he became the newly independent nation's first president in 1963, he enlisted help from England as well as the United States to build one of the most stable and prosperous countries in Africa.

He practiced middle-of-the-road economic policies, moderate racial stands and nominal non-alignment.

But he cracked down hard on Communists and leaned heavily toward the United Kingdom and later the United States for help in fending off Soviet domination.

He devoted 40 per cent of the country's budget to education. Under his leadership, sometimes referred to by critics as a benevolent dictatorship, the administration built more roads, schools and hospitals per capita than most countries in black Africa.

Kenyatta's earliest days are shrouded. He probably was born in 1891, the son of a farmer and herdsman and grandson of a witch doctor in the heart of Kikuyu country not far from Nairobi. The Kikuyu are Kenya's largest and most industrious tribe.

Even Kenyatta later admitted, "I do not know when I was born — what day, what month, what year."

In 1909 he enrolled in a Church of Scotland mission, learned carpentry and basic reading and writing skills.

By 1914 he was battling with the church over its power and the tribal practice of female circumcision.

"When the missionaries arrived, the Africans had the land and the missionaries had the Bible," Kenyatta said. "They taught us to pray with our eyes closed. When we opened them, they had the land and we had the Bible."

He spent nearly 16 years in Europe, during which time he worked as an actor and roomed for a time with Paul Robeson, the black American singer.

SOUTH AFRICAN PRESIDENT DIES

CAPE TOWN (AP) — President Nicolaas Diederichs of South Africa died Monday after suffering his second heart attack in eight days. He was 74.

He had held the largely ceremonial office since his election by parliament in 1975. He is succeeded by Senate President Marais Viljoen, who was sworn in as acting president Aug. 14.

Diederichs had been in the intensive care unit of a Cape Town hospital since suffering the first heart attack Aug. 13. He was said to be in precarious condition after the second attack Sunday.

A former university lecturer, Diederichs was a founder of the Afrikaner nationalist movement, aimed at uplifting the descendants of the country's 17th century Dutch settlers. The National Party, which has dominated South African politics since 1948, grew out of the Afrikáner movement.

Diederichs was probably best known for his fight to keep gold as world monetary standard in defiance of most international experts. His support for gold in the 1920s and 1930s when special drawing rights or "paper money" was regarded as the answer to the world's monetary problems earned him the nickname Mr. Gold.

South Africa is the West's largest gold producer.

He was born in Ladybrand, in the Orange Free State Province, on Nov. 16, 1903.

Pinto 'Fix' Failed U.S. Tests

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — After announcing recalls of 1.5 million Ford Pintos and 30,000 Mercury Bobcats, Ford Motor Co. failed federal crash tests on the planned correction, the government safety agency said Monday.

However, additional corrections appear to have solved the problem of fires with cars involved in rear-end collisions, said Hal Parris, a spokesman for the national highway traffic safety administration.

The initial failure was first revealed in a letter from consumer advocate Ralph Nader to Henry Ford, chairman of the aut firm, before being confirmed by the safety administration.

Ford spokesman Chuck Gumushian said the company had no immediate comment on it and could not say if the additional corrections, if given final approval by the government, will delay the modifications. Ford earlier had said the free-of-charge modifications would begin in September.

Gumushian also said he could not say if the additional corrections would make the recall more expensive than the company estimated when it announced the recall June 9. Ford said then the cost would be $20 to $30 a car, or a total of about $40 million if all owners bring in their cars.

The Pinto has been the subject of much controversy about its safety. In one lawsuit, a California jury awarded a severely-burned teenager $128.5 million in damages because of a fiery explosion of a Pinto gas tank. A judge later reduced the figure to $6.6 million.

The models affected by the recall announced by Ford are all 1971-76 Pintos and 1975-76 Bobcats, except station wagons.

Nader, meanwhile, says Ford "has known for years how to make its Pinto fuel tanks safer" but delayed the recall to save money.

Ford has agreed to recall some 1.5 million Pintos to guard against exploding gasoline tanks. But Nader said the company is trying to delay the recall so there will be fewer of the 1971-76 model Pintos and Mercury Bobcats it will actually have to fix.

"While Pinto owners await notification by mail of the recall campaign, Ford Motor Co. is still trying to persuade the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to accept a cheap technical fix for the hazardous fuel tank design that will not meet minimum safety precautions," Nader said.

"For example, Ford's proposal to place a plastic shield and a longer fuel tank filler pipe in these Pintos has failed to pass NHTSA muster in recent unpublicized government-sponsored crash tests," he added.

"In short, it is a quiet corporate strategy designed to implicate NHTSA in any future public, congressional or judicial accusations of culpability," he said. "It is also a stategy that will consume additional months during which more Pintos are worn out or burnt out on the highway, leaving fewer Pintos o be recalled," he said.

Belfast Workers Gunned

BELFAST (AP) — An ambush squad opened fire with machine-guns Monday on a truck carrying county workers to a clean-up project, killing one and wounding six others, police said.

The gunmen apparently were lying in wait for the workers as they passed by outside the village of Belcoo on the County Fermanagh border with the Irish Republic. The workers were on their way to Lough Melvin, a nearby lake, where they were cleaning the shore.

Dozens of bullets hit the truck, but the driver drove straight through the hail of gunshots and reached a nearby house to raise the alarm.

The seven workmen inside the truck were taken to a hospital. One, a Roman Catholic in his mid-60s, was dead on arrival.

Meeting With Queen Not Secret: Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Government officials today denied a report from Buckingham Palace that a meeting between the Queen and former justice minister Ron Basford to discuss proposed changes in the constitution was kept quiet.

A spokesman for Federal Provincial Relations Minister Marc Lalonde said the June 15 meeting was public knowledge both in Canada and in Britain.

"I don't see what the big deal is. These allegations are completely unfounded. Mr. Baford even held a press conference in London after the meeting to say what had happened."

There was a news report June 15 of the Basford meeting quoting a spokesman in the prime minister's office.

The spokesman said said Lalonde had been deluged with phone calls following publication of a weekend report, which quoted a palace spokesman as saying: "They (the Canadians) preferred that it should be an entirely private exchange."

"I don't know who this spokesman is and where he got his information. Of course the meeting itself was private. Audiences with the Queen always are, but Mr. Basford was very open about it before and afterward."

Basford went to London in June to acquaint the Queen with the proposed changes in the constitution which the government was to introduce in Parliament on June 20.

One of these changes was a rewording of provisions describing the relationship between the Queen and the Governor-General. Some constitutional scholars and senators have complained the new constitution would lessen the role of the Crown, making the Queen a kind of deputy to the Governor-General. But Lalonde has repeatedly said the government's sole intention is to make formal on paper the existing arrangement.

13 Held In Cinema Carnage

TEHRAN (UPI) — Thirteen suspects faced interrogation today on their alleged involvement in the weekend moviehouse fire that killed at least 377 people in the Persian Gulf oil town of Abadan.

The cinema's manager and two employees were arrested along with 10 school teachers Monday.

Prime Minister Jamshid Amouzegar called a special cabinet meeting Monday. His spokesman challenged the opposition's underground groups to condemn the "carnage" unless they wish to be identified with the attackers.

Proposition Six

Of all the many ideas to arise from the tax revolt that began with Proposition 13 in California, one of the most carefully thought out must be one that arises from a non-profit group of private citizens, the Help End Inflation Association.

Dubbed Proposition Six by its creators, the proposition tries to take a more moderate and realistic stand than either the original Proposition 13 or most of its many imitators that have sprung up during the past few months. Instead of advocating dramatic, severe tax cuts immediately — without much explanation on where the cuts would come from — Proposition Six outlines a planned program to reduce taxes gradually over a six-year period.

The idea is that all taxes — federal, provincial and municipal — would be cut by six per cent per year for six years. At the same time spending and borrowing by all levels of government would be cut by six per cent per year and so would the total size of the civil service.

By the end of the six-year period, association chairman John Thornburgh explains, all taxes would have been reduced by 31 per cent. The 12 per cent hidden federal sales tax would be reduced to 8¼ per cent and the five per cent provincial sales tax would be down to 3½ per cent.

The program has clearly not yet been worked out in all its details. For example, another line in the proposal reads "balance the budget." But implementation of the program would not result in a balanced budget at the federal level; the federal deficit now is so large it would require much larger cuts than six per cent per year to do that within six years.

Also more work would be needed to develop a good plan for reducing the civil service by six per cent each year. Although turnover is normally much higher than that, it is not equally balanced among occupational categories — simply allowing attrition to take its toll might mean large numbers of executives would be left without secretaries or support staff since many more secretaries quit than do executives.

Despite these weaknesses, Proposition Six at least seems to be within the realm of practicality which is much more than can be said for most of the other tax revolt programs suggested. A six per cent reduction in government spending would not be easy to implement, but it could be done without massive disruptions in service to the public.

It is distressing that this basically sensible plan has had to come from a group of private citizens, rather than from any level of government. Proposition Six is far more realistic than the scheme proposed by Prime Minister Trudeau (which involves cuts that may or may not be real and, in any case, will not reduce over-all taxation by a penny), than the statements by Premier Bennett (who claimed "the tax revolt started here" despite all evidence of tax increases implemented by his government) or by Conservative leader Vic Stephens (who is considered the guru of the tax revolt in B.C. but has proposed a quite impractical scheme under which the government would have to cut more than $1 billion, or one-quarter of its budget, from its spending in a single year).

Proposition Six isn't the final answer to the problem of high taxes by any means but it is probably a good starting point for any government that is seriously interested in trying to find an answer.

Exorcizing the Demons

The obsession of Americans with the assassinations of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King has been taken to extraordinary lengths in the years since their tragic deaths. It is a fixation that verges on the necrophiliac.

Will the end ever be written? Probably not. The present investigation of their deaths by the U.S. House of Representatives is not uncovering much that is new or revealing, and conspiracy faddists will keep aflame the rumors and innuendo that someone, somewhere knows something but has been kept from telling the truth.

James Earl Ray has been given a new platform to deliver yet another version of the events in his shabby life leading up to the moment he pulled the trigger. Later, when the congressmen turn to the Kennedy assassination in Dallas we shall see a similar rehashing of incident and speculation.

Andrew Young, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, is guilty of saying some crazy things on occasion but on the subject of King's assassination he was never more lucid. He said that teaching young Americans about racism is more important than identifying the murderer or murderers. "I don't know — and I don't care if we will ever know who killed Dr. King. My hope is that the American people will get a better understanding of the kind of sickness that existed at that time." Sadly such sentiments are probably going to be consigned to the same repository with Young's bizarre statements on African politics and Soviet dissidents, which is a pity.

Why can't Americans accept the fact that dead is dead and nothing will bring back these good men? The obsessive investigative efforts of the last 15 years appear to stem more from Americans' unwillingness to face an ugly fact, that the U.S. is a violent place where firearms are easily available to every kook with a crazy grudge. Some conspiracy — of Cubans, Russians, Texas oilmen, the FBI and CIA — must be to blame. Millions of Americans at every level of society believe some shadowy group did the killings, and only a few more tests of tape recordings, a few more recreated versions of the original tragedies, yet another re-telling of events, will uncover the vital key that can unlock the names.

That is infinitely sadder than the assassinations themselves. That, and the continued free and easy access to guns more than a decade after the King and Kennedy killings are the real tragedies. Will the demons never be exorcized?

JOHN BEST

Why Change Queen's Role

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau is under attack from all sides over his proposals to rejig the constitutional position of the monarchy in Canada. The future role of the monarchy is shaping up as one of the most contentious parts of the government's sweeping constitutional reform bill, which also touches on such basic matters as the makeup of Parliament and of the supreme court.

It was probably good luck as much as bad management that caused the queen to be in Canada recently in the midst of the dispute starting to swirl around her head.

For the royal visit at this particular time served indirectly to bring into focus a reality that had been only dimly perceived: that the government is out to make some pretty basic changes to her place in the Canadian constitutional system.

Gladhanding Lougheed

The much-argued question of Trudeau's failure to be on hand to welcome the queen, and such one-day-wonder issues as Premier Lougheed's over-effusive gladhanding of the crowds gathered to see Her Majesty, were really very peripheral to the central issues which the queen's visit helped dramatize.

The Trudeau government's intentions towards the monarchy have been a subject of intensifying debate — not to mention confusion and uncertainty — since the prime minister unveiled his constitutional package two months ago.

Lately there has been a discernible growth in opposition to the federal proposals, manifested in such disparate channels as letters to the editor columns, a special Senate committee on the constitution, and a conference of provincial premiers. (The provinces fear that strengthening the position of the governor-general at the expense of the queen, which seems to be the thrust of the federal initiative, would tend to increse federal power at the expense of the provinces.)

One of the cardinal weaknesses of the proposed legislation in respect to the monarchy is its vagueness. Thus while the government insists that the queen would remain Canada's head of state, many Canadians suspect that the bill now before Parliament would effectively transfer this role to the governor-general. Constant nibbling at the prerogatives of the monarch under the present government have conditioned them to think this way.

The bill defines the queen as "the sovereign head of Canada." Is this the same as calling her the head of state? You might think so, but many Canadians remain unconvinced.

In future, the governor-general would exercise functions and authority in his own right, by the power vested in him by the constitution, rather than solely as the queen's representative.

Parliament would be made up of the two Houses and the governor-general, the Queen apparently being left out. Laws would be passed in the governor-general's own name.

QUEEN ELIZABETH
. . . plan definite downgrading

The governor-general would assent alone to new federal legislation and not, as at present, in the name of the queen.

In short, the government is proposing a fairly major realignment of functions and prerogatives, while contriving to give the impression that all that's involved is a little cosmetic tidying up and a little codification of established trends and practices.

Many Canadians have been seized with apprehension about the current drift of government policy. Why is it? Why, for that matter, do Canadians continue to accept a foreign monarch as their head of state, 50 years after their country cast off the last vestiges of colonialism and became fully independent?

The conventional wisdom holds that it is entirely due to Canadians' traditional love of the queen — or king as the case may be — and their respect for the British parliamentary institutions which they've inherited.

Our love and respect are held to be so unbounded that we balk at finally cutting the umbilical cord that ties us to the Crown. At the same time we show a weird combination of disdain for and fear of republicanism.

Stop the Tinkering

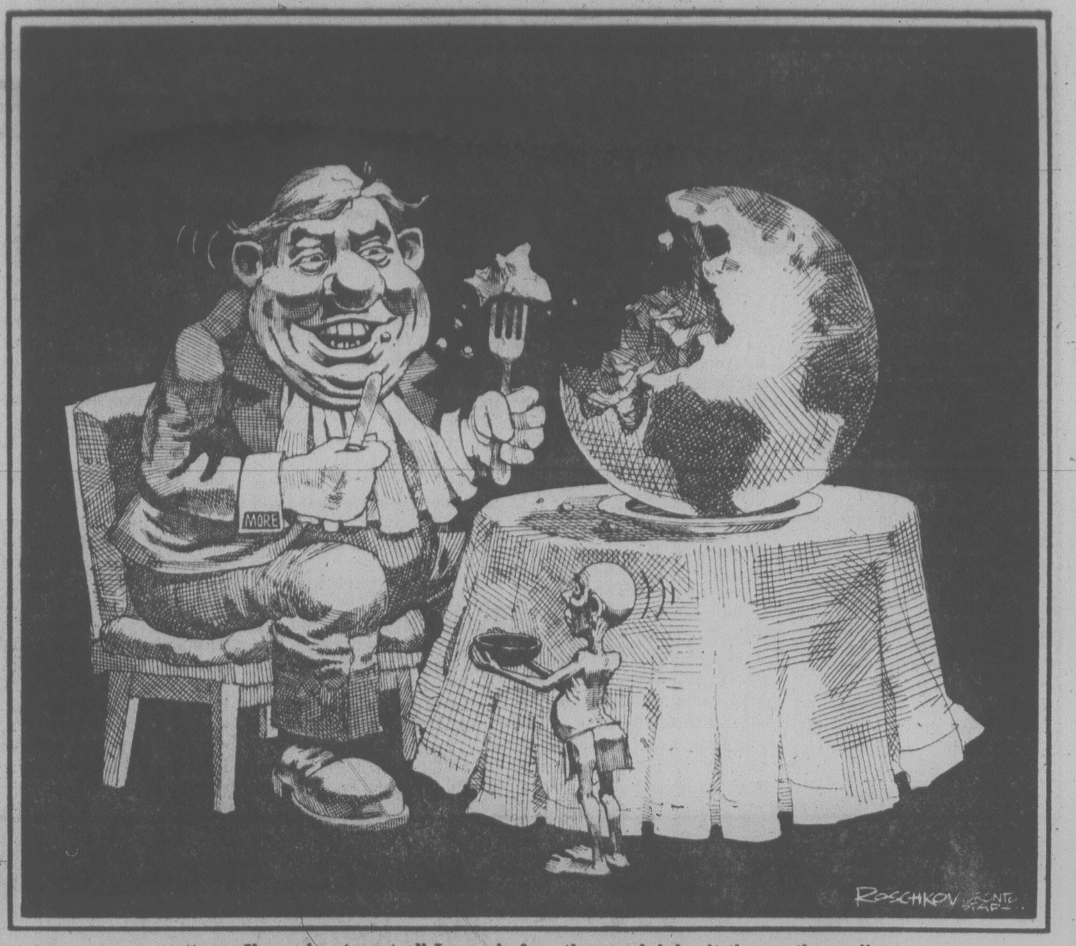
There is also a more pragmatic consideration, however, which most Canadians proably are little aware of or don't bother to think about. The present system gives Canada a head-of-state on the cheap. The British pay the equivalent of many millions of dollars annually to keep the royal family in business. Canada pays nothing towards its upkeep. Yet, when there is a centennial birthday to celebrate, or Olympic Games or Commonwealth Games to have opened in a fitting manner, in fact any time we are planning an event that we really want to do up brown, we have the royal family to call upon.

It's a handy and painless way for a country to indulge in some nationalistic fervor now and then on a high plane.

The British generally are too discreet to say what they think about this free ride which Canada gets on the British taxpayer; or perhaps, like many others, they are simply bewildered by the anomaly.

It is useful to note, however, that the British government made clear not long ago that it would not stand in the way of a unilateral move by the Canadian federal government — acting without the co-operation of the provinces — to repatriate the British North America Act.

The British may feel that one result of such a repatriation would be to encourage the Canadian government to decide once and for all whether it wants the monarchy, and to stop its present tinkering.



" . . . I'm going to get all I can, before the meek inherit the earth . . . "

Regionalization

Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis has attacked me for suggesting an examination of the feasibility of reducing the number of anomalous, separate local government boards we are plagued with. Even before hearing the pros and cons of the Capital Regional District absorbing the functions of the Greater Victoria water and library boards, he announced he would not tolerate it.

Rather than stamping his foot, Mr. Curtis should tell the citizens from Sidney to Sooke why he forbids us to even contemplate reducing the number of superflous boards while at the same time we would move to:

☐ Cut the very heavy water bills now imposed on residents of our outlying communities.

BAWLF

CURTIS

☐ Encourage more rational development, thereby saving our core area taxpayers from extra costs in trying to cope with forced congestion and wall-to-wall development.

☐ Provide our hard-pressed working farms, particularly in the Saanich peninsula and Metchosin areas, with cheaper bulk irrigation rates to help them survive and prosper as our traditional greenbelts.

☐ Unlock the abundance of tax-paid library resources existing here but unavailable directly to our general public, thus improving the access to books while lowering the mill rate.

Because of their parochial structure, both the water and library boards are confined to working in the interests solely of the "greater" Victoria establishment and its picked civic spokesmen. The ultimate result for taxpayers at large, even those in the city, is more government for less service at greater cost. Yet Mr. Curtis says we must not dare ponder alternatives.

For instance, we are endowed with one of the greatest concentrations of publicly-financed libraries in the country, including those at the Legislature, the University of Victoria, College of the Pacific, Royal Roads College and the major forestry, oceanographic and astrophysical complexes here. Apparently some are willing, under a properly coordinated program, to open their doors directly to the public. Perhaps the others could be persuaded. Greater resources, improved service and cost saving to taxpayers are obvious, but only from a broader perspective than the present parochial blinkers making readers and ratepayers the hostages of personal political ambitions.

Even worse is the domination by a couple of mayors and their cronies of the "Greater Victoria" water board which controls the entire Sooke Lake watershed. This arrangement has been a hidden but palpable disaster for all our taxpayers and residents. You need only look around to see how rational development and retention of Providence's gifts to this region have been stymied by this approach.

In blind pursuit of its own narrow interests, the water board's policies funnelled too much development too quickly into an amoeba-like expansion of the the urban centre. It's a repetition of the Los Angeles model. Core area ratepayers will have to bear extra taxes for decades to undo the harm already done. Meanwhile, the growth safety valves were shut off by water board policies which inhibited or twisted into costly sprawl the legitimate development of pockets of North Saanich, Sidney, Brentwood, Saanichton, Langford, Colwood and Sooke.

Even now, turning water wholesaling over to the regional board to equalize rates could foster economical development of the area's villages and towns while preserving the intervening farm belts, as in the British model. At the same time it would alleviate the escalating tax presures on the core area generated by unbalanced growth which, by the way, was at the root of California's Propsosition 13 revolt.

Even as the proposer, I recognize that the possibility of consolidating some of the counter-productive divisions in local government structures may yet prove to be unworkable. But at least it should be examined, as elected officials from all parts of the region have agreed. It serves no public good to prejudge or thwart such an examination. — Saanich Ald. John Mika.

Water Supply

On the Saanich Peninsula we have just completed one of the hottest and driest spells experienced in several decades. It is also the case that for the first time in many years there have been no restrictions in the use of water on the upper peninsula. Elk Lake is no longer available as a source of potable water. The large new pipeline is not yet functioning but the engineering staff of the Capital Regional Board have been able to provide a sufficient supply to serve the demands made upon them.

This was accomplished by the maximum use of the temporary line installed in 1977; filling all possible storage capacity in the night hours and cutting in ground water wells at peak demand time — wells which had been rested in the winter and spring. Careful manipulation of all possible facilities has allowed everyone on the upper peninsula to enjoy a good water supply without restrictions.

The Capital Regional District engineering department has taken its share of knocks. Let us give them credit in this case for an outstandingly good job of work.

For the chronic complainers, I wonder why it is that some residents of the north peninsula pay one dollar for a pint of beer, which is mostly water anyway, and scream to high heaven when asked to pay one quarter of one cent for a gallon of pure water delivered to his tap? — Jim Cumming, 1780 Land's End Road, Sidney.

Time for Change

It appears the building trades are about to settle for a $15 an hour package. More power to them! Based on a five-day week, seven-hour day this comes to about $2,300 a month.

This sounds like a great deal but the whole cost of living today is geared to wages of this kind which are needed to enjoy a reasonably good life.

The comic part is the comparison to the miserable pittance the aged are supposed to live on and enjoy worry and care, boredom and despair!

With the supplement a single pensioner gets $271 a month, a couple (if both are pensioners) $518 a mo)th. Worse off even than this are those with wives under 60!

Based on the same number of ways and hours of work this gives the single pensioner less than $2 an hour with which to buy food and lodging priced largely for the $10 to $15 an hour wage earner.

Ridiculous? Of course it is and doubling the old age pension wouldn't be enough! Then there are those hundreds on the borderline who do not qualify for a supplement and who are daily depleting any savings they may have.

Just don't tell the aged this is a land of milk and honey! More like a land of water and cull potatoes.

It's overtime for a change in this grossly unfair economic setup! — P. Simpson, 2536 Forbes Street.

Brutal Slaughter

While deeply concerned about the Soviet dissident trials, I am growing increasingly weary of hearing about human rights violations in that country. There is an unparalleled modern day holocaust taking place in Cambodia. The population of Cambodia has been totally enslaved by the Khmer Rouge government, who have indiscriminately and brutally slaughtered hundreds of thousands of their own people, men, women and children alike. Meanwhile the UN, and the so-called leader of human rights, the U.S., turn an apathetic, cold shoulder.

How can we, of the free world, justify the constant interference in internal Soviet matters, when the Khmer Rouge are still committing one poignant atrocity after another. — G. M. Stocks, Terrace Avenue.

Metric Measures

What is a poor housewife to do when the food companies cannot agree on metric measurements. For example: Loney's onion soup mix reads 32 fl. oz. = 909 ml, Lipton's soup mix reads: 32 fl. oz. = 950 ml; Kellogg's ½ tsp. = 2ml, Nestle's ½ tsp. = 3 ml. If 1 tsp. = 5 ml, how can either of the above be correct?

Some measurements read: ¼ cup = 50 ml, others read ¼ cup=65 ml.

If a five ounce can = 142g and a six ounce can = 170g, how can a 15 ounce can = 425g? — Mrs. R. Sawatsky, Victoria.

'Next Pope Must Learn from Paul's Mistakes'

THE ECONOMIST

The election of the next pope will be made by the most open conclave of under-80-year-old cardinals this century. Their choice, if he lives for even five or 10 years, will decide whether the Roman Catholic church is to be engulfed by the contradictions which already lapped at the foot of St. Peter's rock in the later years of Paul VI; or whether it is to rise above them as a Christian beacon in a secular world which may be starting to re-examine its wish to be secular. In this choice, no obvious candidate stands far ahead of the rest, as Cardinal Montini did in 1963. The next pope will define the kind of church that a majority of cardinals have decided, from among several choices, to have.

Two weeks before the last conclave, Montini — Paul VI to be — gave a sermon at Milan in which he said what Pope John's successor should do in 1963: he should continue the work of the second Vatican council. The decision before the church in 1978 would be made clearer were some of the leading candidates to be next pope, the papabili, to make similar declarations of where they stand. There should be no doubt in the breast of any caring Christian listening to those pre-election sermons, let alone of any caring Roman Catholic, what the winning candidate should say.

He should say that Christ's largest church (700 million Roman Catholics out of 1.2 billion Christians) is to be a beacon of faith to all (not just to some) Christians and of behavior to all (not just to some) men and women. Platitude? No. For, he should add, to be such a truly catholic beacon, the pope's own role should develop, and the church's own embrace correspondingly broaden. This does not mean that the next pope should tumble for every liberalizing fad: far from it. It is a time for spirituality; the backlash against the drabness, the lack of mystery in every newfangled liturgy of the past 20 years, for example, should be respected. It means rather, that the central role of the pope, and of his papacy, needs to be reconsidered. And that this in turn should enable Christ's largest church to open its doors in ways that it should have but has not yet done.

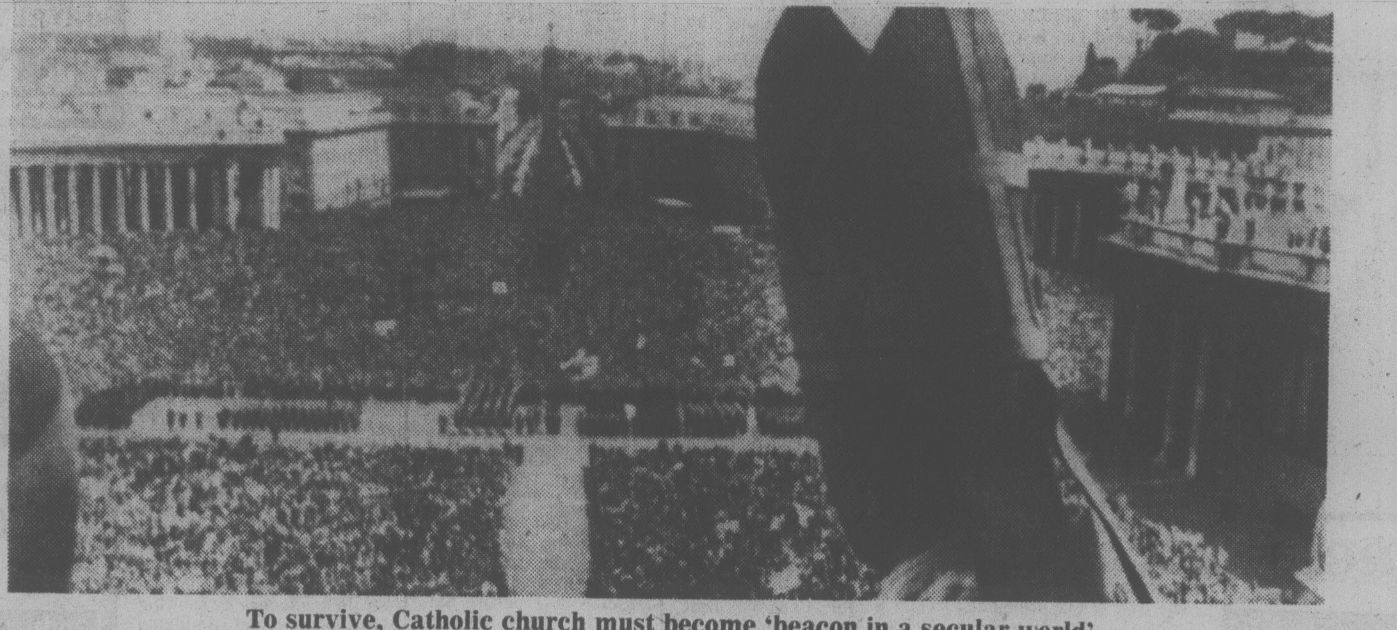
The next pope should, in short, learn from Paul VI's mistakes. The papacy needs to become primarily a centre of service. It should not continue as a dominating, curial, administrative and dogmatic force. The next pope should mark himself apart from the concept of the pope as ecclesiastical Caesar; this lies at the root of the present difficulties bequeathed to him by Paul and will, so long as it persists, render Christian reunion, even of the most desirable pluralist kind, impossible.

The tragedy of Pope Paul was in his position as a papalist, in his determination not to surrender any of the essential prerogatives of the Holy See. Torn between his intellect — making him a social and political liberal — and his deeply conservative theological heart, Paul VI grasped to himself the watershed decision against birth control. He would much better have left it to the council which was sitting at the time. From then on (the publication of Humanae Vitae in 1968) his reign as a pope for all Christians was lost.

It is Paul's obsession with the prerogatives of the papacy, his awe for the tradition which he held in trust, that the next pope should avoid. Holding on to those prerogatives vitiated Pope Paul's own reforms. The most important of these, the institution of the synod of bishops, was so hedged about by restrictions that it never become a genuine partner in church government; it was from birth no match for the curia. The synod could and should become such a major partner in the future. Future popes should see themselves as presiding over much broadened institutions, open to the world, such as the synod. In that way they could become, not the dogmatists of a narrow, decreasingly relevant institution, but the courts of appeal for a broadening, pluralist religion. Theirs should be not a primacy of honor but a primacy of service; their church not one in which anything goes, certainly, but one in which a broad and understanding centre of diversity comes to exist over time in the person of the pope.

An undercutting of the curia, a dilution of authority, the setting up, above all, of the pope as a spiritual leader above the battle would lead, perhaps automatically, to the main things that a confused Christian world is looking for from the next pope.

Christians — and would-be Christians — are looking not for secularism but for signposts to non-material values in a secular world. They are looking, to start with, for a church that has a 20th-century, not a first-century, view of half the people alive, namely women. That means, in turn, a more understanding view of sexuality among laity, and of sex (so marriage) for priests. It is likely to mean, at least in or by the next generation, women priests: Christ did not ordain women to turn bread into the body, but then neither did he fly in an airplane.



To survive, Catholic church must become 'beacon in a secular world'

A Great Bureaucracy Links Civilization's Two Great Ages

By HENRY FAIRLIE

The Washington Post

Macaulay was hardly a great friend of the Roman Catholic Church. He regarded its faith as not much better than superstition. He abhorred its record of intolerance. Yet in a magnificent passage he paid tribute to its longevity:

"No other institution is left standing which carries the mind back to the times when the smoke of sacrifice rose from the Parthenon, and when camelopards (early name for the giraffe) and tigers bounded in the Flavian amphitheatre . . . And she may still exist in undiminished vigor when some traveller from New Zealand shall, in the midst of a vast solitude, take his stand on a broken arch of London Bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's."

London Bridge has fallen down since then; at least it has been transported to Arizona. But still the death of a pope, and the election of his successor, are watched with more than curiosity. The eyes of the world are fixed on them as events of significance.

"The proudest royal houses are but of yesterday," as Macaulay went on, "when compared with the line of the Supreme Pontiffs." Milk-fed on evangelicalism and rationalism, he nonetheless was fascinated by this phenomenon.

Like Macaulay, I am not here concerned with divine authority and revelation, or with questions of faith and doctrine, but with the character and survival of a human institution, and one explanation is perhaps so obvious that we find difficulty in noticing it.

When Ronald Knox was asked why, although he was a monsignor of the church, he had not been to the Vatican, he replied in an effortless English way: "I don't see why a first-class passenger should go down to the engine-room." He was making a more serious point than it may at first seem. The Vatican is very much an engine-room. It is one of the great bureaucracies in the history of the world, and one thing that we know about bureaucracies is that they survive.

Mostly secret

An institution of such long life that is so far-flung; that has the ultimate supervision of so many churches and cathedrals, of their conduct and the appointments to them; that includes such great and diverse orders as the Benedictines and the Dominicans, the Franciscans and the Jesuits; that has doctrines to guard and reinterpret, heresies to undercover and pursue, rituals to maintain and perform, absolutions to grant and anathemas to pronounce, canon law to uphold and catechism to teach, saints to beatify and canonize, confessions to hear and dispensations to give; that has diplomacy in which to engage in this world, and its own special relationship to maintain with the next . . . the bureaucracy of such an institution is bound to be exceptional.

This bureaucracy has another advantage, in that it manages to elude the investigative reporters, as it has evaded most investigation down the centuries. Occasionally we catch a glimpse of it at work, are aware of a nuncio or a secretary who seems powerful, but for the rest it is secret. There is no right to know here.

In such privacy it can do its work, and its work (as with all bureaucracies) is primarily to conserve, adjusting only to conserve the better. For it has something to conserve that is beyond its own interests, as Macaulay observed as a non-Catholic, saying that its history "joins together the two great ages of human civilization," the ancient and the modern. This is a powerful idea to have at its command.

Gladstone was an Anglican. As a young man he visited Rome, and when he entered St. Peter's for the first time he experienced his "first conception of unity in the Church" and first longed for it to be realized. Here he felt "the pain and shame of the schism which separates us from Rome," which he blamed on Rome, "yet whose melancholy effects the mind is doomed to feel when you enter this magnificent temple, and behold in its walls the images of Christian saints and words of everlasting truth."

Great vitality

Seven years later he met Macaulay by accident in Rome, and these two English non-Catholics walked round St. Peter's, talking of the unity of the church, "an object in every human sense hopeless, but not therefore the less to be desired."

The impact of this revelation on Gladstone — for it was no less — had a profound influence on him. Through him its influence in the world was hardly less. The narrow provincialism of 19th-century liberalism was, as a result of his inspiration, transformed into an international concept of great vitality.

For his shame at the schism in Christendom made him search, as a politician in the secular world, for ways in which to restore the concert of Europe. But he did not stop there. When Britain was in dispute with America, he submtted the case to an international court of arbitration, the first time a great nation had sought and accepted such a rulng.

From that came the League of Nations, then the United Nations and other experiments in international cooperations. And all the time the vision in St. Peter's worked in him, of "a sublime construction, based throughout upon historical fact, uplifting the idea of the community in which we live." His own "great mutation" also changed the world.

A much deeper man than Macaulay, Gladstone was answering Macaulay's question, and answering it still as a Protestant: "How was it that Protestantism did so much, yet did no more, how was it that the Church of Rome, having lost a large part of Europe, not only ceased to lose, but actually regained nearly half of what she had lost?"

What he had sensed in St. Peter's was a body of such historical life that it transcended civilizations and nations and did indeed represent the brotherhood of man in the body of Christ. And his Protestantism did not make him disdain the vision.

Bernard Shaw also had something of the same inkling. One of the most powerful speeches in his "St. Joan" is that in which the Inquisitor warns against the dangers of nationalism. If people like Joan began to talk of entities like "France" or "England," then the body of Christ would be torn apart forever and the world go down in a welter of war.

Five centuries later it is not at all clear that the Inquisitor was wrong, and Shaw was a great dramatist partly because he saw the strength of his opponents' positions.

Although hardly pursued with a consistently clear dedication, the long mission of the church over the centuries has nevertheless been to ride above nationalism. It is today a more truly international body than any other in the world. Here is Macaulay again, writing in 1840:

"The number of her children is greater than in any former age. Her acquisitions in the New World have more than compensated for what she has lost in the Old. Her spiritual ascendancy extends over the vast countries which lie between the plains of the Missouri and Cape Horn, countries which, a century hence, may not improbably contain a population as large as that which now inhabits Europe."

Today he could have mentioned Africa, and even looked to parts of Asia. For it is as true as ever that "the papacy remains, not in decay, not a mere antique, but full of life and useful vigor." This is why the world's eyes are fixed on the death of a pope and the election of his successor.

I am no more a Catholic than Macaulay or Gladstone, but I cannot refuse the evidence that here is an institution that has the first of the qualities of an institution, that it is able to develop and adjust, but above all survive. It does not matter whether it is the Supreme Court or the Roman Catholic Church, these are the ballast of our social lives that give them some stability.

It is all very well to have our eyes glued to Galileo's telescope, thinking that only his truth matters, but the blessed Robert Cardinal Bellamine in opposing him had a true role to play as well.

And all the time, behind the long work, sit the men of the Curia, men who have seen the church through its bad patches, not only changes in the world, but the rule of popes whose elections, whatever the other forces that acted, seem hard to attribute to divine guidance. But this is everywhere the function of bureaucracies: to stay while others pass and then pick up the threads.

A History of Violence

By HUGH MULLIGAN

VATICAN CITY — The cardinals arriving for the conclave to elect the 263rd successor to St. Peter usually come by jet these days, carry attache cases and for the most part wear dark clerical business suits with only a touch of crimson showing at the edges of the Roman collars.

Getting into taxis and waiting limousines with their sets of matching luggage, they could be mistaken for visiting company directors, diplomats or any other respectable men of means.

In other times, a half millenium or more ago, the cardinals arrived in Rome in splendid flowing renaissance robes, fringed with ermine and glittering with emeralds. They were preceded by an entourage of outriders carrying maces, pikes, flaming torches and ostrich feather fans. History shows, however, that the glory of their raiment at times concealed something less than respectability.

The world's oldest two-thirds majority election, dating back to the Lateran Council in 1179, has been an occasion for murder, arson, kidnapping, rioting, releasing jailbirds, several attempts at starving out a dead-locked electorate and, literally, razing the roof.

The secret conclave — from the Latin "cum clave," with key — began when an impatient public back in 1216 grew tired of waiting for the cardinals to choose a successor to Innocent III. They hastened the election of a Roman, Cardinal Censio Savelli, who took the name of Onorio III, by locking the cardinals inside the papal palace.

Still, the cardinals were slow about taking the hint. More than 50 years later, it took two years, nine months and two days to elect Tebaldi Visconti of Piacenza to the Chair of Peter as Gregory X. During that long, confused conclave, held at Viterbo, a provincial capital north of Rome where the previous Pope, a Frenchman, had died, all sorts of dire and even diabolical events transpired.

One day while the Sacred College of Cardinals was at mass, Guy de Montfort settled an old vendetta with Prince Henry of Cornwall. He inserted a dagger into the princely ribs as the communion host was being elevated.

As the winter of 1269 dragged on into the spring of 1270, peasants picketed the palace and tried to create a food shortage. At the urging of a Franciscan friar, later St. Bonaventure, they finally razed the palace roof, removing the tiles.

Undaunted but no doubt chilly, the cardinals droned on with the election process. Some, with a sense of humor, headed their letters, "Viterbi in Palatio Dicoperto" — from the roofless palace.

When Gregory X finally filled the shoes of the Fisherman in 1271, he rigorously revised the papal election system, limiting the cardinals to one servant apiece during the lock-up, forbidding letters or any personal contact with outsiders during the conclave under pain of excommunication. Three days after the conclave began the cardinals would be limited to one meal, and five days later if still undecided on a successor to Peter, they would go on bread and water.

Despite Gregory's early version of solitary confinement, it took six months to elect Martin IV, another Frenchman, in 1281. During that conclave, also held at Viterbo, the two cardinals from Orsini were kidnapped and the Archbishop of Canterbury, who had earlier condemned some church teachings, died in a cell, possibly from malnutrition.

Pope John XXII was elected at Carpentras, France, on Aug. 7, 1316, after a conclave of two years, four months. One cardinal became so exasperated at the long confinement he set the palace afire, and the cardinals had to flee through a narrow window used to pass in food.

Adrian VI, a Dutchman who served as the Grand Inquisitor of Spain, was the last non-Italian to be elected Pope. Roman crowds were so enraged at the choice of a foreigner they stoned the cardinals as they emerged from the conclave on Dec. 27, 1521.

Although a number of popes over the centuries have slightly modernized the balloting, the rules laid down by the third Lateran Council 800 years ago still apply. To keep the election as free as possible from ecclesiastical intrigue, even censured and excommunicated cardinals can sit in the conclave and vote. In 1740, when Benedict XIV was chosen, the gates of Castel Sant Angelo prison were opened to release Cardinal Coscia, a Neapolitan serving a life sentence for heinous crimes whose details are now shrouded in history, in time for the voting.

International Festival Ends With a Flourishing Finale

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

Victoria International Festival's current presentation at McPherson Playhouse, concludes with a flourish and in superb style, an outstanding summer season of great music performed by masters.

These final performances — the second and last is tonight at 8 — are comprised of two short operas, the 17th century La Serva Padrona and the 20th century La Prima Donna.

Call them "chamber" opera or "opera piccola", discuss the periods in which they were written, analyse their musical content if you will, but the simple fact is that they are purely joyous entertainment, particularly when presented with such professional skill and panache and such opulent vocal talent as here.

A large share of credit for the brilliant success of the productions and the enthusiastic audience response they elicited, belongs to the director, Pierrette Alarie, whose delicate touch and lively humor in creating the visual aspect provided a perfect interpretation for the music.

The cast of six principals, four of whom are involved in both operas, are, with one exception, young professional singers who have been working here under the technical coaching of opera greats, Leopold Simoneau and Rose Bampton while preparing the operas with Madame Alarie.

The exceptionally lovely, flexible and expressive voices of Janet Field, Bette Cosar and Marie-Danielle Parent and of Guy Ethier, Gregory MacLeod and John Mitchell, are enough in themselves to make a great evening for music lovers. But these people are gifted actors too, and, outstandingly in the case of Marie-Danielle and Ethier, in movement and gesture, with eyes and mobile faces, create character and embroider incident delightfully.

An elegant yet simple and stylized set created by Andre J. Prevost, serves both operas effectively and the same artist is responsible for the quite beautiful and flattering costumes, providing a full and opulent-appearing mounting of the works which have also been well lit by Dale Ann Connery.

Pergolesi's La Serva Padrona, a slight story of a maid who becomes a mistress, is a masterpiece of compactness and elegant writing which occupies not much more than a half-hour.

The Arthur Benjamin opera is alight with humor, a hilarious send-up of the great era of prima donna rivalry that contains a marvelously sung and acted confrontation scene between two "stars".

On the musical side these two operas are well served indeed by the accompaniment of two excellent pianists, Denise Masse and Grant Hurst and by one of the Festival's notable Canadian flutists, Kathryn Cernauskas.

Lieut. Governor Henry Bell-Irving and Mrs. Bell-Irving attended Monday's performance, marking their first official visit to the McPherson Playhouse.

Treasure Trove Finder's Keepers

MIAMI — A federal judge has ruled that treasure hunter Mel Fisher is entitled to $18 million in gold that he and his divers retrieved from a sunken Spanish galleon off the Dry Tortugas near Key West.

The treasure that Fisher, president of Treasure Salvors Inc. of Key West, and his crew brought up from the sunken ship Nuestra Senora de Atocha in 1973 included gold and silver bars, thousands of gold coins, a jewelled goblet and cup.

The ship sunk 40 metres of water in 1622 and now is buried their in six metres of sand. The treasure has been kept in a vault in Tallahassee.

U.S. District Judge William Mehrtens ruled Monday that the state of Florida has no right to any of the treasure it had claimed under a contract with Treasure Salvors. He termed their argument indefensible.

The state had claimed 25 per cent of the $18 million in gold and artifacts recovered.

TV Suit Appealed

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Court of Appeal was asked Monday to overturn the dismissal of an $11-million suit that claimed an NBC television drama inspired the rape of a young girl.

Lawyer Marvin Lewis asked that the case be tried on grounds the girl suffered personal injuries as a result of negligence or recklessness of the defendants in allowing the film to be shown in prime time.

That argument was rejected Aug. 8 by Judge Robert Dosse of San Francisco municipal court.

Dossee halted proceedings after Lewis made his opening statement to a jury, saying the lawyer was unable to prove NBC deliberately incited a rape attack similar to one depicted in the television movie.

The judge said NBC was protected by the First Amendment from the negligence claim, and that in order to proceed the plaintiff would have to present evidence that NBC and KRON-TV, the local outlet, intentionally incited members of the viewing audience to commit the crime.

Lewis acknowledged he would be unable to prove his case on such narrow grounds and in his opening statement indicated he would demonstrate negligence by showing NBC inspired and stimulated the sexual assault by three young girls.

Monday's petition claimed Dossee exceeded his jurisdiction by preventing a jury trial.

The TV movie, Born Innocent, depicted the rape of a girl in a reformatory by prisoners, using a plumber's plunger.

The suit was brought by Valeria Niemi of San Francisco on behalf of her 13-year-old daughter, who was nine when she was assaulted by three other girls using a bottle.

BRIDGING THE GAP

PEORIA — Jack Triebel was fed up. He was fed up with all the phone calls and the crushing routine, fed up with watching the rest of the world from behind a desk.

In his mind's eye he had seen the dream. Now, 53 and president of the family business, Triebel has decided to pursue it.

"My friends all think we're crazy," says Triebel. He and his wife, Punky, will leave home forever this month, climb aboard their new 13-metre sailboat and spend the rest of their lives at sea, working at odd jobs in various ports to support themselves.

"I was getting stale after 35 years or so in the business and wanted something different," he says. "You get to the point where you're saturated with the same thing day after day."

Triebel has turned over his financial interests in the clothes-cleaning business to his son, Hunter, and his brother, Field. The Triebel's fashionable home is on the market. The furniture has been sold or given to seven children, all grown or in college.

"The boat is at Annapolis (Md.)," he says. "It will take a month or so to complete some necessary work and get it fitted out, and then Punky and I expect to sail to the Caribbean islands about Oct. 20."

Their savings will be exhausted by the time they reach the islands, he said. To get by, they will work part-time.

POLIO DANGER ENDING IN B.C.

Health Minister Bob McClelland believes the danger of polio in the Chilliwack area has ended.

One case was reported in the Fraser Valley community three weeks ago after a Dutch visitor arrived in the area.

The minister says the normal incubation period for polio is seven to 12 days and the extreme range is three to 21 days.

"Since that period has now passed without any further cases, we feel there is now no longer any cause for concern."

However, he has urged parents, especially those with two and three-month-old infants, to have the children immunized.

Meanwhile, in the Hague, a government health official said Monday two boys aged 10 and five have polio, bringing the number of cases to 102 since the epidemic broke out in the Netherlands four months ago.

The health official said that, like all the other cases, the boys belong to a strict Protestant group that rejects vaccination on religious grounds.

VGH Meeting Cancelled

VANCOUVER (CP) — Health Minister Bob McClelland has cancelled the annual general meeting of the Vancouver General Hospital Society, but the expected battle over abortions will likely move to Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver.

Four new trustees are due to be elected at a meeting at Lions Gate Sept. 20. Last year's hospital society membership of 316 is reported to have quadrupled as pro- and anti-abortionists sign up supporters.

Meanwhile another senior nurse, surgical supervisor Barb Bradley, has resigned from VGH over dissatisfaction with administration of the hospital.

The administration has been taken over by former RCMP deputy-commissioner Peter Bazowski, appointed by McClelland to carry out all the functions of the board of trustees and hospital president Larry Truitt.

Bradley is the 15th senior nurse to resign over a dispute with the hospital administration. Another nurse withdrew her resignation Thursday. Cancelling the VGH society meeting, scheduled for Sept. 27, McClelland said Monday an anticipated confrontation there between pro- and anti-abortion factions and other groups had created an atmosphere of anxiety around the hospital.

He said this was making it difficult for staff members to concentrate on bringing the severe internal problems to an end.

The minister said provisions of the Hospital Act, used to appoint Bazowski, assigns all the functions of the board of trustees and members of the society to the administrator.

"Therefore, the annual meeting cannot take place in the normal manner," McClelland said.

"It's no secret that the matter of the annual meeting has been a concern. I firmly believe that we must not allow a philosophical battlefield to develop at the expense of the stable management of our public hospitals."

At Lions Gate, beard member Don Bell, mayor of North Vancouver district, said Sunday he is worried the quadrupling of membership in the North and West Vancouver Hospital Society is for the wrong reasons.

"I have my own personal views about abortion, but I'm concerned because I don't think any single interest group should take over a hospital board," he said.

Hospital administrator John Borthwick said both anti- and pro-abortion groups have been actively engaged in mass sign-ups ahead of the hospital society's annual meeting.

Vancouver Stadium Threat

VANCOUVER (CP) — The proposal to build a $163.5 million stadium complex here may be threatened by the general economic health of Canada, mayor Jack Volrich said Monday.

He said he hoped some of the money for the complex, to be built at the site of the Pacific National Exhibition, could be raised through lotteries, but added the support of the provincial government would be the critical factor.

Volrich was in Ottawa recently to seek financial support for a planned $25 million convention and trade centre for the city.

He said he found some support for the trade centre, but said he was hampered by Ottawa's austerity program. Volrich is to meet with Industry Minister Jack Horner within a few days to make the decision on the trade centre's future.

Omenica Road Protest

The B.C. Wildlife Federation renewed its appeal Monday to the provincial government to halt construction on the Omenica Mine Road, which runs 500 kilometres north of Fort St. James to Moose Valley in northeastern B.C.

The 22,000-member association wants all work associated with the road, including the proposed second airstrip at Black Lake on the Sturdee River, stopped until the government has publicly reviewed the enviromental impacts associated with the development.

In a telegram to Mines Minister Jim Chabot, federation president Richard Cole said he had spoken to two mines ministry officials on Thursday and would like to know which was telling the truth.

"Deputy Minister Jim Fyles says you cannot halt work pending completion of an environmental report because bulldozers are already building the airstrip," Cole said.

He said, however, that mines road inspector Phil Olsen told him the bulldozers cannot be recalled because they are halfway to the Sturdee River site.

The mineral exploration road will connect with the B.C. Railway line at Dease Lake.

Florida Arrest

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver detective is in Fort Lauderdale to bring back a man wanted in connection with the slaying of Ferdinand Voorn, 29, last December.

Paul Pomerleau, 33, was arrested Friday after a phone number obtained by police in Canada was traced to a Fort Lauderdale residence.

Pomerleau is also wanted by Quebec provincial police in connection with a $1.5 million extortion-robbery Feb. 17.

Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Weatherships Get New Chance?

A chance remains to keep Canada's Pacific weather ships afloat in the face of treasury board attempts to scuttle the 27-year-old service.

Director-general Dr. Robert Stewart, of the Institute of Ocean Sciences, said although the federal government has ordered a drastic cut in fisheries and environment spending estimates, it will be up to the department to say where the trimming will be done.

But he conceded the weatherships Quadra and Vancouver on ocean station Papa seem to have the lowest priority compared to other areas of fisheries and environment.

The vessels are operated by the Coast Guard.

It costs fisheries and environment about $6 million a year to send the ships 700 miles to sea on alternate seven-week tours of duty to take meteorological readings for the Atmospheric Environment Service.

The data is used by American and European forecasters and researchers around the globe.

Stewart said he hopes to know soon whether the rumored end of the weatherships will actually occur in April 1979, the end of the current fiscal period.

Government sources indicated last week the ships will be phased out in the spring, about three years earlier than had been forecast previously.

Once source said the environment department would have to slash $61 million from next year's spending, which will mean substantial cuts to other programs as well.

Although no formal communication about the fate of weatherships has been passed along to the Institute of Ocean Sciences, it is understood there will be an internal study to determine just how the cutbacks will apply.

Stewart said the choice will be difficult, much like the choice between "cutting off an arm or a leg."

There are no personnel from IOS serving aboard regular voyages, but private contracts have been let for a number of years by the environment department for physical and chemical oceanographic surveys conducted from the weatherships.

At present there is no alternative to the ships in the variety of functions they carry out, including marine rescues. Ultimately, scientists hope they may receive Pacific weather information through remote sensing via orbiting satellite, but no such system exists as yet.

Stewart said there may be an international reaction to any docking of the weatherships, which have provided meteorologists and ocean scientists with one of the longest unbroken spells of ocean weather data.

The vessels are part of Canada's commitment to the Global Atmospheric Research Program, a worldwide experiment involving some 18 nations which is due to conclude at the end of November next year.

Bavarian Village Set for Whistler

WHISTLER (CP) — A $50 million expansion program for this community 120 kilometres north of Vancouver which began Monday will make it the biggest skiing centre in North America, B.C. ski co-ordinator Al Raines said.

The heart of the project is the Whistler centre, which will resemble a Bavarian village, and at least two new ski lifts to provide access to Blackcomb Mountain, adjacent to Whistler Mountain.

The municipality will call for development proposals for the village within two weeks and it's expected the centre will be in operation by the 1979 skiing season.

Raines said the new centre would draw about 25,000 skiiers each weekend, compared to less than half that at present, and would include a new ski lift up the north side of Whistler and a second one up Blackcomb that will provide runs for beginners and intermediates. The Whistler tow will cost $5.6 million, while two other corporations are still bidding for the Blackcomb development.

Construction of 100 condominium units, stores, boutiques, restaurants, discotheques, a hotel, bars, tennis courts, a golf course, a swimming pool, a skating rink, racquetball courts, saunas, soccer fields and a gymnasium within the village proper is also on the drawing board.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A reversal at New York reduced the decline on the Toronto stock market to little more than a point in active mid-afternoon trading Tuesday.

Budd Automotive Co. of Canada Ltd. declined 3 to $79 on the sale of 8.200 shares following its resumption shortly after the opening. The company has announced cancellation of an auto body contract with Ford Motor Co.

Trading halts continued in shares of Siebens Oil and Gas Ltd., Hudson's Bay Co. and Dome Petroleum Ltd. pending clarification of takeover offers for Siebens, which last traded at $36⅛ a share. Hudson's Bay was last at $23⅝ and Dome Petroleum at $65¼ a share.

Among industrials, Cara Operations fell ¾ to $22, Bank of Nova Scotia ½ to $22, Northern Telecom ⅜ to $36, Kaiser Resources ⅛ to $14⅝ and New Providence Development three cents to 46 cents.

B.C. Packers B gained 3 to $79 on 8,200 shares, Algoma Central Railway 1⅜ to $21½, Livingston Industries ⅞ to $28⅜, Bralorne Resources ¾ to $8½ and Murphy Oil ⅝ to $13.

Rio Algom was down ½ to $34, Canada Tungsten Mining ½ to $18¾ and United Siscoe Mines ¼ to $8¼. Ego Resources rose ⅜ to $8 and Lacana Mining ¼ to $7⅛.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed in moderate trading recovering partly from early losses.

Analysts said an improvement in the U.S. dollar against other major foreign currencies in New York foreign exchange trading gave the stock market a mild boost early this afternoon. The dollar slipped in the New York market the previous day.

There were no other major news developments affecting the market today. The Dow index has slipped steadily since Thursday when it closed above the 900 mark for the first time in more than a year.

Sony Corp., unchanged at $8⅛ topped the NYSE most active list as of 2 p.m. Other heavily traded issues included National Airlines, up ½ to $30; Boeing, up ¾ to $68⅝; and Ramada Inns, off ⅛ to $8⅝.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices continued retreating in moderate trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Massey-Ferguson gained ⅛ to $11¾. Kaiser Resources dropped ⅜ to $14⅝, Imperial Oil A ⅛ to $21⅛, Bank of Nova Scotia ½ to $22, Noranda A ⅜ to $33½ and Alcan ⅜ to $35⅛. Among speculative issues, Midepsa Industries lost five cents to 25 cents on a turnover of 4,000 shares.

London

LONDON (CP) — Continuing confidence in short-term prospects sent the London stock market sharply higher today near the close of moderate trading. The Financial Times index was up 4.9 to 524.1 an hour before the close after falling back from a 1978 high of 524.8. Leading industrials gained, while gold shares shot higher with the recovery of the bullion price. Canadian stocks eased.

GOLD

LONDON (AP) — Closing gold prices Monday in U.S. dollars an ounce: London, 204.35; Paris, 203.15; Frankfurt, 204.41; Zurich, 205.375; Hong Kong, 201.55.

Texaco

Lower world-wide demand for crude oil and higher operating costs resulted in a 33.4 per cent decline in second quarter earnings for Texaco Inc. from the same period last year. Texaco reported earnings of $154.4 million, or 58 cents a share, for the three months ended June 30, a sharp drop from last year's net income of $237.9 million, or 88 cents a share. Included in earnings were foreign currency translation losses of $12.3 million caused primarily by the weakened value of the U.S. dollar against the Japanese yen. A year ago currency exchange losses were $8.9 million. In the three months, Texaco said revenues totalled $6.83 billion, a drop of 3.7 per cent from $7.09 billion last year. Texaco chairman Maurice Granville said results from refining, marketing and supply activities outside the U.S. were unsatisfactory. He noted that gains in revenues from higher product prices were offset by inflationary increases in expenses and lower profits from crude oil processing. He added, however, that second-quarter results from production in the U.S. showed a slight improvement from last year, a reflection of higher natural gas and crude oil prices.

Atco Ind.

Atco Industries Ltd. announced consolidated earnings for Thomson Industries Ltd. for the 11 months ended March 31 were $7,074,000 before extraordinary items.

In a news release, Atco said total revenue for the period was $71,432,000.

Extraordinary items reduced net income to $4,926,000. The major extraordinary item was an amount payable to several lenders upon early payment of long-term debt.

Atco said it has acquired about 98 per cent of the outstanding shares of Thomson since March 31.

The Thomson earnings and revenue figures were not included in previously reported results of Atco for its financial year ended March 31.

Amstar

Low world sugar prices have contributed to a steep earnings decline at Amstar Corp., the largest U.S. cane sugar refiner, says the company's president. Amstar said its earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30 totaled $14.2 million, or $1.47 a share, down from the previous year's profits of $28.1 million, or $3.05 a share. Sales amounted to $956.2 million, compared with $950.4 million a year before. Robert Quittmeyer, Amstar's president, said the decline is "entirely attributable to results of our sweetener business, which encountered the most unfavorable economic conditions in recent years." While analysts expect the price of sugar to move higher in the long term, ample supplies of sugar worldwide are likely to limit any price increases for now. The likelihood of oversupplies means producers and refiners may not be interested in expanding their capacity or modernizing existing facilities. The U.S. agriculture department estimates a pound of sugar costs 15.2 cents to produce in the U.S., but the government's current sugar price-support program, which expires this year, provides for a 13.5 cents-a-pound floor. U.S. sugar producers have said they can't make money at this level, as foreign sugar prices are far lower. In some futures contracts for delivery in September, for instance, sugar is quoted at around 6.4 cents a pound.

New Line: Old Computers

TORONTO (CP) — A trend toward buying used computers resulted in between $80 million and $100 million in trading in Canada's secondary market last year, a Toronto computer executive says.

Robert Djurdjevic, president of Annex Holdings Ltd., said in an interview that a 37 per cent annual growth rate in the secondary market is attributable to the buying trend, which has replaced the rental trend of the 1950s and 1960s.

More users are buying equipment because of rapidly declining costs. Manufacturers are promoting sales because technological advancement has reduced the product life span of rentals.

Djurdjevic said the average turnover for computer hardware now is about three years.

But a major complaint with dealers is that too much used-equipment business is lost to United States companies.

Equipment imported from the U.S is subject to tariffs based on depreciated value or market value, whichever is greater.

"The U.S. dealers have muscled into the Canadian market in a big way," said Djurdjevic.

There is no duty on U.S. imports from Canada if the used equipment was manufactured originally in the U.S.

If the equipment was manufactured outside the U.S., it is subject to a small tariff based on the equipment's market value.

John Brennan, president of Daycom Industries Ltd. of Toronto, said the Canadian government recognizes only a 75 per cent maximum depreciation on this type of equipment.

"Sometimes we have to pay 100 per cent to 150 per cent of its market value just in duties and tax."

Brennan said that despite Canadian tariff laws, his company expects enormous future growth, particularly since computer users are turning to the secondary market as they become confident in their ability to buy and assemble their own systems.

"Most first-time users go to mainframe manufacturers because they feel they need the manufacturer to fall back upon," he said. "But after they get their feet wet, they'll go to the used market."

Brennan said his customers can save from 10 to 40 per cent of new equipment costs, depending on the model and age of the hardware, and get faster delivery service than manufacturers provide.

Brennan has a saying that: "Old computers never die, they just find new homes."

He said computer equipment usually is well-maintained and any reputable dealer will trade only in equipment eligible for maintenance.

Although a manufactuer will give trade-in allowances for old equipment against the purchase price of new hardware, Djurdjevic said, these allowances likely will be lower than the fair market value of the equipment.

R. D. Nickel and Associates is recognized as the largest used computer company in Canada in terms of dollar volume.

Nickel said his company, which deals mostly in IBM equipment, has moved about $40 million worth of equipment since 1975.

Like others in the business, Nickel said he does little importing because of the lower value of the Canadian dollar and, again, the tariff structure.

Djurdjevic said he has held several talks with other dealers interested in forming a professional association similar to the U.S. Computer Dealers Asociation.

"I'd like to see an association formed for two purposes — to develop a code of ethics and to present our views to the government."

RECORD CAR SALES

TORONTO (CP) — Two of Canada's four major auto makers set sales records last month as Canadians bought 98,467 new cars and trucks compared with 90,036 in July, 1977.

The total does not include 501 Jeeps sold by American Motors (Canada) Ltd., which does not manufacture trucks. AMC's Jeep sales were down from its record 510 the previous July.

General Motors of Canada Ltd.'s total 50,882 cars and trucks included July records in both categories—36,160 cars and 14,722 trucks, up from 31,906 and 12,722 in July, 1977.

Richard Colcomb, GM's vice-president and general sales manager, welcomed what he termed the company's unprecedented string of records.

"The strong demand for both GM cars and trucks has been with us since early spring and is continuing to track toward another record-setting model year."

Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., with record truck sales, reported total deliveries of 27,762 units. The 17,568 cars and 10,194 trucks were up from 14,539 and 8,395 the previous July.

Ford's previous July record for trucks was 10,006 in 1975.

"The 21-per-cent increase in July car sales represents the strongest year-over-year improvement of the year for our dealers as previous increases were in the range of six to 14 per cent," said William L. Hawkins, Ford vice-president and general manager.

"Much of the impetus has come from our two new offerings, Fairmont and Zephyr, which with their sports coupes, Futura and Z-7, have achieved sales increases of 225 and 228 per cent respectively."

In addition to its Jeeps, AMC sold 1,410 passenger cars, up from 1,401 in July, 1977.

Chrysler Canada Ltd. reported drops in both cars and truck sales. Its 14,400 car sales were down from 16,507 the previous July and its 4,013 trucks down from 21,073.

"Why does Dolly have a top to her bathing suit and I don't?"

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Quite often, when one arrives at a game contract in which a delicate touch is required to bring it home safely, declarer is more worried about one of the defenders obtaining the lead than he is of the other. Today's deal embodies a recurring type of this theme.

Neither side vulnerable.
South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Eight of ◇.

South's final call of three notrump was a bit pushy, and the game contract was a precarious one. But South's handling was top-notch, and he brought his contract home safely.

On West's opening diamond lead East put up the queen, which was permitted to win. East returned the diamond three, South played the ten, and West won with the jack.

The king of diamonds came next, East discarding the spade deuce as South won the trick with his ace.

Having but six sure winners, declarer appreciated that the club suit had to be attacked. And while doing so, all efforts had to be directed toward keeping West, with the two established diamonds, out of the lead. At trick four dummy was entered via the spade queen, after which a club was led, South finessing his queeen. When Her Ladyship won the trick, South breathed a sigh of relief.

Had declarer now cashed his club ace, East could have made a fine play by "unblocking" with the king. Declarer would now have found it impossible to create any additional club tricks unless he first permitted West to obtain the lead via the jack of clubs. And if he did that, West would cash his remaining diamonds.

So South did not cash his ace of clubs. Instead he entered dummy via the spade ace to lead the board's remaining club. When East followed suit with the nine spot, South played his ace. A third club lead was then taken by East's king — and South's fourth and fifth clubs became cashable winners.

Had East played the king of clubs on the second club lead off dummy, South would have allowed the king to win the trick. And, once again, he would have had the four club tricks he needed to fulfill the contract.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, August 23
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on financial status, experimentation, gains accrued as result of reading, writing, dispatching of unique inquiries. Gemini and Sagittarius figure prominently. A "referee" settle dispute and celebration follows.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take initiative — Moon in your sign coincides with timely moves, correct judgment, hunches that pay dividends. Know it and act accordingly. You are "reinforced" by announcement which vindicates your views.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Open dialogue with representative of clubs, group, institution. Your requests for changes are granted — if you present creative alternatives. Saggittarius is in picture. You learn a secret. Make the most of it — within fair bounds.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Important domestic adjustment indicated. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio figure prominently. Romance, wishes that come true — these are all in picture. Pleasant time indicated as your faith in loved one is reinformed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Perceive hidden meanings, subtle nuances — avoid self-deception. Accent on the realties, promotions, added responsibilities. Communication to one in authority brings prompt, surprising, favorable response. Do it!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Spotlight on distance, potential, special studies. Long-range goal is in sight. Work a little harder on "hard news" and you'll definitely see the light. Capricorn figures prominently. Catch up on correspondence. You overlooked something important!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Dig in for information needed to complete transaction. Close associate is concerned with financial aspects — look beneath surface and you'll resolve dilemma. Aries plays key role — and so does the number 9. Do not fear the unknown.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on legal ties, cooperation with one whose views may not coincide with your own. Common interests can overcome differences. Leo, Aquarius persons figure in scenario. Let others take lead. Compile data. Wait, listen and observe. Make this a day of preparation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Study Scorpio message. Maintan steady pace — keep resolutions concerning proper rest, nutrition. Accent on employment, special services, dependents and your health. The money situation will be favorably resolved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Pressures are lifted — changes occur which give you room for more creative expression. Love, recently absent, makes a dramatic return. Get around — see and be seen, imprint personal mark. Children, speculative ventures crowd scenario.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Adhere to factual data. You're able now to illustrate basic beliefs — and to win additional friends, allies. Another Aquarian could figure prominently. True values emerge. You are beneficary of revised policy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Say "Yes" to request or assignment calling for your opinion, evaluation in writing. Any outlet for expression now is apt to prove beneficial. Accent on trips, brothers, sisters, your ability to be selective. Some people will term you "The personality kid!"

IF AUGUST 23 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical, a fighter for beliefs, capable of being charming or hard-nosed, as circumstances demand. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. Surprise trip might materialize in October. You're recovering from emotional trauma. You're getting roots, becoming more secure following upset in the home. You're going to be happier and healthier — you already are wiser.

Als' Coach Sees Lions as Key Test

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Alouettes still are looking for a piece of first place as they entertain British Columbia Lions in a Canadian Football League interlocking game tonight, but head coach Joe Scannella says his new offence is developing as planned.

"We're still on schedule except for that 3-2," said Scannella, referring to Montreal's won-lost record that has them tied with Toronto Argonauts, 3-3, two points behind first-place Ottawa Rough Riders in the Eastern Conference.

"The whole team is more comfortable in what they're doing, I think. Now when they make a mistake they know it. Before, they were making mistakes and didn't realize it."

In the other game tonight, Saskatchewan Roughriders, 0-5 and last in the Western Conference, visit the resurgent Calgary Stampeders, 2-2-1 and in third place.

British Columbia, 3-1-2 and tied for the lead in the West with Edmonton Eskimos, promises to pose a challenge to Montreal's highly-regarded defence. Scannella looked with envy at Lions running back Leroy Key.

"It's hard to do some of the things, say, B.C. does when you don't have a guy with great outside speed," said Scannella of Key. "He threw a running pass for a big gainer in their last game. And they have that good wide receiver, (Leon) Bright, who busted an 89-yard touchdown on a reverse.

"They have a lot of tools, plus the good quarterback. (Jerry) Tagge is having a fine year. He's throwing the hell out of the ball. It's hard to contain a play. You just have to be alert all the time."

Scannella said when he took the job that the Montreal offence would be revamped from what it was under his predecessor, Marv Levy. It has beem variously described this season as a big-play offence, a pass-oriented offence and a ball-control offence.

Scannella's biggest headache resulted from the loss of quarterback Sonny Wade, who underwent knee surgery, and the injured hand of backup Joe Barnes.

"We're doing things better every day," Scannella said. "I just wish Barnes had better fingers."

Barnes has been wearing a metal splint on the two outside fingers of his throwing hand for a couple of weeks, taking it off a few days before a game to throw in practice.

"I think he's a hell of a guy and a smart quarterback," Scannella said of Barnes. "He's a real leader. He's tough and he's doing a heck of a job."

At Calgary, the Roughriders will be seeking their first victory of the season in Walt Posadowski's debut as head coach. He was named to the post after Saskatchewan's poor start led to the dismissal of Jim Eddy.

Posadowski said morale was good, considering the club's record, but asked if there would be a change in attitude with the change in coaches, he said: "I'm demanding it."

There will be one new face in the lineup in the person of running back Ron Jamerson from Southern California. He was in on a five-day trial last week and was impressive enough that Posadwoski believes he might take some pressure off Mike Strickland, the major factor in the backfield since Molly McGee went out with an injured hand.

Veteran quarterback Ron Lancaster was reported to be recovered from a head hit he suffered in a 24-23 loss to the Lions last Tuesday night.

IRISH COACH SOUNDS WARNING: ADANACS ARE 'EXPLOSIVE' TEAM

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Coach Nirmal Dillon of Victoria Shamrocks isn't taking the opposition lightly in the Western Lacrosse Association best-of-seven final opening at Memorial Arena tonight.

"Coquitlam Adanacs are a tough team and an explosive team," Dillon said today after a weekend of savoring the Shamrocks' 15-6 victory over Vancouver Burrards in Kerrisdale Arena, Saturday. That gave the Rocks a 4-2 series win over Burrards, put them in the final and marked the first time in three years they have gotten by Burrards in the playoffs.

Coquitlam qualified with a come-from-behind, 4-3 series win over New Westminster Salmonbellies, winning the deciding game, Sunday, 17-9.

"They are fast, shoot from anywhere on the floor, and have some excellent shooters," Dillon said. "We will have to play well to beat them."

As for the Shamrocks, Dillon was more than pleased with the final performance against Burrards. "After the first period we played excellent lacrosse," he said. "The defence was sound, Ivan Thompson is coming up to his very best, and the "kids" played well," he summarized briefly.

"And it felt good," he added of the victory.

The "kids" Dillon referred to were Doug Angrove and Jeff Whitney-Griffiths, who joined the club from McDonalds after McDonalds were eliminated from the junior playoffs.

Angrove scored three goals and Whitney-Griffiths two in the Saturday win. Thompson also had three goals in that game.

During the season, the Shamrocks defeated the Adanacs four times, lost one and tied another at Coquitlam. The A's, however, were the hottest team in the league over the last part of the season and, in the final four weeks, the Shamrocks were the only club to win from them.

In the playoffs, the Salmonbellies took a 3-1 lead in the series before the A's rebounded with their tremendous comeback. It should be explained that the Salmonbellies were suffering heavily from injuries and also had lost the services of regular goalkeeper Ted Gernaey with a broken knee cap.

"But that doesn't take anything away from the A's," said Dillon.

"They are tough and I have always had a lot of respect for them. It should be a good series".

Second game will be played in Coquitlam, Thursday, the third here, Saturday, and the fourth at Coquitlam, Monday.

If other games are necessary they will be played here next Tuesday; in Coquitlam, Thursday, Aug. 31; and back here, Friday, Sept 1.

The series must be decided by Sept. 1 as the WLA winner leaves Sept. 2 for eastern Canada and the Mann Cup final against the Ontario Lacrosse Association champions opening Sept. 4.

Game time tonight is 8 p.m.

Major League Umpires Threaten Strike Action

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 52 major league umpires, saying baseball officials have balked at discussing their demands for improved benefits and working conditions, have threatened to strike by the end of the week.

Lawyer Richard Phillips, who represents the Major League Umpires Association, said he filed an unfair labor practices suit Monday against the National and American leagues with the national labor relations board.

"The feeling on the part of most umpires is that at this point we will engage in a work stoppage in order to force the major leagues to desist from unfair labor practices," Phillips said. "The NLRB will initiate its own investigation.

"It will be decided this week (by the umpires) whether to strike before the NLRB makes its decision. I don't think we will sit back and wait."

Phillips said the umpires' association executive board, which includes four National League and three American League umpires, would confer by phone, probably today and Wednesday, to make a final decision on the strike.

Bob Fishel, assistant to the president of the American League, confirmed the umpires' association had sent AL president Lee MacPhail a request to negotiate.

Phillips said the umpires' demands were items not covered by the current contact, which was approved in 1977 but had procedures for reopening negotiations.

He said the umpires have several demands, including three one-week vacations during the eight-month major league baseball season.

Other proposals include:

—Job security after three years experience for those who maintain a 90 per cent rating.

—Cost of living increases based on the consumer price index.

—Increased insurance and disability benefits.

—Paid travel expenses, including first-class transportation and rental cars.

—Extra pay for all work in excess of the 162 regular-season games.

CASUAL ATTIRE was fashion for umpires Monday as Billy Williams (left) and Bruce Froemming prepared to work National League baseball game at Philadelphia between Phillies and San Diego Padres. With their uniforms missing a plane flight, Williams wore button-up sweater and plaid pants while Froemming was decked out in Phillies' baseball pants and borrowed football jersey. Earlier in evening, umpires had announced they would go on strike if demands are not heeded by major leagues. (AP wirephoto)

Horizontal to Diagonal Meet the New Canucks

Jim TAYLOR

Word that the Vancouver Canucks have new, aggressive uniforms has raised a key question in the rest of the National Hockey League: "Which colors do we go around now?"

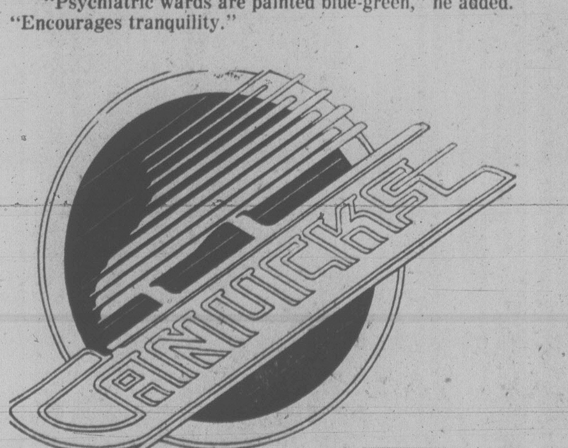
Reports that the Canucks might ditch their green, blue and white uniforms have been circulating for months. Most thought they'd follow tradition and change the blue to red. But no, the new look is red-orange, yellow and black. No. 15 in the standings and No. 1 on your retinas. Schedule them on Halloween, they'll lead the league in apples.

The Canucks didn't just stumble into the combination. They hired an American communications counselling firm to find out what was wrong with their old image and come up with a new one, something that would make the customers forget the ghosts of disasters past. For only $100,000 they got their answer. Considering the magnitude of the disasters, that's not half bad.

Monday morning, the color sketches in front of me, I phoned Bill Boyd of Beyl and Boyd, the San Francisco firm responsible for the new look.

"The Canuck colors," he said, "were all wrong. Blue-green is the coolest color of all. Slows the pulse, reduces aggression, promotes calmness.

"Psychiatric wards are painted blue-green," he added. "Encourages tranquility."



"That's our team, all right."

It didn't stop him.

"White, being a passive color, induces the least response of all. And Green—did you know that in ancient times green—not black, but green—was the color symbolizing death?"

Boyd's group has never seen the Canucks. But so far he'd painted this picture of a bunch of dead-looking guys skating calmly around with no aggressive tendencies and a pulse that's barely registering.

"You've got great scouts," I said.

"Thank you. Did I tell you about blue? To the ancients, blue symbolized saintliness. It was their color for virginity."

"Your scouts ever make any road trips?"

In the old days, an owner in search of new colors could ask his wife to pick two she liked and go from there. No more. In the wonderful world of marketing the packing of an athlete is as vital as the packaging of a new peanut butter or deodorant, and for the same reason: to enhance the good product or disguise the bad.

Welcome, then, to Hockey 1984:

"There are physical and psychological differences in people's responses to different colors," Boyd said. "Colors are read by rods and cones in the eyes and the input travels along different sets of nerves, thus invoking different responses.

"You can put a group of people in a room painted blue-green where the temperature is 58 degrees, and those people will feel chilly. Put the same people in a 58-degree room painted red-orange and they'll be uncomfortably warm.

"With the Canucks uniforms we are going from the coolest of colors—blue-green—to the hottest—red-orange. The cool color is passive, the hot one aggressive. Plus the black. It's the contrast of colors that creates emotion. White produces no response at all, so we went for yellow—which is warm, pleasant, happy. Upbeat. What we are attempting to create is an atmosphere that will help create the happy, upbeat, aggressive fan. The Canucks want to provide the fan with an atmosphere in which it's easier for him or her to have fun."

Gosh! I wonder if they've considered winning?

The new uniforms feature a V starting at the collar and working downward to a point in the vicinity of the waist. Boyd dismissed the suggestion that it served as an arrow, with a psychological message that reads "Kick Here".

"V," he said, "is for Vancouver." You cannot fool the scientific mind.

"It's fortunate, too," he said, "because it creates the ideal diagonal stripe. All teams have horizontal or vertical stripes. That's static. Diagonal stripes get your attention. They're like the crooked picture on the wall. You have to fix it or it drives you crazy."

I hate to argue with science, but the Canucks have always had horizontal stripes, and they've been driving us crazy for seven years.

But now he was on to my favorite subject: the Canuck crest.

"We analyzed the colors and logo of very team in every major league sport. We gave the Canucks 20 different approaches. Mike Bull, a San Francisco illustrator who did the Levi jeans commercials on television and whose work is known to millions, did the one that's been accepted—the skate speeding over the word Canuck. It has motion and style. It's pop art, sure, but we don't mind the term. Pop simply means popular, doesn't it?"

True. And when it comes to movement and speed and color, the old empty-hockey-rink-with-stick would finish second to a cremated turtle. Science marches on.

Beyl and Boyd had two three-hour sessions with the Canuck directors outlining the new color scheme. It must have been fun explaining that there were other colors besides red, blue and dollar green.

But the job is done—a job so radical that the patterns had to be made by a flag manufacturing company and the actual uniforms will be made by firms new to hockey because the old firms aren't geared to handle them.

"The fans will love them," Boyd said.

And they will—if somebody in them can win.

Padres Edge Mussels; Fans Honored Tonight

Victoria Mussels, who face Bellingham Mariners tonight at Royal Athletic Park, were edged 6-5 by host Walla Walla Padres in the final game of a lacklustre road trip Monday.

Tonight's game, which is also designated as "Fan Appreciation Night", gets underway at 7 p.m.

Mussels took an early lead Monday when Paul Reeves came up with a two-run homer in the second inning but Padres got one back in their half of the inning and ripped four more runs off Matt Reeves in the third inning before coming up with the winner in the fourth.

Victoria collected one run off relief pitcher Sid Church in the eighth and catcher Jim Thamann blasted a two-run homer in the ninth to lift Mussels to within one run.

But Randy Miller, who relieved Church, got the final outs to end the game.

Mike Parker and Greg Pastors supplied Padres with home runs.

Elsewhere, all but one of the team members of Boise Buckskins has agreed to finish the season with the financially troubled club, team general manager Lanny Moss said Monday.

Team management met with players Monday afternoon in an effort to explain why the club failed to meet its latest payroll Aug. 15.

The team has run out of money due to poor attendance and difficulties getting players' sponsors to meet their $3,000-per-player obligation, Ms. Moss said.

Carty Ended Flanagan's Dream

The tension built with each inning Mike Flanagan kept Oakland A's hitless. After completing two-thirds of the job, the young Baltimore Orioles left-hander couldn't help being aware he was flirting with a pitcher's dream.

"I started thinking about the no-hitter after six innings," said the 26-year-old Flanagan. "There are nine outs to go, I kept telling myself, but the no-hitter was secondary."

Not much later, it was over. After Dell Alston walked and stole second, Flanagan got the first out in the Oakland seventh, then faced 13-year veteran Rico Carty.

So he battled Carty and lost. The designated hitter, acquired last Monday from Toronto in an American League baseball deal that sent Willie Horton to the Blue Jays, hit a run-scoring single and Baltimore's 3-0 lead was cut to 3-1.

Flanagan gave up two more hits—Bruce Robinson's double and Mitchell Page's run-scoring single in the ninth—while striking out eight to pace the Orioles' 3-2 victory and hand the A's their ninth loss in 10 games.

New Driving Range Suitable for Bunters

I missed the opening of Cedar Hill's new pro shop and driving range. Probably, for all concerned, it was a good thing. I wouldn't have trusted my stomach.

The pro shop looks fine. The only municipal-owned course is one of the district's busiest, and professional Bill Goldsworthy was overdue for some elbow room.

The driving range, a good idea, is not fine. More of an abortion, if you must know.

The driving range was planted smack in the middle of the course (bordering the first, second and third fairways), and that might have been excusable if a proper one had been constructed.

Saanich's gift to golf is ideal for Ma Perkins, Shirley Temple or Grandma Moses. Not worth a darn for a young gorilla interested in practising his wood shots. It is much too short and, as driving ranges go, is a creation of idiocy.

Range balls, in comparison to better ones on the market, are cousins to the rock. Still, Jim Rutledge, among others, can drive them over the end fence, where the marker suggests the distance is "200 yards," with a three iron.

To avoid sending balls onto the second fairway, Rutledge can go no higher than a four iron.

When it comes to distance, I'm not in young Mr. Rutledge's class. Closer, perhaps, to the Perkins-Temple-Moses group but I think I can clear the end fence with a wood.

As a Saanich taxpayer, I'm not interesting in a bunting range.

Unfortunately, that is what the muncipality's "planning committee" gave us.

One of the neglected aspects of junior development is ignorance of the value of education. It nice to work on the long irons, the woods and etcetera, but every now and then our juniors should be reminded of the importance of education.

American colleges are still one of the best developing grounds for would-be golfers but the poor students find it difficult to secure scholarships. Good grades make it easier.

Rick Gibson, the provincial high school champion, is one who realizes, I am happy to say. Rick heads into his final year of high school and is very aware of education's role. Next spring, I predict, Gibson will have no problem in picking out a good scholarship offer.

His attitude sets him apart from many juniors who think that a stream of steady, sub-par rounds will do the trick.

On the scholarship topic, two other district golfers are moving into U.S. colleges. Scott Holroyd of Gorge Vale has left for Arizona State while Oak Bay's Paul Harris is enrolling at University of Nevada in Reno.

Bowling Battle

Champions and novice champions from each of the seven Vancouver Island clubs will battle it out starting Wednesday in the annual "Champion of Champions" women's lawn bowling tournament at Gordon Head.

Club champions entered in the three-day event are Gertie Noble of the host club, Margaret Robinson of Nanaimo, Ethel McFarlane of Lakehill, Jessie Kinneard of Burnside, Elsie Young of Oak Bay, Joan Turner of Canadian Pacific, Margaret Campbell of Victoria West and Vee Hewins of Victoria.

Competing in the novice category are Ann Hilton-Smith of Oak Bay, Elizabeth Brooke of Canadian Pacific, Lil Flannigan of Vic West, Nancy Baker of Burnside, Ruth Eadon of Gordon Head, Bernice Carington of Lakehill and Norma Brown of Victoria.

Cables Lead Junior Final

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Burnaby Cablevision edged New Westminster Junior Salmonbellies 12-10 Monday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Western Canada Junior Lacrosse League final series.

Derek Dickson got three goals for Burnaby while John Swan and Paul Dalmonte scored twice each. Singles came from John Purdon, Lloyd Symons, Mike O'Reilly, Alan Kirk and Terry Bingley.

Ross Angelucci led the Salmonbellies with three goals and Terry Miller had two.

The third game in the series will be played Wednesday in Burnaby.

Island Reps Blank Visitors

Vancouver Island Men's Field Hockey Association Selects, fresh from winning the gold medal at the B.C. Summer Games in Penticton, blanked the United States national development team 5-0 in an exhibition match Monday night at Royal Athletic Park.

John Turner paced Selects two goals. Also scoring were Rick Elson, Jim Welham and Navroop Kahlon.

Betting Patterns Tell Story to Watchdogs

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Wherever there is horse racing, there is always the fear of hanky-panky. Crooked races make the news. The honest tracks rarely get the headlines.

Operators are always on the lookout for the unusual, the winner who really doesn't figure, a sudden and unexplained shift in the odds on the tote board, and any other telltale signs that experienced observers have learned to recognize.

It's a code of honor for most officials.

In that regard, Sandown Harness Raceway fans can feel more or less secure.

General manager Jim Keeling Jr. feels there has been honest racing here, and "more honest than at other tracks".

Keeling admits he was worried when racing started here that mainly because of the relatively small purses (most races are run for $600) things might happen that shouldn't. However, with 57-day meeting in its final three weeks, he is of the opinion it hasn't and the racing has been clean.

Oh, sure, every once in a while a driver may feel, and rightly so, that he has been cut off, boxed in, and didn't win because he couldn't get racing room. It happens.

But a lot of that is racing luck or even the experience or lack of it by the driver.

Besides the judges high on the roof are trained to spot that type of driving. And they have the advantage of the magic camera eye to tell all.

However, it's the running of the races and the betting patterns that are the concern of Keeling.

It's the jiggery poke reflected in the mutuel figures that is more often than not the indicator that things aren't quite right.

And it may be easier to spot than people realize, he explained.

For example, at Sandown, a small track, any unusually large wager at the $10 or $5 windows would be noticed by the clerk. Clerks aren't that rushed normally that a sudden surge of interest in a particular horse wouldn't be noticed. Or a handful of crushed five-dollar bills. Besides, if there was a sudden and unexplained drastic change in the odds, it would show on the mutuel board.

The machines would also show where the tickets had been purchased and the clerk would likely recall the person or type of person who made the wager.

At any rate the watchdogs are always out. Matter of fact, Keeling himself is always out too. He's rarely in his office. He's can nearly always be found on the south landing of the grandstand, watching and studying every race.

He doesn't want this meet tarred with any suspicion of wrongdoing and he's doing his best to keep it that way.

Meanwhile, Monday was 46th day of the meeting and the only real eyebrow-lifter came in the final race.

Good Aim, a seven-year old chestnut mare, driven by veteran Willie Urquhart, came from off the pace to nip favored Magic Dauber at the wire and return $71.20 on the front end and combine with Magic Dauber for an exactor of $257.10.

The oddity was that Good Aim in her last five races here against similar had never been worse than 9½—1 and this time was a distinct overlay.

The featured seventh handicap for $8-$10,000 claimers went to Joe Hudon's eight-year-old bay gelding Little Pence.

Owned trained and driven by Hudon, Little Pence was an easy winner and returned $6.60, 4.80 and 2.80.

Leading driver Keith Linton had three winners, Senga Robin ($4.00) in the third, Senga Nola ($12.70) in the fifth and Moon Girl ($6.90) in the sixth.

Linton now has 61 victories. Hudon is second with 42.

Linton also has an unusual schedule coming up Saturday. He will ride at Sandown until the seventh race and then catch a plane for Calgary where that same evening he will drive Valiant Dauber in a special race for mares.

Folowing that event, Valiant Dauber will be returned to Sandown for the balance of the meeting here.

Monday's results and Wednesday's entries are on page 14.

Helen Close To Swim Gold

WEST BERLIN (CP) — If Helen Vanderburg of Calgary doesn't make any big mistakes Wednesday, she'll probably win a gold medal at the world aquatic championships.

And if she does well again Friday, it could be two.

Vanderburg, 19, a physical education student at the University of Calgary, holds a solid lead after the compulsory figures for the solo program in synchronized swimming. The compulsaries make up 50 per cent of the final score.

The free program, which makes up the other half, goes Wednesday and that usually is a strong point for Vanderburg.

Her points, combined with those of Michelle Calkins, also of Calgary, gave the Canadian pair the lead in the duet competition as well. The duet free program will be held Friday.

Other Canadians didn't fare as well as the synchronized swimmers. The racing team was idle, but the water polo squad dropped a 4-2 decision to Italy and was relegated to the "B" group of the competition.

B.C. ASSUMES LEAD

HALIFAX (CP) — British Columbia downed Alberta in both singles and pairs action in the sixth round of the Canadian Lawn Bowling championships Monday night to finish the day with a two-point edge in the standings over Ontario.

Alberta defeated B.C. in the fours competition in the round to keep the B.C. team from increasing its lead.

After six rounds, B.C. had 26 points to 24 for Ontario. Nova Scotia remained in third place with 20 points.

P.E.I. and Saskatchewan were tied with 15 points, followed by Manitoba and Quebec, tied with 14, and Alberta and New Brunswick, each with 10.

In sixth-round singles, B.C. downed Alberta 21-11, Saskatchewan edged P.E.I. 21-18, Ontario downed Manitoba 21-12 and Nova Scotia defeated New Brunswick 21-12.

Injured Jockey Is Determined To Walk Again

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Noel Turcotte says his brother, Ron, is determined to walk again although he remains paralysed from the waist down.

Noel, a former jockey and now an exercise rider, said Monday that he visited Ron in hospital in New York a couple of days ago and found his brother in good spirits despite his injuries.

Ron, one of North America's leading jockeys, underwent surgery on July 14 after he was thrown during a race at Belmont Park. The 36-year-old rider from Grand Falls, N.B., suffered vertebrae and nerve damage in the mishap and the first operation included a fusion of vertebrae. A second operation was made to remove bone chips from the spinal column and, later, an attack of spinal meningitis was treated successfully.

"There were several of us in the room and Ron was laughing and joking with us," Noel said of his visit to New York. "He says he's going to walk again, He's determined about that. He has a lot of faith. For a while, his spirits had been down."

PINCAY SUSPENDED FOR TRAVERS RIDE

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Racing stewards suspended Laffit Pincay on Monday for his ride of Affirmed in the Travers Stakes race at Saratoga, in which the Triple Crown winner was disqualified for interfering with Alydar.

Alydar finished second in Saturday's Travers—as he had in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont—but was declared the winner and Affirmed was dropped to second.

The suspension was to last seven days.

Meanwhile, Affirmed's trainer, Laz Barrera, and owners Louis and Patrice Wolfson viewed the films of the Saturday race and concurred with the official decision that their horse had impeded Alydar near the half-mile post.

Alydar, owned by Calumet Farm, had been running along the rail, closing on Affirmed, when Affirmed moved into the rail, pinching off the challenger's approach. Alydar fell far back but made another surge, finishing 1¾ lengths behind Affirmed.

Hornets Trip Cowichan Club

Touchdowns by Brad Witt and Don Roskelly carried Saanich Hornets to a triumph over Cowichan Chiefs in an exhibition bantam football game Sunday at Cedar Hill Park.

With Chris Spargo adding conversion points, the Hornets posted a 14-8 decision over the Chiefs, who got a last-minute touchdown from John Dalloway.

O.J.'s Knee Looks Better Than '49ers

By The Canadian Press

O. J. Simpson says his knee is strong. But what about San Francisco '49ers who looked so weak against Oakland Raiders?

"Communications is the key," Simpson said after making his playing debut with the '49ers, whose offence sputtered badly Sunday in a 31-14 National Football League exhibition loss to the Raiders.

"Right now, we haven't played long enough with each other to get the feel of things," he said. "We're going to start communicating better and playing together."

The '49ers are 0-3 and have just one more exhibition test, against Denver, before opening the National Football League season Sept. 3 at Cleveland.

Sunday's game was the first for Simpson since injuring his left knee midway through the 1977 season, his last with Buffalo Bills, and he said: "I felt great, I really did. I wanted to stay in the game longer."

The $733,000-per-season star left early in the second quarter after carrying six times for 12 yards, losing the ball once on a fumble and dropping a perfect pass from Jim Plunkett, who had a luckless and frustrating 0-for-11 passing day.

In the other game Sunday, New England Patriots whipped Kansas City Chiefs 24-7.

On Saturday, Philadelphia Eagles defeated Altanta Falcons 24-7, Denver Broncos beat Buffalo 23-13, New York Giants dumped Pittsburgh Steelers 13-6, Cincinnati Bengals whipped Chicago Bears 27-3, Tampa Bay Buccaneers beat New Orleans Saints 14-3, Green Bay Packers defeated St. Louis Cardinals 2-17, Houston Oilers upset Dallas Cowboys 27-13 and New York Jets downed San Diego Chargers 23-10.

At San Francisco, three touchdown passes by Ken Stabler gave Oakland an early 21-0 lead, it was 31-0 after three quarters and the talent gap between the two teams appeared bigger than the '49ers offensive communications gap.

San Francisco got two late touchdowns as young Steve DeBerg scored on a quarterback sneak and passed 21 yards to Freddie Solomon.

It was an impressive performance by the Raiders, who are 2-1 in exhibition games as they aim for the regular season and the January goal of the Super Bowl.

"They're going to be in there knocking," Simpson said of the Raiders championship chances.

Monday night rookie quarterback Mark Miller came off the bench in the second half to put life into the stumbling Cleveland Browns offence and lead them to a 14-10 victory over Detroit Lions.

Miller, from Bowling Green State University, started the second half in place of veteran Brian Sipe.

Provider Exercise Role

The Esquimalt-based operational support ship HMCS Provider, commanded by Capt. R.H. Kirby, and Argus long-range patrol aircraft from CFB Comox are taking part in a major four-nation naval exercise in the eastern Pacific ocean, which began Friday and will continue until Aug. 28.

The exercise, dubbed Fleetex 2-78, is under the over-all direction of Vice-Admiral Samuel Gravely Jr., USN, commander of the Third Fleet, based in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Units from Britain and New Zealand are also taking part in the exercise which is designed to provide essential combined training in naval warfare operations.

Assembling off the southern California coast last Friday, the units will move north to areas off the Washington and Oregon coast.

The major at-sea commanders are Rear-Admiral Kirksey, USN; Rear-Admiral W.H. Bowden, USN, and Rear-Admiral R.R. Squires, RN.

Rear-Admiral A.M. Sinclair, USN, commander of destroyer group five, will operate ashore from Treasure Island, Calif.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

An 18-year-old Regina girl received a suspended sentence and 18 months probation after pleading guilty Monday in Victoria provincial court to possession of approximately $2,100 in stolen property.

Patricia Anne Rigg entered the plea in connection with a joint charge she faced with 17-year-old Richard Monette of Regina and 18-year-old Bernard John Strating of Victoria, who have also been charged with three counts of breaking and entering and have elected trial by judge without jury on all charges.

Crown counsel Nicholas Lang told Judge Blake Allan that Miss Rigg was arrested as a result of the execution of a search warrant Aug. 9 by Colwood RCMP at a suite of the Craigflower Motel, 101 Island Highway.

Found in Miss Rigg's possession, Lang stated, were coins, earings, a necklace, a ring valued at $900, 10 gold bracelets also valued at $900, and a man's watch worth $200 taken from a break-in over the B.C. Day holiday weekend at 117 Helmcken.

Defence-lawyer Vic Simpson said his client was misled and had already spent 11 days in custody awaiting disposition of the charge.

"There's no doubt in my mind you knew these things were stolen," Allan said to Rigg.

He said the only thing in her favor was that she was led into the criminal act.

"In future, keep better company," the judge said after suspending sentence.

A 32-year-old Victoria lawyer has been charged with common assault and being the owner of a vehicle which failed to remain at the scene of an incident under the Motor Vehicles Act.

Jasper Bomhof, 3928 Winton, was charged with an assault on Steven Strickland on July 29.

Defence-lawyer David Hatter, appearing as agent for Bomhof, entered pleas of not guilty to both charges and a trial date of Jan. 11 was fixed by Allan.

A 25-year-old Saanich man who stole auto parts for his own vehicle was jailed for 90 days.

Bruce John Anderson, 3715 Belgrave, changed his plea to guilty on a charge of theft under $200.

Crown counsel Wayne Smith said Anderson went to Associated Auto Wreckers Ltd., 2015 Millstream, at about 11 a.m., Aug. 10, went to an area restricted to the public, and removed part of a bell housing and axle assembly. Smith said Anderson put it in his car, walked to the office and had short conversations with an employee before and after going into the office. He then got into his car and left without paying for the parts, Smith said.

The employee was suspicious because Anderson was in the restricted area, Smith continued, and copied down the licence number. Police were notified and Anderson was stopped following a short chase on Helmcken near the auto wrecker's yard. Found in Anderson's vehicle was a complete rear axle and seals valued at $25.

Anderson had convictions for breaking and entering, theft, taking an auto without the owner's consent, and possession of stolen property beginning in 1970, Smith told Allan.

Defence-lawyer Richard Stewart disagreed with Smith's statement that the act was not a spontaneous one but one which had a certain amount of planning involved. Stewart called it a senseless act, one done in plain view.

A 66-year-old man was fined a total of $150 for trying to sell about 100 pounds of clams to a Victoria restaurant July 16.

Elmer Joe, 7691 Central Saanich Road, pleaded guilty to fishing without a commercial licence and digging undersized clams under the Pacific Shellfish Act.

Crown counsel John Savage said fisheries officers overheard Joe offering to sell 100 pounds of clams to the cook at Shortts Restaurant, 910 Government.

Defence-lawyer Don Fairweather said Joe, a native Canadian, did not realize he needed a commercial licence because his ancestors had always dug for clams without one.

CNR's $954 Demand For Easement Queried

Saanich is demanding an explanation from Canadian National Railway as to why the company wants an annual $954 from the municipality for a three-foot-wide sewer easement across railway property.

Council voted Monday night to send a letter requesting the justification, despite a complaint by Mayor Mel Couvelier that aldermen were pursuing a frivolous matter.

Ald. Ian Cass, sponsor of the motion, replied that if anything is frivolous it is the rental sought by a publicly-owned company.

Ald. David Paterson, who also felt the rental was unreasonable, asked: "What are we taking away from them that is worth $954?"

Even after Saanich reduced its installations on railway property to a minimum, municipal officials were unable to bring the figure below $954 during a full year of negotiations.

In other business Monday night, council:

——Awarded a $52,837 contract to W. Campbell Ltd. for installing a sauna and whirlpool in the Gordon Head Recreation Centre.

——Endorsed a resolution submitted by the B.C. Peace Council opposing the United States' development of the neutron bomb. The resolution will be sent to Prime Minister Trudeau.

Travel Plans In Chaos

planning for months to see the country have cancelled their vacations.

Air Canada president Claude Taylor said he would "sit down any time, day or night, in the next 72 hours to avoid a useless, unwarranted shutdown of service."

In an attempt to avert the strike, Taylor agreed Monday to two of the three main demands of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association.

Taylor said that if the pilots strike, staff layoffs would begin within 48 hours and could ultimately affect half of the company's 20,000 workers.

He said he would not discuss the association's demand that the seniority lists of Air Canada and Nordair be merged.

Air Canada is prepared to deal with that demand only after the airline has acquired Nordair, the Air Canada president said.

Although Taylor has offered to submit to arbitration a dispute with the union over whether pilots may continue to ride first-class while flying to and from assignments, Foster said he could not agree to put such a touchy issue to an arbitrator.

The two sides have reached agreement on salary increases of about 5.5 per cent under anti-inflation board guidelines.

Nigel Dunn, a Toronto post office spokesman, said there will be mail delays if the pilots go on strike.

All mail will have to go by surface routes if there is a strike and delays, depending on the distance to be travelled, will be measured in hours and days, he said.

Railmen Vote To Stay Out

stopped Monday after pickets went up at Prince George, Chetwynd, Fort St. John and Fort St. James, but rail service between here and North Vancouver was not disrupted.

Picket were up briefly at the main rail yard in North Vancouver but most employees at points south of Prince George were on the job. BCR labor relations manager Ted Teichman estimated that about 900 unionized employees were off the job.

The joint council and BCR representatives met informally with Labor Relations Board officers for four hours Monday after the company applied for a return-to-work order. A formal hearing was scheduled today.

Council chairman Norm Farley said the company "suggested that if we could get the picket lines down there would be no discipline," but reversed its stand later.

"The pickets and strike was not authorized and has nothing to do with this council," Farley said. "This council did not condone it or encourage it."

At the LRB hearings, he said the council will be taking the position "that it isn't our strike but a problem they have with a group of dissatisfied employees."

An unidentified union member at strike headquarters in Prince George said there have been no negotiations carried on and the strikers felt a legal strike was impossible. "We've gone through mediation many times and it has never done us any good," he said.

The collective agreement expired July 31 and mediator Fred Geddes, appointed at the company's request, was scheduled to meet Thursday with both parties.

The Great Tube Race: Voyage to Remember

Getting there is all the fun in the Great Inner Tube Race.

Even those who don't quite make it to the finish line have a voyage to remember.

The race on Sunday, Sept. 10, starts under the Craigflower Bridge and follows a course near the northern bank of the Gorge (so the spectators can get a close-up look) and ends at Gorge Park.

The event is sponsored by the Victoria Times and organized by Hampton Park Hustlers, with all proceeds going to help amateur sport.

Inner tubes of any size may be used. Each tube has two people aboard, both paddling like mad while trying to stay dry.

Entrants must be at least 16 and must wear a life jacket because of the chance of an unscheduled swim.

The course is almost one kilometre long, especially taking into account the distance travelled to avoid other tubes. Four marking buoys will be in mid-Gorge to outline the route.

Thousands of spectators will be holding a picnic in the public park and trying not to laugh.

Lion's club and Kinsmen will be selling refreshments at low prices during the day.

Trophies are awarded to race winners in three categories, man-man, woman-woman and man-woman.

Prizes are also also awarded to the oldest team and the team that has come the farthest. Entries from several states and provinces are expected.

A parade at noon will precede the race. Contestants may place their tubes on decorated cars and are awarded prizes for costumes and over-all effect. Contestants are not required to enter the parade and non-contestants are welcome. It is all a casual, informal happening.

However, all contestants must fill out an official entry form in advance.

In addition to the parade and race, there will be a Tubers Ball on Saturday, Sept. 9. The dance at Victoria Curling rink is $5 a couple, couples only, and runs from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Miss Inner Tube will be selected from a number of contestants.

Proceeds from the dance go to teams sponsored by Hampton Park Hustlers but all other proceeds from the Great Inner Tube Race go to a great number of amateur teams in the Greater Victoria District.

Low Priority Seen On Rail Transit

Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Hugh Curtis says a commuter rail system from Langford to downtown Victoria won't be a high priority of the new Urban Transit Authority (UTA).

In the Lower Mainland, however, Curtis foresees the use of a commuter rail service within two years, although he said a move in that direction will be up to the newly appointed interim UTA board of directors.

"There's a significant population out there (Langford-Colwood), but it doesn't match the demand or interest we find in Vancouver. Therefore I find it unlikely either the province or the (UTA) board will try and advance it first," Curtis said.

Curtis, who emphasized he was only speculating because he is simply the cabinet liason to the UTA board, said the first new move in transit will be a rail commuter system in Vancouver.

He says there is sufficient funding available in the five-year financing formula announced two weeks ago to operate commuter trains on the existing CPR mainline running from Coquitlam to downtown Vancouver.

The use of those tracks has already been negotiated and agreed to in principle, Curtis said.

The minister also hauled out a new set of figures that indicate local taxation needed to facilitate the takeover of transit in Greater Victoria from B.C. Hydro will not be as severe as originally forecast.

At the UTA inaugural meeting Aug. 14, the 10 member board was told the local cost of running the buses will go from about $2 million next year to $4.2 or $5 million (depending on how rapid growth is) in the fifth year when the costs will stabilize.

The additional tax of three per cent a gallon on gasoline will still be needed from the start, but there will be no need for property tax levy starting in 1981 as originally forecast.

Victoria should be able to escape any form of property tax, Curtis said.

(Vancouver by contrast faces a mill rate increase of between one-half and 1½ mills depending on rate of growth).

And Victoria will escape a household power levy until the fifth year, and then it will only be 52 cents per household per year if the transit growth is moderate, or $7.24 per year if the growth is rapid.

Regardless of rate of growth in Vancouver, residents there face a $36.82 per household annual power surcharge by the fifth year of operation.

The revised figures will be presented to the UTA at the next board meeting in Victoria Aug. 31.

The UTA was set up under legislation passed this spring as the first step of a new Crown corporation that will operate all public transit systems in the province.

Huge Pot Haul As Plots Spotted From Helicopter

An RCMP helicopter squad has seized more than a ton of marijuana plants over the past two weeks from clandestine plots in remote areas on Lasqueti Island.

S. Sgt. Lou Biggermann of the Parksville RCMP detachment said today 1,000 pounds was seized on Monday after a police helicopter pilot discovered five marijuana gardens growing in small clearings three days ago.

One of the plants was 12 feet tall.

It was the largest seizure to date.

Last week officers cleared out 700 pounds of plants found in another garden and two weeks ago they harvested more than 600 pounds from two more isolated plots.

Biggermann is awaiting authorization from Ottawa to take the plants to Comox where they will be destroyed.

So far no charges have been laid.

Visiting Pair Hurt Slightly In Mishap

Two visitors from Calgary escaped with minor injuries after their car severed a power pole on the Trans Canada Highway at Helmcken Monday evening.

It was one of three accidents in Greater Victoria overnight.

Michael Miller, 21, and his sister Aggie, 17, were taken to Victoria General Hospital where they were treated for cuts and released.

The mishap occurred at 6:50 p.m.

An unidentified Armed Forces servicemen is in fair condition in Royal Jubilee hospital after his motorcycle went off the road in the 4100-block Sooke Road at 7 p.m.

Colwood RCMP said the man, whose name is being withheld pending notification of next of kin, received multiple cuts and fractures to his legs and back.

A single-car accident on Pat Bay Highway south of the Quadra Street overpass at 4:20 a.m. today sent two Saanich women to hospital.

Saanich police said driver Sherridan Amber McGillivray, 20, of 203-69 Burnside and passenger Roxanna Shama, 19, of 135 Crease were treated at Royal Jubilee and released.

The car was demolished.

In other mishaps, a 25-year-old Oak Bay woman is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee after she was thrown out of a car that collided with another vehicle at Cedar Hill Crossroad and Cadboro Bay noon Monday.

Georgina Gower of 1830 Fern received a hair-line fracture of her pelvis.

Oak Bay police said the car rolled at least twice and skidded on its roof a distance of 120 feet.

Two other occupants in the car were uninjured.

Hearing Delayed

Arbitration of a Saanich police contract dispute has been postponed for a month to Sept. 22.

A hearing before Vancouver lawyer Dalton Larson was scheduled to open today at Laurel Point Inn, but was delayed because of his other commitments.

Union proposals will be presented by Dermod Owen-Flood and the municipality will be represented by Jack Giles of Vancouver.

Mika Raps Council Move

Saanich Ald. John Mika today criticized his council colleagues for hurriedly pushing through a development area designation on property at 5699 West Saanich Road, where the owners want to establish a recreational vehicle campsite.

Council voted 4 to 2 Monday night to give first readings to a bylaw designating the 8.6-acre site a development area — the first step toward negotiating a land-use contract.

Only Ald. Ian Cass joined Mika in opposing the move, which came two weeks after council had turned down a rezoning application from the property owners, George and Shannon Maier.

Several other property owners in the area had signed a petition urging council to reject the proposed development.

Mika noted today that council had seen no formal application for the development area designation, nor was there any report from the municipal planner and Advisory Planning Commission (APC).

"I am just dumbfounded that council would have granted something before it was even applied for," he said.

"I am very upset about the whole thing and the way it seems to be developing. I know they (the Maiers) have been lobbying individual aldermen."

Mika said he still believes a recreational vehicle campsite in that area would be totally unsuitable.

And he cannot see how, having strongly recommended rejection of the original proposal, the Saanich planner can now be expected to negotiate the terms of a land-use contract.

In its earlier report to council, the APC said the recreational vehicle campsite would be "unacceptable based on land-use policies for tourist accommodation," which require a full and close range of services including municipal, transportation, commercial and recreational uses.

The report said the West Saanich Road location would be too remote for the proposed use and the impact of recreational motor vehicles would be "intrusive to the enjoyment of the neighborhood by existing residents."

The APC said the rezoning application should be rejected because the scope of the zone applied for was too broad, allowing not only a campsite but also hotel and motel development.

When the item's reappearance on Monday night's agenda was queried by Mika, planner Gil Laurenson appeared to be uncertain why it was up for discussion so soon after council had rejected the original rezoning application.

Mayor Mel Couvelier told council it was there on his instructions.

"I believed the couple should not be left dangling any longer," he explained. "I wanted council to make a decision one way or another . . . it's an honest effort to come to a decision on a land-use matter."

Couvelier added that council had already seen the appropriate supporting documentation, and said he "assumed" council was going to see a revised application for a lower density of campsite units.

Aldermen Geoff Vantreight, Mary Casilio and David Paterson joined the mayor in giving three readings to a bylaw to designate the West Saanich property a development area. Aldermen Fred Severson, Howard Sturrock and Robert Cameron were absent.

Once the bylaw has received final reading the municipality will have to negotiate the terms of a land-use contract with the owners, and when the draft contract is ready the matter will be submitted to a public hearing.

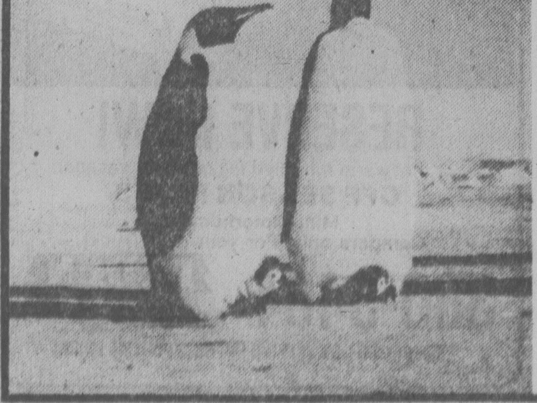
Exchange Student

A Mount Douglas High School student has been chosen as the Saanich Rotary Club exchange student for 1978-79.

Rex Fyles, 17, of 1720 Kingsberry, will leave Friday for Sao Paulo, Brazil, where he will attend the local high school.

During his stay at Piracicaba, he will live with several Rotary families.

A Penguin Behind the Tweed Curtain?



Penguins in Oak Bay?

Ed Smith, 2420 Dryfe, swears that at least one penguin has roamed the streets behind the Tweed Curtain.

It happened 30 years ago when he and his partner, the late Art Dyer, were employed by Oak Bay.

They were mowing the boulevard one day when they saw a penguin waddling toward them, his plumage coated with oil.

They cleaned the bird up as best they could and at the end of the day Smith got astride his bicycle and took the penguin home to show his children.

The next day Smith took the penguin back on the job with him, making the bird comfortable in the boulevard box used for grass clippings.

Smith says a government official came along and offered to take care of the penguin. He went off with the bird and neither Smith nor Dyer ever found out what finally happened.

Smith says some time later he heard that there had been an oil slick at Cadboro Bay.

Veteran television public affairs host Andy Stephen is leaving CHEK and CHAN-TV's Capital Comment after 22½ years.

The program will continue, but with a new host. No reason was given for removing Stephen. The decision was made in Vancouver at BCTV headquarters.

The provincial museum wants volunteers to share any special knowledge they might have with school children touring the facilities.

Last year volunteers worked with some 17,000 school children.

Some training is available. Volunteers are retired people, housewives or workers with weekdays off and their ages range from 20 to 80 years.

Those interested are asked to contact the museum at 387-1358 for details on training which begins in early September.

TOWN TALK

We received an application from Lucia E. Tyner of Glen Ellyn, Ill., for a job with us as a research employee.

At least we think we did.

Her letter was addressed to the Victoria, Vancouver Island, Canada, Village Newspaper in Victoria, Vancouver Island, Canada.

The post office sent the letter to us.

Her application is being declined with thanks, if she means us. While she showed plenty of imagination in addressing the letter, we feel her research skills need to be refined.

An estimated 700,000 Canadians are considered problem drinkers. During the eight years from 1966 to 1974, Canadian per capita consumption of alcohol of persons 15 years and over increased by 34 per cent. With alcohol consumption the number of problem drinkers also increases.

The Dialogue on Drinking is a national program which was introduced in 1976 in the hope that talking about drinking problems would be a step towards solving them.

The 24-page booklet Now We're Talking About Drinking features comments of Canadians from all walks of life and suggests ways of tackling the problem of exessive drinking. However, this is not a do-it-yourself guide because drinking problems have no quick and easy answer.

Although there is still no known cure for alcoholism, several treatment methods are used. Most of these aim at total abstinence.

Besides the actual treatment, prevention is the best cure. This is why most Canadian schools now provide educational programs that deal with problem drinking.

Their GOAL - Get Out And Live

elizabeth forbes

About five months ago the Victoria Volunteer Bureau decided to make an all-out effort to reach a good percentage of retired citizens in this area and to give them an opportunity to help in bureau work.

First move was to recruit a few key people as an organizing team.

This team, small in numbers but dedicated to helping others, went through a short training period. Then, it sat down to formulate a plan that would help it find the many volunteers believed to be out there in the ranks of retired people.

Jack Law, a medical technologist, who came to Victoria last December after 50 or more years as a laboratory manager in Calgary, is chairman of the planning team.

Isobel Prittie, a resident here since the early 1970s is vice-chairman and Volunteer Bureau's Margaux Finlayson, the project's co-ordinator.

First move was to find a suitable title and slogan for the project.

"We tossed the idea around," Jack Law says, "did a bit of brainstorming, looked at any number of words and sentences and finally come up with the word GOAL for a title."

Letters in that word gave them the slogan they wanted — Get Out And Live!

Now they are ready for an all-out recruiting campaign.

Kick-off week is set for September 11 to 16. First four days of that week displays will be mounted in the Mayfair Mall and the last two days in Hillside Mall.

Throughout the week members of the planning team will be there to talk to prospective volunteers and to tell them of the many ways in which they can help.

Next step will see them appearing on television programs, speaking over the radio and being quoted in the press, as they call out to retired people to join them.

As Isobel Prittie explains it, despite the fact that Victoria has a large percentage of retired people "we are far below the average for volunteers from that section of our society."

Margaux Finlayson adds "our statistics for the first six months of 1978 show that only 13 per cent of people coming to the Volunteer Bureau to offer their services to the community, were retired."

GOAL's objective therefore, is to increase this percentage to a figure more appropriate to the numbers of retired persons who live in this area.

Volunteers are needed in many fields.

The bureau has 130 basic agencies asking for help, Miss Finlayson says, "and some of those agencies have as many as 10 different outlets to service."

Members of the planning team will be ready throughout the autumn nonths, to go out to various clubs and organizations, pre-retirement and senior citizens groups, to present the benefits of volunteering.

They will contact those recruited through this project and assist them in chosing an assignment they will like and to which (through previous experience and work) they are best suited.

"There is no hard and fast rule as to the amount of time any one of them would give to volunteer work," Jack Law points out.

"We don't demand. Rather we suggest work suited to a person's capabilities and at their own pace.

"They chose their own hours and the length of time they wish to be involved.

It's an ever changing pattern that offers not only continuing and rewarding activity, but a feeling of well-being in sharing with others, and an opportunity (especially for newly retired in the city) to make interesting new friendships."

Here's your chance to become involved in an worthwhile project whithin the community.

One that will add a new challenge to your life as a retired man or woman (half the total number of volunteers here are men) and, at the same time, give you the satisfaction that comes from being needed.

Postcript — Not only is the GOAL team looking for volunteers to assist in all branches of work at the bureau, it is also in need of more team members to promote this project, through speaking, interviewing and urging retired people to join them in helping others.

Office of the Victoria Volunteer Bureau is Room 204, 620 View Street. The telephone number is 386-2269. If you are interested you can get in touch with Margaux Finlayson there and through her with Jack Law and Isobel Prittie.

Bio-dex

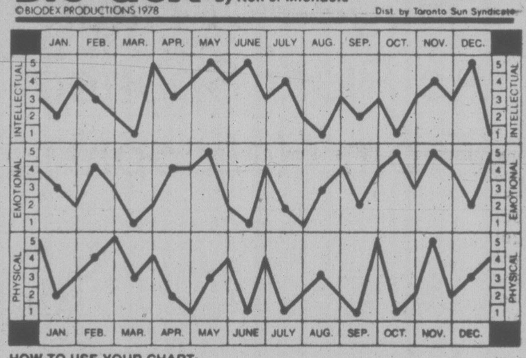
Your computerized biorhythm

©BIODEX PRODUCTIONS 1978

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle- Avoid lifting heavy boxes today, especially if your physical level is low.

6-10 Neutral Cycle- You're about to be bugged by small mechanical breakdowns. Take a bus instead of driving.

11-15 Positive Cycle- Get the heavy duty housecleaning and repairing done while your energy is peaking.

I'm as familiar as anyone with the misery that accompanies a mistake — especially a stupid one. The only point I really work on is to keep myself honest. Don't advertize your errors, but don't make special efforts to hide them either. Never, never try to hang the blame on someone else. Take special care on low Bio-dex days, but remember that 'honest mistakes' will still happen, and they can be forgiven and forgotten.

PROPOSAL ACCEPTED

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — Terri Dean arrived at work to find a 15-foot sign nailed up in front of her office building.

It said: "Terri, I love you!! Will you marry me? Len."

Miss Dean, a 28-year-old brunette, said the painter of the sign, which was decorated with hearts, was a plumber, Len Wheeler, 35.

Miss Dean accepted his proposal.

Youth Clinic

Young readers' questions on human relations and sex are answered by a panel of experts: Marion Powell, medical doctor; Blair Shaw, psychologist; Graham Cotter, clergyman; and Bruce Vichert, social worker. Send questions to Youth Clinic, The Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

Dear Dr. Shaw: I am 17 years old and my problem has caused a lot of unhappiness in my life.

My problem is this: I can talk to my girlfriends, people I've just met, even people I dislike, but when it comes down to having conversation with the guy that I really care for, I can't. My boyfriend is 19 and we have known each other for five great years, but my not talking has caused some problems in this time.

My boyfriend is very understanding and tries to help in his own way and I love him deeply for this, but nothing seems to help.

The one time I can talk to him is when I've had a few drinks. Everything's fine then, but I don't want to go through life with having to drink just so I can tell what's on my mind.

ANSWER: Alcohol helps you relax, but it isn't solving your problem. For some reason you are anxious, tense, maybe afraid when you talk with your boyfriend. If you could search out what is behind this, you would have a big part of the solution.

Some of the common causes of "nervousness" in conversation are: being afraid that we will make a bad impression; being worried that we will lose our special person; trying to be sure that we hide something about ourselves that we don't want him to know about.

Quit the alcohol. Take stock of what you hesitate on when you are talking with your boyfriend. Honestly look over the things you may be afraid of.

Then, decide if you want to take a chance on conversation of an inperfect kind or wait and hesitate until you are going to always say the perfect thing. If you decide on waiting to be perfect, to be absolutely sure, than you will wait forever.

Take a chance. Better to look not so perfect, to make mistakes than to stay apart or to slip into the trap of alcohol solutions for anciety.

Dear Mr. Vichart: I'm a 14½-year-old girl who has been depressed lately, and I can't put up with it any longer. My friend is always putting me down.

It all started a couple of months ago when we went to the school dance. I got asked to dance three times and she didn't get asked even once.

Since then she says bad things about me. For example: She tells me that my hairstyle looks ugly, she things I look terrible in earrings, etc. She tells me these things right to my face!

I tell her to shut up, but she doesn't listen. If this goes on and on I'm going to get away from her. Do you think that she is jealous of me?

ANSWER: I think you may be right. Your friend could be jealous of you. It certainly would not have been much fun for her to go to a dance and not get asked to dance. It may have hurt her also to see her best friend get asked to dance more often.

I am sure she feels sad and confused and hurt and doesn't know what to do with these feelings so they are coming out in an angry way toward you. She probably wishes that she was more like you but feels that that is not possible, so she is trying to make you more like what she feels she is herself.

Talk to her about the dance and her feelings. If you have positive things to say the her say them. Do you know why she didn't get asked to dance? Perhaps you could help her with the reasons.

I feel that she needs and wants your friendship, but because she is confused about her feelings she is doing things that may cause her to lose your friendship.

Jealously is a hard feeling to have and makes you behave in ways that are unpleasant both for others and for oneself. I hope that you will be able to help your friend realize that she does not have to be jealous of you.

Dear Dr. Powell: There is a particular exercise I do in which I lie on my back, raise my buttocks, lift my legs and open and close them in scissor-like fashion. Is it possible for the vaginal tissues to expand and contract so violently during this time that they make sounds similar to passing gas? It's very embarrassing to me.

ANSWER: The vagina is a hollow passageway which is ordinarily collapsed so the sides are in opposition. At the entrance to the vagina there are two sets of lips, the outer lips and the inner lips. When you exercise you are moving your muscles in such a way that air is sucked into the vagina and the passage of this air is what sounds like gas.

There are a set of muscles which close the entrance to the vagina. If you can tighten these muscles you will learn to control this drawing in of air. You should learn to exercise less vigorously or do your exercises in the privacy of your own room. Then no one will hear you and you have no reason to be embarrassed.

Dear Dr. Cotter: I am a 14-year-old girl. I am having an argument with my mother. My father and I go to church and are Protestant.

I said I believed in reincarnation, and my mother told me not to talk so stupid. She said that when you died your soul goes to heaven and you don't come back again. She said that was what it said in the Bible and the Bible doesn't lie.

I told her that I had a right to my opinion and that she couldn't change it. Now she tells me I have to go to a Christian group so that I could learn the truth.

ANSWER: Of course you have a right to your opinion. It would be good for your mother and for you to know what the Bible says. Some Old Testament people believed in resurrection but mainly that souls continued in a vague place called Sheol. The New Testament belief is in the resurrection of the body, with which the soul is reunited. This takes place in the presence and through the power of God.

The "afterlife" is something about which there are many opinions and few facts. We can all have our opinions. But a belief is something which changes our whole life and which is usually based on some kind of evidence or facts. I hope if you get into a Christian group it is one with honesty and sense and not one where ignorance in multiplied.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm 35 and my husband is 36, and my problem is his interest in a 66-year-old woman. Can you believe it? This has been going on for the last six years. They work together, and Jim gives her a ride to work and back. But that's not all — they talk on the phone every night, laughing and carying on like two kids.

Since she doesn't have any means of transportation, Jim carts her around on weekends to do her shopping, errands, doctors' appointments, etc. She pays him back by cutting his hair and giving him manicures and rubdowns. She even clips his toenails!

This woman has been a widow for 20 years, and the only social life she seems to have is with my husband. Some of my friends have asked me if I'm "jealous," so I guess it's common knowledge that he and his old lady have something going.

What I want to know is, what can a 66 year-old-woman do for a 36-year-old man? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: All she has to do is "be there."

DEAR ABBY: I answer the telephone in an office in a small city, and my employers have instructed me to find out who is calling before they take any call.

Over the years I have been subjected to untold abuse when I ask, "Who is calling, please?" I've been told everything including "It's none of your business."

Don't people realize that I couldn't care less who is calling — I'm only following instructions.

Then there are poeple who ask, "Is he there?" (There are three "he's" in this office.

And there are those who call and say, "I'm the one who called yesterday." (At least 100 people called yesterday.)

Here's my favorite: "Didn'y you give him my message?" (I just give messages, I cant make my employers return calls.)

Abby, this is just a sample of how dumb people can be on the phone. Please print this. It may make a few callers change their ways. GULFPORT

DEAR GULF: I'll print your letter, but don't expect miracles. Very few see themselves in my column — only others.

DEAR ABBY: We wonder how many other families living in the prairies (or the North) are blessed with relatives who live in Florida. Their letters are mainly weather reports. And whenever they visit, they take a special delight in bad-mouthing the old hometown.

First of all, this place was good enough for them for about 55 years. Suddenly, it's the pits! Secondly, not everyone likes hot weather all year. It's monotonous. We happen to enjoy the change of seasons. But somehow, when we try to defend our town, it comes out sounding like sour grapes. HOORAY

DEAR HOORAY: Whereverone lives, James Whitcomb Riley's little verse contains good counsel:

"It ain't no use to grubple and complane
It's jest as cheap and easy to rejoice;
When God sorts out the weather and sends rain,
W'y rain's my choice."

ICUs ARE REAL LIFE-SAVERS

By L.L. COLEMAN MD

I keep hearing about the intensive care unit in our local hospital. There was a big blurb about it in the newspaper when it was created. What is new about this? Haven't hospitals always given "intensive care"? — Mrs. L.U.

Dear Mrs. U.:

The intensive care unit (ICU) in hospitals is great evidence of the miracles of this medical-electronic age.

The most complicated life-supporting and life-saving devices are in constant state of readiness for the critically and desperately ill patient. A specially trained group of nurses, doctors and paramedical personnel are instantly available to handle expected and unexpected crises as they arise.

Every conceivable kind of equipment can be brought into action for the resusciation of a patient who runs into difficulty. Monitoring devices, such as the electrocardiograph, register the regularity and rate of the heartbeat of every patient throughout every minute of the day and night in the ICU. Any change in the heartbeat or respiration is immediately seen on a "television screen," so that within seconds a nurse or doctor is at the bedside of the patient. Every conceivable kind of instrumentation is available to treat an emergency as it arises.

The staff has been trained to meed every exigency and to control it without delay. Techniques for cardiac massage and artificial respiration are set in motion when the monitoring board gives any evidence of trouble. Critical situations like post-operative bleeding or obstruction of breathing demand immediate attention.

The remarkable coordination among all members of the staff make it possible to meet that emergency without confusion or delay.

Certainly, all patients in any part of a hospital are given intensive care in any critical situation, but the specialized sophisticated equipment in the intensive care unit is reserved for those patients who are considered to be in particularly critical phase of their progress.

Figs Can be Grown Here

Figs are not widely grown on the south end of Vancouver Island, yet they can be a special item giving much pleasure and even prestige to those who succeed with them.

During the years we have come across a few gardens where a fig tree flourishes and all these gardens are considered sheltered.

In gardening, the word "sheltered" usually means the presence of established trees and shrubs, but it can also denote the existence of buildings, a hill, or a high rock outcrop to the north and north-east from which direction comes our coldest winter winds and weather.

For good cropping on small plants, figs need a restricted root-run therefore do well in a large container on a balcony or patio.

A regular practice when planting in the garden is to build a concrete container in a sheltered corner, about three feet square and two feet deep, with holes in the concrete base pad for drainage.

A heavy soil mixed with good compost well screened and a little coarse sand is a suitable mixture for filling the concrete container.

A stiff sub-soil of clay also seems to have a limiting effect on root size although the plants will be larger than in a container, reaching six to eight feet in height in about ten years with a spread of six feet.

The fig also can be used as an ornamental wall shrub, planted on the south side of a building where warmth is trapped, and trained as a fan.

Those gardeners who have moved to a property containing a fig would be wise to check the shrubs, or tree, for ripening fruits.

Several varities of fig have been sold by local nurseries, most of which try to bear two crops of fruit a year. In our climate only the fruits formed in late spring have a chance of ripening.

Small fruits which form in late July and through August should be removed as they form so that the spring fruits obtain all the nourishments possible to hasten ripening.

A ripe fig, picked from the bush sun-warmed, has no resemblance to the processed figs we buy at the store. The flesh is tender, juicy, and refreshing.

As soon as the fruits reach the size for the variety being grown, usually about three inches long and about two inches in diameter at the base, they must be checked every day for ripeness, for they change from solid green to a yellowish-green over night and are ready to pick.

The test for ripeness is to lift the lower end of each fruit to a horizontal position. If it is fully ripe it will come away in the hand; if it remains attached it may be ripe in five or six hours.

The three largest figs on our small bush suddenly ripened a week ago today, although there was no indication of them being near ripe two days before.

With these three removed, others on the same branch rapidly increased in size and some have already been picked.

Ripe figs are not fruits to store in the refrigerator, nor will they keep many hours at room temperature. They grow in a semi-tropical warm climate and are picked from the trees and eaten immediately.

To taste a ripe fig direct from the bush is an experience not soon forgotten.

PICKY

You know what you want in a home, so why compromise? We have just listed an immaculate home in the Government House area.
CHECK THESE FEATURES:
— a large, manicured lot with lots of sun and privacy
— three bedrooms and a sewing room — newly carpeted living room and dining room with french doors separating
— two fireplaces
— a bright sunny kitchen with a breakfast nook
—a cozy family room odwnstairs with a two piece bathroom
— a drive in garage with access to the basement. This home has been totally renovated, with new wiring, plumbing and a remodelled four piece bathroom. The price is 73,900, and although the vendor is anxious to sell, she does not want a parade of "bargain-hunters". For this reason she has requested that no signs be placed on the property and has listed the property exclusively. So, if you are in the market for something special and can appreciate quality, please phone us now for a private showing.

Roomy But
Reasonable $54,900

From the outside it looks like a small bungalow but there is over 1500 sq. ft. of comfortable appealing living space in beautifully undated Colonial-styled home. Situated ona 50x175 ft. (av.) tree-fringed lot, the fully-fenced back garden offers privacy and a woodsy atmosphere seldom found right in town. Pillared entrance invites you to step inside the graceful foyer where glass panelled doors lead to the bright L.R. Manteled, brick F.P., and wooden casement windows echo the Colonial style. Roomy kitchen has been marvelously updated with work and dining areas handsomely separated by golden ash and leather cabinets and breakfast bar, yet left open enough for easy conversation. Laundry room with good storage is ideally located off. Master B.R., 12'2"x11'3" has a nice woodsy outlook and 2nd BR. has a 9x3 ft. closet for extra storage. Upstairs there are twin 14x8 ft. B.R.s to delight any vounterpl usa largep lay,offie,lcas youngster plus a large play, office or sewing area. Large, separate garaged (wired) provides a good-sized workshop for the handyman or craft-oriented person.

309 IN MEMORIAM

MOSS — In loving memory of Nephew Lloyd, who passed away August 22, 1977.
Just a sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion
Of one who thinks of you.
— Sadly missed by Uncle Ove, and Aunt Shirley and boys.

MOSS — In loving memory of Grandson Lloyd who passed away August 22, 1977.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Sadly missed by his Grandmother.

MOSS—In loving memory of our only son, Lloyd Robert, who passed away suddenly August 22, 1977, aged 18 years.
To hear his voice, to see his smile,
To sit and talk to him awhile,
To be together in the same old way
Would be our dearest wish today.
Dear Lord, forgive a silent tear
A constant wish that he were here.
Others are taken, yes we know,
But he was ours, and we loved him so.
— Very sadly missed by Dad and Mom.

In loving memory of our only brother, Lloyd Robert, who passed away suddenly August 22, 1977, aged 18 years.
He had a nature you could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold:
And to those who knew him and loved him,
His memory will never grow cold.
Very sadly missed by his sisters, Sherry, Betty and brother-in-law Leo.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUDE. SANDS

Soviet Sub Limps Home

LONDON (AP) — A crippled Soviet nuclear submarine that surfaced off the northwest coast of Scotland has slipped its tow and is proceeding home under auxiliary diesel power, the British defence ministry said Monday.

A ministry spokesman said the report came from a U.S. Navy Orion reconnaissance aircraft based in Keflavik, Iceland. U.S. Orions and Royal Air Force Nimrod reconnaissance planes have been shadowing the submarine since it surfaced Saturday night.

The 4,800-ton Echo II class sub is believed heading for the port of Murmansk, opening onto the Barents Sea in northern Russia. Murmansk is the headquarters of the Soviet northern fleet.

The defence ministry said the submarine was slowly moving eastward on the surface about 160 kilometres north of Cape Wrath, the northwestern tip of Scotland. It is believed to have had a breakdown in its nuclear power plant.

The Royal Navy said the sub, which carries eight launchers for surface-to-surface missiles, surfaced after sending calls for assistance to other units of the Soviet fleet.

The submarine was escorted by a Soviet tug, and also by a missile cruiser and Kashin-class missile destroyer, which left briefly during the day but later rejoined the sub. An additional tug and tanker joined the small fleet later, as did a Natya ocean-going minesweeper.

The convoy was shadowed by the British navy patrol ship Lindisfarne and the Danish frigate Frylla.

U.S. Using Access as Air Lever

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new policy adopted by the United States seeks to pressure other nations into approving cut-rate air fares and open airline competition in return for giving foreign carriers expanded access to U.S. cities.

It already is making foreign air travel inexpensive enough for middle-income Americans to afford, President Carter and Transportation Secretary Brock Adams say.

The new policy was formally announced Monday. But U.S. negotiators used it even before that as an informal guideline for working out revised aviation agreements with Britain, the Netherlands and Israel.

Carter, in a statement issued by the White House, cited the Israeli agreement as a prime example of what the new policy can provide.

Israel has agreed to drop its restrictions on U.S. charter flights, to approve fare cuts of as much as 50 percent and to let more U.S. airlines fly between the United States and Israel.

In return, the Israelis, who now fly only to New York, may inaugurate service to four additional U.S. cities of their choice.

More than 20 nations are seeking to rewrite bilateral air agreements with the United States and gain access to a larger share of the U.S. travel market. The United States, in turn, is seeking to end discrimination against U.S. airlines and fewer restrictions on competition among international carriers.

The talks have been marked by problems, with other nations often resisting the idea of open competition, and in one case — Japan — they are at a stalemate.

At a White House news conference, Adams said the policy change will mean "more service from more points in the United States to all over Europe, and later to Asia, at a lower price than before."

He noted fares already have been cut by up to 41 per cent to Amsterdam and 45 per cent to London, and soon may be cut by up to 50 per cent to Tel Aviv.

Adams left open the possibility of eventual flights from the United States to China, but indicated they are unlikely to come soon. He said talks with Japan stalled after "very hard bargaining," but indicated discussions with West Germany and other European nations should go more smoothly.

Saudis Favor Small 'Doses' Over Big Hike

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — Saudi Arabia has signalled its decision to raise petroleum prices, but the oil giant says the increases will be small and spread out to avoid jolting the world economy.

Saudi Oil Minister Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani said "doses" of gradual price increases will avoid a "jolt" that could damage the world economy far more seriously than the oil price explosion of 1973-1974.

Petroleum industry sources said Yamani's remarks Sunday indicated Saudi Arabia, the most powerful oil producer in the oil cartel, was abandoning its oil price freeze in 1978 in favor of moderate increases in 1979.

Iran, the No. 2 producer in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, already has made it clear it wants an increase for 1979.

Western officials have warned that any major increase in the price of oil will spur inflation, increase the huge U.S. trade deficit and put new pressure on the battered dollar.

Whether or not the Saudis and other OPEC nations decide on an official price increase, the Middle East Economic Survey, an authoritative oil industry analyst, predicted Monday that market conditions will drive prices up before the end of this year.

Yamani would not discuss any proposals he plans to make to OPEC at its December meeting that will decide 1979 prices.

"We should not be shortsighted," he told the Saudi newspaper Al Medina in an interview. "If we do not allow for gradual price increases in the future we will face a sharp increase that could jolt world economies in the 1980s.

"This jolt might bring more serious effects than those at the end of 1973 and the beginning of 1974," Yamani said. "There should be doses of oil hikes."

Yamani opinion on such matters usually decides OPEC's course of action, since Saudi Arabia is by far the No. 1 crude oil producer in the 13-nation cartel.

The Middle East Economic Survey said the price increases already have begun.

The newsletter said Saudi Arabian light — the so-called "marker crude" used as the price benchmark by OPEC — is going for 10 cents a barrel above its posted price of $12.70 a barrel.

VAPOR DANGER FEARED

CHICAGO (UPI) — As many as 100 persons may suffer long-term physical harm because they breathed poisonous vapor or touched pesticide released by an explosion at a suburban chemical plant, a scientist says.

The explosion at the Stauffer Chemical Co., Chicago Heights, Friday killed two persons and injured 39 others. The blast caused a powerful pesticide called EPN to escape from plant containers.

Eileen Choffnes, a staff scientist for Citizens for a Better Environment, a non-profit group, said Monday she was told as many as 100 people were walking in the factory moments after the blast.

However, Cecil Lue Hing, a Metropolitan Sanitary District scientist who inspected the explosion site, said the woman's charges that the individuals had been harmed was "hogwash."

Hing, director of research and development for the sanitary district, said there was no record of any kind of widespread contamination from the manufacturing of EPN.

Drugs Stolen; Prisoners Riot

SYDNEY (UPI) — More than 150 prison inmates broke into a clinic today, stoked up on a variety of drugs then went on a burning rampage at a penal institution near Australia's largest city.

At least 30 prisoners at the Long Bay jail, five miles south of Sydney, were injured before the riot was put down by guards and police, a spokesman for the Department of Corrective Services said.

Flames from the uprising could be seen for miles around. Authorities said the prisoners set fires in nearly every section of the prison, where most of the 400 inmates make auto licence plates, clothing and boots.

Police sealed off the jail and all approach roads, and armed guards wearing bulletproof vests patrolled the area.

Some 150 prisoners broke into a clinic and took a large amount of drugs, then set fire to the clinic before going on their rampage.

The Minister for Corrective Services, William Hajgh, told a news conference none of the injured prisoners was in serious condition. He said the worst injury was a broken jaw and said none of the prisoners had been shot.

"A counter-attack by prison officers forced the rioting prisoners into an exercise yard and shortly after lunch all prisoners were trapped and the fires brought under control," he said.

The fires did not affect the security of the jail and the prisoners later were locked in their cells, he said.

French Envoys Expelled

PARIS (AP) — Laos has expelled all French diplomats from Vientiane, the Laotian capital, resulting in a "de facto" break in relations with France, the French foreign ministry announced today.

The ministry issued a statement expressing regret at the "arbitrary decision" by the former French protectorate's Communist government. It expressed the hope "the day would come when the two countries can renew relations."

Charge d'Affaires Christian Lambert and embassy counsellor Michael Guetin were expelled in June, and French officials in Paris said the latest expulsion was owing to France's having given asylum to Laotian refugees from the Communist regime.

Peru Copper-Belt Crisis Declared

LIMA (Reuter) — The Peruvian government declared a state of emergency Monday night in southern and central regions of the country where 50,000 copper miners have been on strike for the last 20 days.

The miners are demanding the reinstatement of union leaders dismissed after previous strikes and the repeal of a decree outlawing strikes.

But the state-owned company which operates the Andean copper mines has said that the strike was politically motivated and aimed at toppling the military government.

In addition to the state of emergency, the government also suspended constitutional guarantees in the mining regions.

The strike has brought the mining industry, which accounts for about 70 per cent of Peru's foreign earnings, nearly to a standstill.

Lovers Face Hanging

SINGAPORE (Reuter) — A Singapore court on Monday sentenced two lovers to death by hanging for trafficking in heroin.

The woman, Siti Aminah Binti Jaffar, was the first woman to receive the death sentence under Singapore's tough drug laws, passed three years ago.

She was charged with abetting her 27-year-old unemployed lover, Anwar Ali Khan, found guilty of carrying 43.5 grams of heroin.

The two have the automatic right of appeal for presidential clemency. Fourteen men have been sentenced to death under the new laws and two have been hanged so far.

The couple pleaded not guilty during the 19-day trial.

Love Boat Rescues Fishermen

VANCOUVER (CP) — The vessel Pacific Princess, better-known as television's Love Boat, was involved in the rescue of six persons on board a burning fishboat off the Alaska coast.

Rescued were Capt. Michael Ellis and his crew of five, from the Atasca of Ketchikan, Alaska.

The fishboat's distress call early Saturday was picked up by the British ship near Sakai Bay. The Pacific Princess diverted course and steamed 24 kilometres to pick up the six.

The rescued party left the 20,000-ton ship in the pilot boat at Triple Island, near Prince Rupert.

More than 8,000 kilograms of abalone were lost when the Atasca, owned by Canam Co. of Tacoma, Wash. burned and sank.

Pacific Princess, commanded by Capt. John Crichton, is based here for a series of eight-day Alaskan cruises.

Police Bare Bomb Threat

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — Police sappers today safely detonated an explosive charge found in the Jewish quarter of east Jerusalem's Old City, police said.

Police sources said that the discovery of the bomb brought to 12 the number of sabotage attempts by Palestinian guerrillas during the last fortnight.

Increased guerrilla activity had been anticipated before Sept. 5 Middle East conference at Camp David, Md.

Planes Collide

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Two men were killed and a third was critically injured when two small airplanes collided, police said. A third pilot said the two planes had in the past engaged in aerial games.

MAN TOLD TO SIT NAKED IN PARK

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A Sault Ste. Marie man was sentenced Monday to an Ontario correctional centre on charges of extortion and unlawfully pretending to practise witchcraft.

Richard Stanley Jargan, 27, was sentenced to seven months for extortion and one month, to be served concurrently, for witchcraft.

The charges were laid after complaints by Antoine Dosco, 39, who said he gave Jargan $1,000 between December, 1977, and January, 1978, to rid him of a curse.

Dosco believed the curse had been placed on him by a woman named Sister Mary, alleged to have told him he would be dead by Christmas.

Dosco testified Jargan claimed to be high priest of a voodoo association and sold him oils, powders and ointments to use as charms.

Dosco said he witnessed crosses being burned on the door of Jargan's residence, saw a miniature coffin outside his window and a knife driven through a portrait with red liquid on it.

Dosco said he was told to spend a night sitting in a city park nude except for a towel around him, and to sprinkle powder on a tombstone.

The defence said Dosco had admitted to consuming a quantity of alcohol during the rituals and had not given the court a clear picture of events.

Jargan is currently serving 18 months in a correctional centre for 10 prior convictions of fraud.

Palestinian Role In Talks Blasted

MONTREAL (CP) — Israeli transport minister Meir Amit has criticized the Montreal-based International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) for permitting the Palestine Liberation Organization to participate in security talks.

Amit sent the aviation organization a telegram Monday concerning the grenade and machine-gun attack on an Israeli airline bus in London by suspected Palestinian terrorists.

In it, the minister said the incident "once again emphasizes the absurdity that this PLO organization has been invited by ICAO to sit as observer" and to participate in debates dealing with improvement of air security.

Zvi Caspi, Israeli consul-general and permanent representative to ICAO, said he "deplores that these acts of terrorism do not cease and that the endeavors of ICAO to strive for increased security to avoid unlawful interferences in civil aviation ha been to no avail."

Last October, ICAO members voted by a wide majority to allow the PLO a position as a non-voting observer in the United Nations-affiliated body.

Canada and 32 other members abstained from the vote. Only Israel, the United States and South Africa voted against the proposal, introduced by 20 Arab member-nations.

Ont. Bus Unchecked Since Dec.

HAMILTON (CP) — Three buses that collided Friday, injuring 56 persons, mostly children, had not been checked by the Ontario transportation ministry since December.

Fifty-one children and five adults suffered minor injuries when the buses, returning from a YMCA day camp, collided.

The mishap occurred when the lead bus in a convoy turned on a rural road and apparently stalled. A second bus swerved to avoid hitting it and was struck by the third, which pushed it into the stalled bus.

A preliminary inspection Monday by federal and provincial transportation officials showed that the third bus had a burst brake lining.

Driver Raj Bhuller said he could not slow the bus because the vehicle's brakes had failed.

Bus Firm Charged

MONTREAL (CP) — A suburban bus company pleaded not guilty in sessions court Monday to six counts of criminal negligence after police alleged that six of the company's buses were mechanically unsound.

The charges were laid against Autobus Trans Urbain Inc. of Pointe Claire last June, after Montreal Urban Community police, acting on citizens' complaints, inspected a general passenger bus and five school buses.

Sterling Group Bid Reported

TORONTO (CP) — Maclean-Hunter Ltd. said Monday it has agreed in principle to purchase all shares of Sterling Newspapers Ltd. from Conrad M. Black, David Radler and Peter White.

Sterling publishes nine daily, nine weekly and two twice-weekly newspapers. The printing facilities of Sterling are included in the purchase.

The cash purchase price was not disclosed.

All of the papers and printing facilities are in British Columbia, with the exception of a newspaper and two printing plants in Prince Edward Island.

The B. C. daily papers are: Cranbrook Townsman, Fort St. John Alaska Highway News, Kimberley Daily Bulletin, Nelson News, Port Alberni Alberni Valley Times, Prince Rupert News, Terrace Herald and Trail Times.

The newspapers will continue to be published by the Sterling group.

Radler said in an interview in Vancouver he will stay on to oversee the papers.

Debt 'Costs $1M a Day'

HALIFAX (CP) — Canadians are paying $1 million a day interest on a national debt that will hit $15 billion this year, despite announced spending cuts of $2 billion, former prime minister John Diefenbaker said here Monday.

He attributed the size of the debt to "the wild extravagance" of Prime Minister Trudeau and singled out the cost of Trudeau's personal office as an example.

The prime minister's office spent $50,000 in the early 1960s but now cost taxpayers more than $3 million.

"He now has more high salaried servants running around multiplying faster than rabbits," Diefenbaker said.

The former national Tory leader spoke at a Halifax news conference where he appeared with provincial PC leader John Buchanan, currently campaigning for a provincial general election Sept. 19.

Later, Diefenbaker attented a Colchester Conservative picnic at Glenholme, a few miles north of Truro, where he attacked Trudeau on proposed constitutional reforms.

Woes 'Begin at Home'

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Joe Clark, federal Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday it is time to do away with the idea that Canada's economic problems originate outside the country.

Addressing about 500 persons at a meeting sponsored by the Peterborough Conservative riding association, Clark said: "The fundamental fact is that the major problems here are created here."

The Opposition leader said the Trudeau government cannot be trusted and Prime Minister Trudeau cannot get along with any of the 10 provincial premiers.

"Trudeau isn't the prime minister, Keith Davey is," Clark said, referring to Senator Keith Davey, a Liberal party campaign organizer.

"Everything they do is designed to win a vote here and now. They've given the government over to public relations."

Fall Election Expected

KITIMAT (CP) — Ed Broadbent, federal New Democratic Party leader, said Monday that Prime Minister Trudeau will announce spending programs shortly to buy votes for an election to be held this fall.

Broadbent also attributed the improvement in Gallup Poll ratings of the NDP to the fact that it has refrained from making cynical comments about the incompetence of the Liberal party.

Broadbent condemned Trudeau for the 96-cent gap in beef prices between the farm gate and what consumers in Vancouver pay. He said it was half that amount in the United States.

On Monday in Vancouver, Broadbent said that if he were prime minister he would call in the presidents of six supermarket chains "to get to the bottom of unfair meat prices."

Broadbent also attacked Trudeau for the fact that Export Development Corp. was providing financial guarantees for the construction of a $1-billion copper project in Panama.

Hua Blasts Big Power Rivalry

BELGRADE (AP) — Chairman Hua Kuo-feng of China opened his visit to Yugoslavia with a blast at both the Soviet Union and the United States, accusing them of "aggression and expansion in their rivalry to gain mastery of the world."

Speaking at a banquet Monday night after his arrival from Romania for an eight-day visit, the leader of the Chinese Communist party did not identify either of his targets by name.

Instead he said "imperialistic" forces, meaning the United States, and "hegemonistic forces," meaning the Soviet Union, "are engaged in a furious arms race and preparations for war; everywhere they are engaged in aggression and expansion in their rivalry to gain mastery of the world."

Hua also accused the Soviet Union of trying to undermine the non-aligned movement, and he told the movement's founding patriarch, Yugoslav President Tito:

"We resolutely support the struggle of Yugoslavia to safeguard the unity of the non-aligned movement and to preserve its fundamental orientation."

He said the movement "has become a very important force in the struggle of the peoples of the entire world against imperialism, colonialism and hegemony."

"For this very reason, some consider the non-aligned movement a serious obstacle to realization of their aggressive and expansionist policy," he said. "They are trying at all costs to disrupt the unity of the non-aligned movement, to divert and subordinate it to their hegemonist objectives."

Hegemony, or dominance, is the term the Chinese use to describe the goal of Soviet policy.

Hua is making the first visit to Europe by a Chinese Communist party chairman since Mao Tse-tung went to Moscow in 1957. The Russians have accused him of trying to divide the Soviet bloc.

Tanks Guard Airport

LONDON (UPI) — Armed troops in full battle dress, with Scorpion light tanks, Saracen armored cars and camouflaged personnel carriers moved into London's Heathrow airport today.

The major show of force followed a terrorist attack against an El Al Israeli airline bus in London's West End Sunday.

An El Al stewardess, Irit Gidron, and a suspected terrorist were killed, a second stewardess critically wounded and eight others hurt in the hand grenade and machine gun ambush as El Al crew members arrived at their hotel.

One suspected gunman was captured and still was being interrogated by police.

Troops carrying automatic rifles were put on patrol in the airport's central terminal area and along its perimeter road. They made spot checks of passing automobiles and kept watch on the runways.

El Al said Miss Gidron's body was being flown back to Israel this afternoon.

A spokesman at Middlesex Hospital said Miss Judith Arnon is still in critical condition. They said five other victims of the attack still were being treated and were unlikely to leave the hospital Tuesday. They said one patient had discharged herself.

Government officials said Prime Minister James Callaghan has rejected an appeal from Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin that El Al security guards should be allowed to carry weapons inside Heathrow airport.

Mrs. Francis Dies at 90

Funeral services will be held at McCall's chapel at 3.30 p.m. Wednesday for the wife of Victoria jeweller F.W. Francis.

Mrs. Kathryn Francis, 90, who was born in Esquimalt, died Monday.

She was a long-time member of the Daughters of the Nile.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Betty McArthur, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ona Francis, four grandsons and two great-granddaughters.

She was predeceased by two sons, Hugh and Buzz.

Paving Contracts Awarded

The provincial government has awarded a $1.3 million contract to Dawson Construction Ltd. of Vancouver to pave 10.8 kilometres of the Alaska Highway near Dawson Creek.

A $498,000 contract for a 13.1 kilometre paving program in the Chetwynd area has been granted to Aero Asphalt Paving Ltd. of Dawson Creek.

A $356,000 contract to strengthen and upgrade the Vavenby bridge 150 kilometres east of Kamloops, has been awarded to Kingston Construction Ltd. of Burnaby.

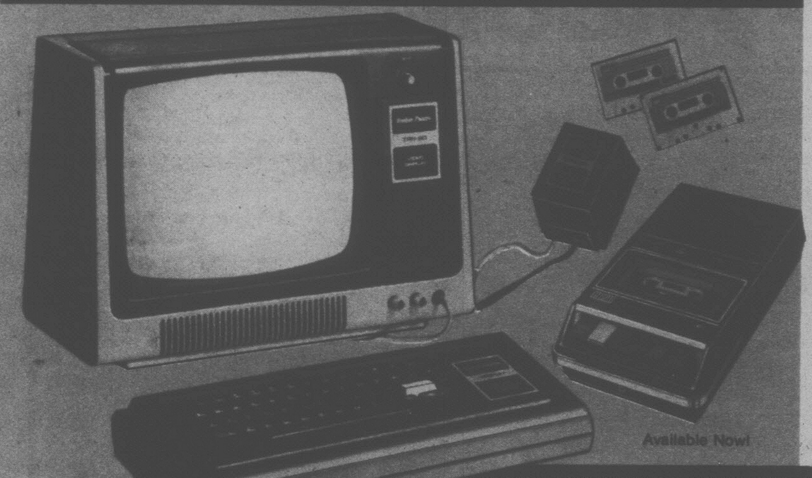
TRS-80 microcomputer



Meet the BASIC TRS-80

The 'brain' of the TRS-80 is a Z-80 micro-processor chip that serves as the central processing unit. The basic computer memory includes a 4K ROM (read-only memory, i.e. unalterable) where Level I BASIC (the computer language) is stored; it is also comprised of 4K RAM (read/write memory, i.e. alterable) where you can store your programs or data and change them at will. The computer is offered to you completely assembled with a power supply and a built-in keyboard (26-1001). To complete this basic system, a 12" video display terminal (26-1201) and a CTR-41 Realistic cassette recorder (14-841) are available at the system price above or sold separately (see top right of this page).

A small plug-in computer for everyday use... and it's expandable to meet your needs

For everyday use

If you are looking for an efficient and reliable way to manage your personal finances, to keep a running inventory of your groceries, to learn mathematics and music theory or if you simply want to relax by playing challenging games... The TRS-80 is the answer! And if you don't know a thing about computers... don't worry; our 300-page manual will teach you, step by step, all you need to know.

The Basic TRS-80 System

Computer with power supply and built in keyboard 26-1001 ... 575.95
12" video display 26-1201 ... 299.95
Realistic CTR-41 cassette recorder 14-841 69.95

Items bought separately: $945.85

Buy the complete basic system for 879.95

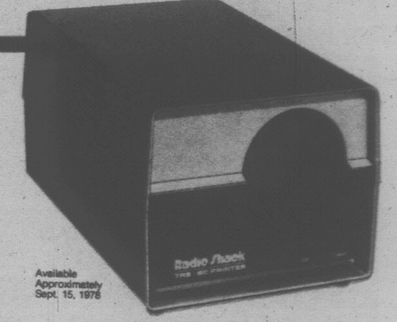
Need low-cost print-outs?

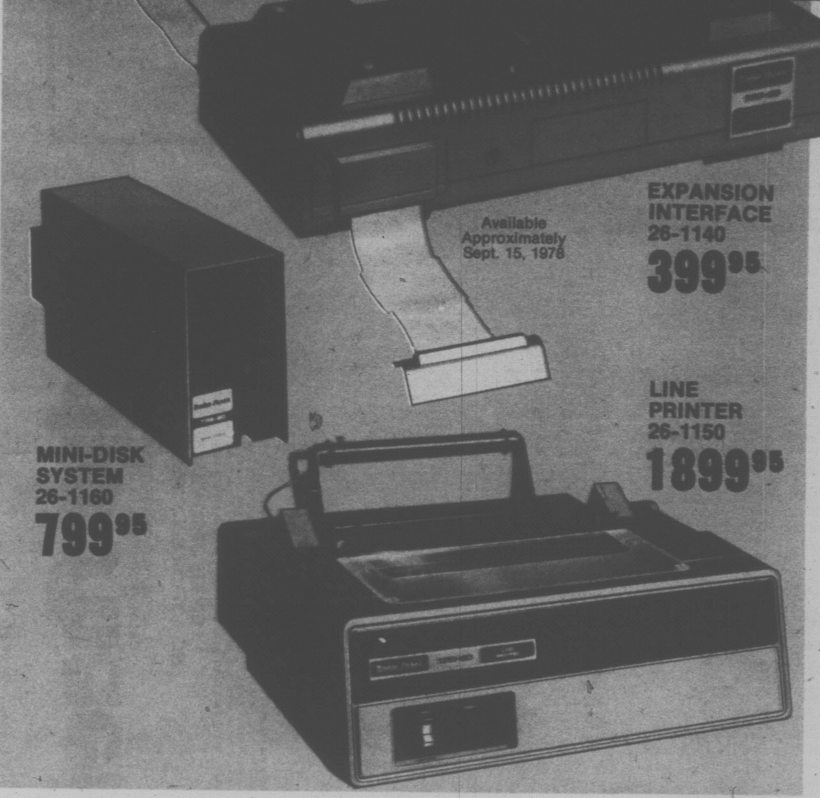
If you wish to have a low-cost permanent record of what appears on your video screen - whether it be data or graphics—simply link our electrostatic printer to the basic TRS-80 opposite. It will print 2200 characters per second on electrostatic 4"-wide paper. 26-1151 .... $899.95



Expandable to meet growing needs

Small businesses can now afford to computerize their financial accounting systems, payroll, inventory control and tax records. A TRS-80 can also be an extremely versatile educational tool: programmed teaching methods can be used to ask students questions on virtually any subject or give certain students repetitive instruction. In the case of laboratories, the TRS-80 can be programmed to handle mathematical calculations and can also serve for mass data storage.

Meet the Expansion Interface



EXPANSION INTERFACE 26-1140 399.95
Available Approximately Sept. 15, 1978
LINE PRINTER 26-1150 1899.95
MINI-DISK SYSTEM 26-1160 799.95

Upgrading your TRS-80 to meet growing needs can be done by means of the expansion interface. This device contains sockets for an additional 16K or 32K RAM and a disk controller for up to four mini-disks (therefore more storage memory according to the need). Software-selectable dual cassettes can be used. The expansion interface, which provides a real-time clock, attaches to (and continues) the TRS-80 bus. However, it requires a more powerful language and therefore, Level II of BASIC is needed for the expansion.

Expansion Interface. 26-1140 .... $399.95
LEVELL II BASIC Language in 12K ROM. 26-1120 .... $159.95

NEED BETTER PRINT-OUT CAPABILITY?

With your existing 4K of RAM memory, plus Level II BASIC and the expansion interface above, you can use our line printer and achieve true small-business capability (i.e. better looking hard copy, larger paper format etc.) It will print from 60 to 110 characters per second using 5 x 7 impact dot matrix on rolls of paper up to 9.8" wide. The line printer is available under number 26-1150 for only 1,899.95

The TRS-80 microcomputer and its accessoires are available by special order through your nearby Radio Shack store. Ask for a list of our available pre-programmed cassette tapes, too!

NEED MORE STORAGE SPACE AND GREATER SPEED?

To literally transform your TRS-80 into a new system capable of processing business applications, there is the TRS-80 Mini-Disk System. Instead of 4K of RAM however, you will require 16K (also available) plus Level II BASIC and the expansion interface above. The Mini-Disk system gives you a transfer rate of 125K bits per second and an average access time of 1/2 second. It has storage capability of 80K bytes per disk (a total of 4 disk units may be added) and includes the required TRS-80 DOS software (i.e. the programs needed in the case of a Disk Operating System). So, for greater operating speed and more storage capability, get our Mini-Disk System 26-1160 for only ...... $799.95 each.

Radio Shack The TRS-80 with Level I BASIC is available at most Radio Shack stores. All other peripherals must be ordered from our warehouse stock and will require extra time for delivery.

BABYSITTER HELD

DUNCAN — A 16-year-old boy was to appear in Family Court here today charged with second degree murder in connection with the weekend death of a two-and-a-half-year-old child.

Duncan RCMP said Gurgit Singh Dhaliwal was found dead in a house at 6210 Hawkes Boulevard about 10 a.m. Saturday.

Results of an autopsy conducted in Victoria Sunday have not been released but a police spokesman indicated today the child died of multiple injuries from blows.

The spokesman said the dead child's parents were not at home and the accused juvenile had been babysitting the Dhaliwal boy and one other child at the time of the incident.

The second child was not harmed.

$3.6 Billion For Booze

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians purchased alcoholic beverages valued at $3.688 billion in the year ending March 31, 1977, up 8.2 per cent from the previous year, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

The value of imported spirits, wines and beers sold fell to $164 million from $170 million the previous year but the country sold $257 million abroad, up slightly.

MUNRO DEMANDS TALKS

Vacation Plan Chaos As Travellers Panic

Travellers panicked by the impending Air Canada strike are either cancelling vacations, transferring to U.S. airlines or using any other means to leave Victoria.

According to reports from across Canada, the situation here is typical.

Meanwhile, it was reported today that Federal Labor Minister John Munro has asked representatives of Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association to meet him today in an effort to avert a strike by the pilots.

Captain Norman Foster, chief negotiator for the pilots said in an interview that he received "a very specific request from Mr. Munro to meet in Ottawa."

Local travel agencies report they are struggling under a gigantic logistics problem caused by people who don't want to take a chance with their holidays.

Most agencies worked until midnight Monday making alternate arrangements, which for the most part means flying people to the U.S.

People returning to Victoria from vacations elsewhere in Canada and abroad are also being rerouted through the states.

CP Air phone lines have been jammed since Sunday when the strike possibility was announced, according to an airlines spokesman.

He said there is little CP Air can do because it is at its late summer peak and booked solid.

CP Air is allowed to handle 25 per cent of all transcontinental flights compared with the 75 per cent allotted to Air Canada, the spokesman said.

"This is an abnormal situation. All our equipment is committed and there is very little we can do to take up the slack."

Greyhound Bus Lines reports long lineups materialized Monday at its Victoria terminal after the news of a possible shutdown Wednesday midnight by Air Canada.

Via Rail has had a sudden increase in reservations.

Airline officials estimate about 40,000 persons use the airline daily at this time of year and a strike would cost the airline about $2.5 million a day.

According to Eric Charman of Featherstone Travel, the economic damage caused by the strike threat is irreparable, even if a negotiations resume.

"The damage has been done; the revenue has been lost to Canada. That's more money out of the country." Charman said today.

Charman said this air service disruption is another major disaster to the Canadian tourist industry because Canada is getting a bad reputation.

"People are starting to wonder what the hell is going on in Canada."

He said a lot of disappointed people who have been

Pet shop owner Hubertus Kaatz chucks chin of $219.99 merchandise

Bandit the Pet Raccoon Steals Lots of Attention

A Victoria pet store has a raccoon for sale for $219.99 and Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals manager Don Adams isn't too happy about the idea.

Adams says his organization would like a ban on raccoons as pets but as long as the animals are given adequate food, water and shelter it is powerless to act.

The 10-week-old raccoon, Bandit, has drawn a great deal of attention since he arrived at the Sea Shore Pet Shop at the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Store owner Hubertus Kaatz says Bandit's high price tag is due to the fact he was born and hand-raised on a Californian raccoon breeding farm.

Kaatz warns that owning a raccoon is demanding. "They need lots of attention. I don't really care if I do sell him," he says.

Kaatz says raccoons should never be left alone at large in a home because of the likelihood of their going on the rampage.

Bandit was raised on a bottle and fed a special formula including milk, pablum, dog and cat food.

Kaatz warns that prospective purchasers should be sure they are prepared to give the animal the attention it needs.

As they get older, raccoons become more demanding and rambunctious and should be spayed or neutered to cut down on temperament problems.

"The female is usually okay for about a year until she reaches her first sexual cycle. Then she becomes very aggressive. The male becomes aggressive sooner," Adams says.

He says when this happens the owner often sets the animal free but by that time the damage is done. The racooon has no fear of people. "They actually attack people."

He says a friend of his was severely bitten on a leg and foot when he entered a Pat Bay garage where the owner keeps four or five raccoons.

The provincial government's wildlife act allows people to keep a maximum of two wild raccoons as pets but officials do not recommend the practice.

Clio Matheson of the Wild Life Reserve of Western Canada says raccoons are very gentle for the first three months and then become aggressive.

Provincial fish and wildlife officer Jack Lenfesty says released raccoons can become dangerous if they are cornered.

He says the wild raccoon population is on the increase. "They are a damn nuisance. They can make a shambles of an ornamental lily pond if they get into it looking for frogs."

His advice: "Don't feed them. Don't encourage them."

Instant Provincial Winnings

TORONTO (CP) — A new feature of The Provincial lottery, enabling ticket holders to be eligible for instant prizes, is the corporation's answer to Loto Canada's instant money pouches, the president of the Interprovincial Lottery Corporation said Monday.

During a news conference held to announce four additional $1-million grand prizes and the new instant prizes in The Provincial, Marshall Pollock said that "we're fighting very hard to increase our share of the market."

Starting with tickets for the September draw, Provincial ticket holders would be able to scratch off a silver-grey covering in one corner of the ticket that could reveal a prize of $100, $20, $10 or a free-ticket bonus.

NEY GOES FROM TUBS TO TUBES

Entries are pouring in for the Great Inner Tube Race which goes Sept. 10 and a man better known in connection with tubs will be front and centre come race day.

The tube race, sponsored by the Victoria Times and organized by the Hampton Park Hustlers, will have as its pre-splash parade marshall, none other than Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney.

Ney, who has been heavily involved in Nanaimo's bathtub race for years, will arrive in a pirate costume (and who knows, may even be coerced into trying out a tube).

See page 17 of today's Times for more details on the race, a map of the course and an entry form.

Railmen Vote To Stay Out

YOU FOUND A HOUSE YOU CAN AFFORD?! WHAT IS IT SUB-STANDARD?
NO, SUB-MERGED.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — About 300 British Columbia Railway workers in this north central B.C. city voted unanimously Monday night to continue a wildcat strike which began Sunday.

Union spokesman said workers agreed to remain off the job because BCR withdrew an offer that it would take no reprisals against strikers when they returned to work.

A wage offer made by BCR was also rejected because the union said it exceeded federal anti-inflation guidelines and would never be accepted by the government.

The Joint Council of Railway Unions, representing seven BCR unions, said it had nothing to do with the strike.

A spokesman for the strikers said they prefer to deal directly with the government because they do not trust third-party negotiators.

The strike started when about 150 BCR workers here saying they were tired of waiting for an official strike vote, walked off the job.

VICTORIA MAN STAB VICTIM

A 22-year-old Victoria man is dead from stab wounds and two Victoria-area youths are in custody following a street fight in Edmonton early today.

Charged with second degree murder are David Edgar Roy Graves and Andrew John Carter, both 18 and from the Greater Victoria area.

They were to appear in Edmonton provincial court this afternoon.

The name of the dead man has not been released.

An Edmonton police spokesman said three youths became involved in a fight in front of the Hotel Corona on Jasper Avenue about 3 a.m.

As police arrived the three ran off, but the victim collapsed about a block away.

He was taken to hospital where he died an hour later from massive stab wounds.

Pat Hirsche, senior investigator for the medical examiner's (coroner's) office said the victim had been tentatively identified through a social security card in his pants pocket.

A man who was in the emergency ward of the Royal Alexandra Hospital when the victim was brought in said he heard one of the ambulance attendants say he was stabbed after an argument involving three other men.

John Mendoca described the scene as bloody.

"He was just full of blood all over," Mendoca said.

Kenya's Kenyatta Dies

NAIROBI (UPI) — Jomo Kenyatta, leader of the Mau Mau black rebellion of the 1950s who went on to become president of one of the most moderate nations in Africa, died peacefully in his sleep today, the government announced.

He was about 85 though his exact birthdate was never established.

His death left the battle for the nation's leadership wide open.

Once described by British colonial Governor Sir Patrick Renison as a "leader to darkness and death," Kenyatta, the last of Africa's modern nationalist politicians, became president on Kenya's independence in 1963. He confounded his white critics by keeping the East African nation firmly in the Western camp.

His nationalist activities earned him the nickname "Burning Spear" from his devoted Kikuyu fellow tribesmen.

Kenyatta died at Statehouse in the Indian Ocean port of Mombasa, an official statement said.

The government ordered all flags in this moderate East African nation to be flown at half mast and urged the country's 16 million people to remain calm.

B.C. Fish Firm Wants Seized Boat Back

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver fishing company has begun legal proceedings to retrieve a $30,000 fishing boat being held following the arrest of a Vancouver fishermen charged with illegally fishing in United States waters.

The boat was rented by Joseph Herioshi Negero, a Vancouver gillnetter. Negero, who appeared before a federal magistrate in Port Angeles, Monday, is the first Canadian fisherman taken into custody in the Pacific region since the reciprocal fishing agreement between the two countries broke down June 4, said a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman.

Terry Olson, Canadian Fishing Co. Ltd. spokesman, said today that Negero rented the 32-foot steel-hulled gillnetter from the company for the season.

The company has no control over where its boats are used, he said.

Negero appeared in U.S. federal court Monday and was released without bond. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 30 in Seattle.

The maximum penalty for fishing in U.S. waters is a $100,000 fine and six months in jail, said the coast guard. If Negero is convicted, the U.S. government has the option of keeping the vessel or returning it to the owner.

The coast guard cutter Point Countess seized the boat Sunday night after cutter personnel spotted it fishing about 900 metres inside U.S. territorial waters, 28 kilometres west of Port Angeles.

Brewery Just Too Tempting

A thirst for Canadian beer got the better of two men who were discovered early today inside Labatt's brewery on Government Street.

The men, aged 23 and 35, were found sitting on a beer skid in the brewery's warehouse by a security officer making his rounds at 2:30 a.m. An open case of beer rested beside them.

The security officer called police who took the pair into custody without incident.

A police spokesman said the men entered the premises by climbing over a steel fence and jimmying open a door to the warehouse.

They were to appear in provincial court charged with breaking and entering.

Meanwhile, breweries and their workers resumed negotiations in the 2½-month strike-lockout stalemate Monday and talks are to continue today.

Neither negotiator Clark Gilmour nor the union or the brewery negotiators would say where the talks were being held in Vancouver, and none of the negotiators was available for comment at the end of the session.

CBC Victoria On Economy Skids?

The fate of the CBC's new $7 million television station in Victoria was thrown into doubt Monday when Treasury Board president Robert Andras singled it out as a project under scrutiny in the federal government's spending cutback.

An announcement on the Victoria station would probably come within three weeks.

Andras said the television station, construction of which is well-advanced on Blanshard, and a proposed $100 million federal office building in Vancouver are the type of projects under review as part of Ottawa's plans to cut $2.5 billion from federal expenditures before 1980.

The CBC will have $71 million less next year than it had anticipated.

CBC regional director Len Lauk said in Vancouver today the Andras announcement means the CBC will be reviewing all its projects across Canada, looking for ways to cut spending.

He said construction of the Victoria station is at an advanced stage but the project would still be reviewed.

"The CBC may look at it again," Andras said of the Victoria station. "The plans for the station may be pretty far advanced, it may be late in the game, but the CBC would be wise to take a second look."

Also placed in doubt by Andras is the proposed new federal building in Vancouver which would house numerous government agencies under its roof. The building, now in the design stage, would cover an entire block in the city's downtown area.

The project should be subject to a second look by the federal public works department, said Andras, adding that the final decision on various projects rests with individual departments.

Andras refused to be pinned down on specifics of federal spending cutback plans and their impact on B.C. He would only say that various federal ministries will give details in the next several weeks.

The treasury board president said however that specific suggestions about where the cuts should be made went to his cabinet colleagues along with the list of departmental budget cuts he released Aug. 16.

Andras said the government is responding to a feeling across the country that government spending has to be held within reasonable bounds.

"The spending cuts are broad enough that we'll probably have everybody angry at us over one thing or another."

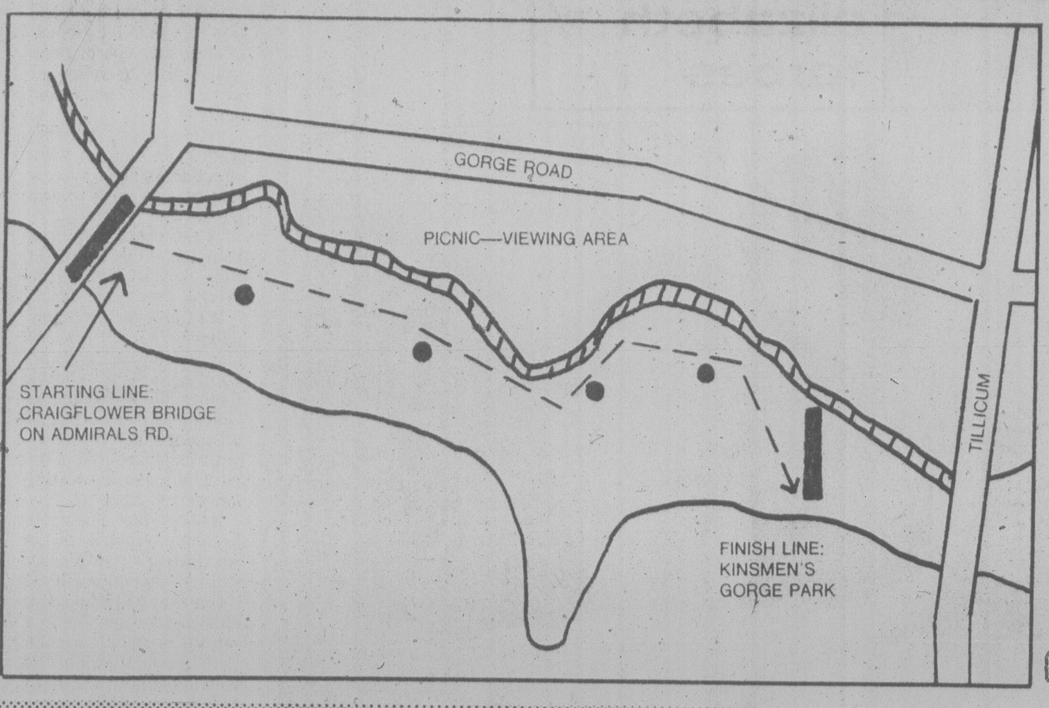
The Great Tube Race: Voyage to Remember



Getting there is all the fun in the Great Inner Tube Race.

Even those who don't quite make it to the finish line have a voyage to remember.

The race on Sunday, Sept. 10, starts under the Craigflower Bridge and follows a course near the northern bank of the Gorge (so the spectators can get a close-up look) and ends at Gorge Park.

The event is sponsored by the Victoria Times and organized by Hampton Park Hustlers, with all proceeds going to help amateur sport.

Inner tubes of any size may be used. Each tube has two people aboard, both paddling like mad while trying to stay dry.

Entrants must be at least 16 and must wear a life jacket because of the chance of an unscheduled swim.

The course is almost one kilometre long, especially taking into account the distance travelled to avoid other tubes. Four marking buoys will be in mid-Gorge to outline the route.

Thousands of spectators will be holding a picnic in the public park and trying not to laugh.

Lion's club and Kinsmen will be selling refreshments at low prices during the day.

Trophies are awarded to race winners in three categories, man-man, woman-woman and man-woman.

Prizes are also also awarded to the oldest team and the team that has come the farthest. Entries from several states and provinces are expected.

A parade at noon will precede the race. Contestants may place their tubes on decorated cars and are awarded prizes for costumes and over-all effect. Contestants are not required to enter the parade and non-contestants are welcome. It is all a casual, informal happening.

However, all contestants must fill out an official entry form in advance.

In addition to the parade and race, there will be a Tubers Ball on Saturday, Sept. 9. The dance at Victoria Curling rink is $5 a couple, couples only, and runs from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Miss Inner Tube will be selected from a number of contestants.

Proceeds from the dance go to teams sponsored by Hampton Park Hustlers but all other proceeds from the Great Inner Tube Race go to a great number of amateur teams in the Greater Victoria District.

Low Priority Seen On Rail Transit

Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Hugh Curtis says a commuter rail system from Langford to downtown Victoria won't be a high priority of the new Urban Transit Authority (UTA).

In the Lower Mainland, however, Curtis foresees the use of a commuter rail service within two years, although he said a move in that direction will be up to the newly appointed interim UTA board of directors.

"There's a significant population out there (Langford-Colwood), but it doesn't match the demand or interest we find in Vancouver. Therefore I find it unlikely either the province or the (UTA) board will try and advance it first," Curtis said.

Curtis, who emphasized he was only speculating because he is simply the cabinet liason to the UTA board, said the first new move in transit will be a rail commuter system in Vancouver.

He says there is sufficient funding available in the five-year financing formula announced two weeks ago to operate commuter trains on the existing CPR mainline running from Coquitlam to downtown Vancouver.

The use of those tracks has already been negotiated and agreed to in principle, Curtis said.

The minister also hauled out a new set of figures that indicate local taxation needed to facilitate the takeover of transit in Greater Victoria from B.C. Hydro will not be as severe as originally forecast.

At the UTA inaugural meeting Aug. 14, the 10-member board was told the local cost of running the buses will go from about $2 million next year to $4.2 or $5 million (depending on how rapid growth is) in the fifth year when the costs will stabilize.

The additional tax of three per cent a gallon on gasoline will still be needed from the start, but there will be no need for property tax levy starting in 1981 as originally forecast.

Victoria should be able to escape any form of property tax, Curtis said.

(Vancouver by contrast faces a mill rate increase of between one-half and 1½ mills depending on rate of growth).

And Victoria will escape a household power levy until the fifth year, and then it will only be 52 cents per household per year if the transit growth is moderate, or $7.21 per year if the growth is rapid.

Regardless of rate of growth in Vancouver, residents there face a $36.82 per household annual power surcharge by the fifth year of operation.

The revised figures will be presented to the UTA at the next board meeting in Victoria Aug. 31.

The UTA was set up under legislation passed this spring as the first step of a new Crown corporation that will operate all public transit systems in the province.

Huge Pot Haul As Plots Spotted From Helicopter

An RCMP helicopter squad has seized more than a ton of marijuana plants over the past two weeks from clandestine plots in remote areas on Lesquiti Island.

Staff-Sgt. Lou Biggermann of the Parksville RCMP detachment said today 1,000 pounds was seized on Monday after a police helicopter pilot discovered five marijuana gardens growing in small clearings three days ago.

One of the plants was 12 feet tall.

It was the largest seizure to date.

Last week officers cleared out 700 pounds of plants found in another garden and two weeks ago they harvested more than 600 pounds from two more isolated plots.

Biggermann is awaiting authorization from Ottawa to take the plants to Comox where they will be destroyed.

So far no charges have been laid.

Visiting Pair Hurt Slightly In Mishap

Two visitors from Calgary escaped with minor injuries after their car severed a power pole on the Trans Canada Highway at Helmcken Monday evening.

It was one of three accidents in Greater Victoria overnight.

Michael Miller, 21, and his sister Aggie, 17, were taken to Victoria General Hospital where they were treated for cuts and released.

The mishap occurred at 6:50 p.m.

An unidentified Armed Forces servicemen is in fair condition in Royal Jubilee hospital after his motorcycle went off the road in the 4100-block Sooke Road at 7 p.m.

Colwood RCMP said the man, whose name is being withheld pending notification of next of kin, received multiple cuts and fractures to his legs and back.

A single-car accident on Pat Bay Highway south of the Quadra Street overpass at 4:20 a.m. today sent two Saanich women to hospital.

Saanich police said driver Sherridan Amber McGillivray, 20, of 203-69 Burnside and passenger Roxanna Shama, 19, of 135 Crease were treated at Royal Jubilee and released.

The car was demolished.

In other mishaps, a 25-year-old Oak Bay woman is in fairly good condition at Royal Jubilee after she was thrown out of a car that collided with another vehicle at Cedar Hill Crossroad and Cadboro Bay noon Monday.

Georgina Gower of 1830 Fern received a hair-line fracture of her pelvis.

Oak Bay police said the car rolled at least twice and skidded on its roof a distance of 120 feet.

Two other occupants in the car were uninjured.

Mika Raps Council Move

Saanich Ald. John Mika today criticized his council colleagues for hurriedly pushing through a development area designation on property at 5699 West Saanich Road, where the owners want to establish a recreational vehicle campsite.

Council voted 4 to 2 Monday night to give first readings to a bylaw designating the 8.6-acre site a development area — the first step toward negotiating a land-use contract.

Only Ald. Ian Cass joined Mika in opposing the move, which came two weeks after council had turned down a rezoning application from the property owners, George and Shannon Maier.

Several other property owners in the area had signed a petition urging council to reject the proposed development.

Mika noted today that council had seen no formal application for the development area designation, nor was there any report from the municipal planner and Advisory Planning Commission (APC).

"I am just dumbfounded that council would have granted something before it was even applied for," he said.

"I am very upset about the whole thing and the way it seems to be developing. I know they (the Maiers) have been lobbying individual aldermen."

Mika said he still believes a recreational vehicle campsite in that area would be totally unsuitable.

And he cannot see how, having strongly recommended rejection of the original proposal, the Saanich planner can now be expected to negotiate the terms of a land-use contract.

In its earlier report to council, the APC said the recreational vehicle campsite would be "unacceptable based on land-use policies for tourist accommodation," which require a full and close range of services including municipal, transportation, commercial and recreational uses.

The report said the West Saanich Road location would be too remote for the proposed use and the impact of recreational motor vehicles would be "intrusive to the enjoyment of the neighborhood by existing residents."

The APC said the rezoning application should be rejected because the scope of the zone applied for was too broad, allowing not only a campsite but also hotel and motel development.

When the item's reappearance on Monday night's agenda was queried by Mika, planner Gil Laurenson appeared to be uncertain why it was up for discussion so soon after council had rejected the original rezoning application.

Mayor Mel Couvelier told council it was there on his instructions.

"I believed the couple should not be left dangling any longer," he explained. "I wanted council to make a decision one way or another . . . it's an honest effort to come to a decision on a land-use matter."

Couvelier added that council had already seen the appropriate supporting documentation, and said he "assumed" council was going to see a revised application for a lower density of campsite units.

Aldermen Geoff Vantreight, Mary Casilio and David Paterson joined the mayor in giving three readings to a bylaw to designate the West Saanich property a development area. Aldermen Fred Severson, Howard Sturrock and Robert Cameron were absent.

Once the bylaw has received final reading the municipality will have to negotiate the terms of a land-use contract with the owners, and when the draft contract is ready the matter will be submitted to a public hearing.

A Penguin Behind the Tweed Curtain?

Penguins in Oak Bay?

Ed Smith, 2420 Dryfe, swears that at least one penguin has roamed the streets behind the Tweed Curtain.

It happened 30 years ago when he and his partner, the late Art Dyer, were employed by Oak Bay.

They were mowing the boulevard one day when they saw a penguin waddling toward them, his plumage coated with oil.

They cleaned the bird up as best they could and at the end of the day Smith got astride his bicycle and took the penguin home to show his children.

The next day Smith took the penguin back on the job with him, making the bird comfortable in the boulevard box used for grass clippings.

Smith says a government official came along and offered to take care of the penguin. He went off with the bird and neither Smith nor Dyer ever found out what finally happened.

Smith says some time later he heard that there had been an oil slick at Cadboro Bay.

Veteran television public affairs host Andy Stephen is leaving CHEK and CHAN-TV's Capital Comment after 22½ years.

The program will continue, but with a new host. No reason was given for removing Stephen. The decision was made in Vancouver at BCTV headquarters.

DUNCAN — A 16-year-old boy was to appear in Family Court here today charged with second degree murder in connection with the weekend death of a two-and-a-half-year-old child.

Duncan RCMP said Gurgit Singh Dhaliwal was found dead in a house at 6210 Hawkes Boulevard about 10 a.m. Saturday.

Results of an autopsy conducted in Victoria Sunday have not been released but a police spokesman indicated today the child died of multiple injuries from blows.

The spokesman said the dead child's parents were not at home and the accused juvenile had been babysitting the Dhaliwal boy and one other child at the time of the incident.

The second child was not harmed.

MUNRO DEMANDS TALKS

Vacation Plan Chaos As Travellers Panic

Travellers panicked by the impending Air Canada strike are either cancelling vacations, transferring to U.S. airlines or using any other means to leave Victoria.

According to reports from across Canada, the situation here is typical.

Meanwhile, it was reported today that Federal Labor Minister John Munro has asked representatives of Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association to meet him today in an effort to avert a strike by the pilots.

Captain Norman Foster, chief negotiator for the pilots said in an interview that he received "a very specific request from Mr. Munro to meet in Ottawa."

Local travel agencies report they are struggling under a gigantic logistics problem caused by people who don't want to take a chance with their holidays.

Most agencies worked until midnight Monday making alternate arrangements, which for the most part means flying people to the U.S.

People returning to Victoria from vacations elsewhere in Canada and abroad are also being rerouted through the states.

CP Air phone lines have been jammed since Sunday when the strike possibility was announced, according to an airlines spokesman.

He said there is little CP Air can do because it is at its late summer peak and booked solid.

CP Air is allowed to handle 25 per cent of all transcontinental flights compared with the 75 per cent allotted to Air Canada, the spokesman said.

"This is an abnormal situation. All our equipment is committed and there is very little we can do to take up the slack."

Greyhound Bus Lines reports long lineups materialized Monday at its Victoria terminal after the news of a possible shutdown Wednesday midnight by Air Canada.

Via Rail has had a sudden increase in reservations.

Airline officials estimate about 40,000 persons use the airline daily at this time of year and a strike would cost the airline about $2.5 million a day.

According to Eric Charman of Featherstone Travel, the economic damage caused by the strike threat is irreparable, even if negotiations resume.

"The damage has been done; the revenue has been lost to Canada. That's more money out of the country." Charman said today.

Charman said this air service disruption is another major disaster to the Canadian tourist industry because Canada is getting a bad reputation.

"People are starting to wonder what the hell is going on in Canada."

He said a lot of disappointed people who have been

Pet shop owner Hubertus Kaatz chucks chin of $219.99 merchandise

Bandit the Pet Raccoon Steals Lots of Attention

A Victoria pet store has a raccoon for sale for $219.99 and Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals manager Don Adams isn't too happy about the idea.

Adams says his organization would like a ban on raccoons as pets but as long as the animals are given adequate food, water and shelter it is powerless to act.

The 10-week-old raccoon, Bandit, has drawn a great deal of attention since he arrived at the Sea Shore Pet Shop at the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Store owner Hubertus Kaatz says Bandit's high price tag is due to the fact he was born and hand-raised on a Californian raccoon breeding farm.

Kaatz warns that owning a raccoon is demanding. "They need lots of attention. I don't really care if I do sell him," he says.

Kaatz says raccoons should never be left alone at large in a home because of the likelihood of their going on the rampage.

Bandit was raised on a bottle and fed a special formula including milk, pablum, dog and cat food.

Kaatz warns that prospective purchasers should be sure they are prepared to give the animal the attention it needs.

As they get older, raccoons become more demanding and rambunctious and should be spayed or neutered to cut down on temperament problems.

"The female is usually okay for about a year until she reaches her first sexual cycle. Then she becomes very aggressive. The male becomes aggressive sooner," Adams says.

He says when this happens the owner often sets the animal free but by that time the damage is done. The raccooon has no fear of people. "They actually attack people."

He says a friend of his was severely bitten on a leg and foot when he entered a Pat Bay garage where the owner keeps four or five raccoons.

The provincial government's wildlife act allows people to keep a maximum of two wild raccoons as pets but officials do not recommend the practice.

Clio Matheson of the Wild Life Reserve of Western Canada says raccoons are very gentle for the first three months and then become aggressive.

Provincial fish and wildlife officer Jack Lenfesty says released raccoons can become dangerous if they are cornered.

He says the wild raccoon population is on the increase. "They are a damn nuisance. They can make a shambles of an ornamental lily pond if they get into it looking for frogs."

His advice: "Don't feed them. Don't encourage them."

EDMONTON (CP) — City police say a 13-year-old boy is being held in connection with a series of arsons which caused more than $130,000 damage in the city.

Many Stranded

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP) — A 30-minute cloudburst poured 19.05 millimetres of rain on northern Umatilla County this morning, triggering flash floods, washing out roads and stranding many people in their homes.

$ Gain Reversed

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar opened lower on most European money markets today, reversing Monday's comeback following indications the Carter administration was willing to take concrete action to prop the failing currency. Gold was higher.

Railmen Vote To Stay Out

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — About 300 British Columbia Railway workers in this north central B.C. city voted unanimously Monday night to continue a wildcat strike which began Sunday.

Union spokesman said workers agreed to remain off the job because BCR withdrew an offer that it would take no reprisals against strikers when they returned to work.

A wage offer made by BCR was also rejected because the union said it exceeded federal anti-inflation guidelines and would never be accepted by the government.

The Joint Council of Railway Unions, representing seven BCR unions, said it had nothing to do with the strike.

A spokesman for the strikers said they prefer to deal directly with the government because they do not trust third-party negotiators.

The strike started when about 150 BCR workers here saying they were tired of waiting for an official strike vote, walked off the job.

VICTORIA MAN STAB VICTIM

A 22-year-old Victoria man is dead from stab wounds and two Victoria-area youths are in custody following a street fight in Edmonton early today.

Charged with second degree murder are David Edgar Roy Graves and Andrew John Carter, both 18 and from the Greater Victoria area.

They were to appear in Edmonton provincial court this afternoon.

The name of the dead man has not been released.

An Edmonton police spokesman said three youths became involved in a fight in front of the Hotel Corona on Jasper Avenue about 3 a.m.

As police arrived the three ran off, but the victim collapsed about a block away.

He was taken to hospital where he died an hour later from massive stab wounds.

Pat Hirsche, senior investigator for the medical examiner's (coroner's) office said the victim had been tentatively identified through a social security card in his pants pocket.

A man who was in the emergency ward of the Royal Alexandra Hospital when the victim was brought in said he heard one of the ambulance attendants say he was stabbed after an argument involving three other men.

John Mendoca described the scene as bloody.

"He was just full of blood all over," Mendoca said.

Brewery Just Too Tempting

A thirst for Canadian beer got the better of two men who were discovered early today inside Labatt's brewery on Government Street.

The men, aged 23 and 35, were found sitting on a beer skid in the brewery's warehouse by a security officer making his rounds at 2:30 a.m. An open case of beer rested beside them.

The security officer called police who took the pair into custody without incident.

A police spokesman said the men entered the premises by climbing over a steel fence and jimmying open a door to the warehouse.

They were to appear in provincial court charged with breaking and entering.

Meanwhile, breweries and their workers resumed negotiations in the 2½-month strike-lockout stalemate Monday and talks are to continue today.

Neither negotiator Clark Gilmour nor the union or the brewery negotiators would say where the talks were being held in Vancouver, and none of the negotiators was available for comment at the end of the session.

Kenya's Kenyatta Dies

NAIROBI (UPI) — Jomo Kenyatta, leader of the Mau Mau black rebellion of the 1950s who went on to become president of one of the most moderate nations in Africa, died peacefully in his sleep today, the government announced.

He was about 85 though his exact birthdate was never established.

His death left the battle for the nation's leadership wide open.

Once described by British colonial Governor Sir Patrick Renison as a "leader to darkness and death," Kenyatta, the last of Africa's modern nationalist politicians, became president on Kenya's independence in 1963. He confounded his white critics by keeping the East African nation firmly in the Western camp.

His nationalist activities earned him the nickname "Burning Spear" from his devoted Kikuyu fellow tribesmen.

Kenyatta died at Statehouse in the Indian Ocean port of Mombasa, an official statement said.

The government ordered all flags in this moderate East African nation to be flown at half mast and urged the country's 16 million people to remain calm.

B.C. Fish Firm Wants Seized Boat Back

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver fishing company has begun legal proceedings to retrieve a $30,000 fishing boat being held following the arrest of a Vancouver fishermen charged with illegally fishing in United States waters.

The boat was rented by Joseph Herioshi Negero, a Vancouver gillnetter. Negero, who appeared before a federal magistrate in Port Angeles Monday, is the first Canadian fisherman taken into custody in the Pacific region since the reciprocal fishing agreement between the two countries broke down June 4, said a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman.

Terry Olson, Canadian Fishing Co. Ltd. spokesman, said today that Negero rented the 32-foot steel-hulled gillnetter from the company for the season.

The company has no control over where its boats are used, he said.

Negero appeared in U.S. federal court Monday and was released without bond. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 30 in Seattle.

The maximum penalty for fishing in U.S. waters is a $100,000 fine and six months in jail, said the coast guard. If Negero is convicted, the U.S. government has the option of keeping the vessel or returning it to the owner.

The coast guard cutter Point Countess seized the boat Sunday night after cutter personnel spotted it fishing about 900 metres inside U.S. territorial waters, 28 kilometres west of Port Angeles.

CBC Victoria On Economy Skids?

The fate of the CBC's new $7 million television station in Victoria was thrown into doubt Monday when Treasury Board president Robert Andras singled it out as a project under scrutiny in the federal government's spending cutback.

An announcement on the Victoria station would probably come within three weeks.

Andras said the television station, construction of which is well-advanced on Blanshard, and a proposed $100 million federal office building in Vancouver are the type of projects under review as part of Ottawa's plans to cut $2.5 billion from federal expenditures before 1980.

The CBC will have $71 million less next year than it had anticipated.

CBC regional director Len Lauk said in Vancouver today the Andras announcement means the CBC will be reviewing all its projects across Canada, looking for ways to cut spending.

He said construction of the Victoria station is at an advanced stage but the project would still be reviewed.

"The CBC may look at it again," Andras said of the Victoria station. "The plans for the station may be pretty far advanced, it may be late in the game, but the CBC would be wise to take a second look."

Also placed in doubt by Andras is the proposed new federal building in Vancouver which would house numerous government agencies under its roof. The building, now in the design stage, would cover an entire block in the city's downtown area.

The project should be subject to a second look by the federal public works department, said Andras, adding that the final decision on various projects rests with individual departments.

Andras refused to be pinned down on specifics of federal spending cutback plans and their impact on B.C. He would only say that various federal ministries will give details in the next several weeks.

The treasury board president said however that specific suggestions about where the cuts should be made went to his cabinet colleagues along with the list of departmental budget cuts he released Aug. 16.

Andras said the government is responding to a feeling across the country that government spending has to be held within bounds.

"The spending cuts are broad enough that we'll probably have everybody angry at us over one thing or another."
